MILNE KIDNAPING TALE A HOAX

TAX SPENDING GROWTH DRAWS STERN WARNING

Figures Cited at City Budget Hearing.

Local governments in Cook county must keep their expenditures at the lowest possible level consistent with economical and efficient public service, according to Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency. Mr. Sutherland spoke yesterday at a public hearing on the 1936 city budget before the finance committee of the city council.

The "sensible procedure" from the standpoints of public officials, employés and taxpayers should be to keep taxes down, to make legal levies and to collect the levies, Mr. Sutherland said. He warned against a sharp upward trend in tax extensions which would mean increased tax rates for 1936.

Accounting and tax collecting machinery must be revamped and modernized immediately, he asserted, or there will be a breakdown in local government financing "infinitly worse" than the one in the last few years.

Another Meeting Thursday.

Mr. Sutherland was the only speaker at the budget hearing, although about twenty citizens attended. The tentative city budget calls for expenditures of $122,062,082, of which amount $50,875,116 is the corporate [operating] fund. The finance committee will consider amendments at a meeting next Thursday afternoon and then will submit its final figures to the council for passage on Friday.

"In commenting on the 1936 appropriation bill," Mr. Sutherland said, "the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency calls your attention to the fact that although the total tax extension, for all governing units, on property within the city dropped from an all time high of over $252,000,000 in 1930 to a little more than $153,000,000 in 1933, yet appropriation bills now being considered by the various governments indicate that for 1936 the grand total bill against city property will run between $180,000,000 and $190,000,000, or a prospective increase over the 1933 total of between $27,000,000 and $37,000,000.

Terms Figures Excessive.

"The total tax extensions of the various funds of the incorporated city of Chicago shrank from an all time high of over $92,000,000 in 1930 to slightly in excess of $49,000,000 in 1933. We are far from convinced that there ever was necessity for a $92,000,000 property extension on behalf of the municipality of Chicago."

Sutherland pointed out that the several governments cannot go on refunding bonds year after year, and that when these refunding operations cease, bond and interest extensions will almost immediately increase in size.

"With reference to keeping taxes down," he said, "we feel very strongly that the taxpayers of this community probably will not in the near future submit to a tax bill anywhere near approaching the $252,000,000 in 1930.

Urges Study of Pay Rates.

"Since salaries and wages and personal services constitute by far the largest single item of operating expense, we suggest that before any consideration be given or commitments made as to further pay restorations, a very careful study of living costs and comparable salaries paid in private employment for like work be conducted.

"As to making legal levies, the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency is on record as favoring legislation for adjudication of tax levies before extension, so that all taxpayers may be treated alike in the payment of their taxes. The city legal department should give serious thought to this problem.

Problem of Collection.

"We realize that the elected officials of the city do not have legal control of the tax collecting machinery, but we feel quite certain that the influence and counsel of these officials and the officials of the other large tax spending bodies can and must be centered upon securing at once a complete revamping and modernization of the tax collecting and accounting machinery.

"We feel that we cannot overemphasize the point that appropriating money and actually getting it to spend are two different things."

5 PLANES BOMB RIVER OF LAVA TO SAVE TOWN

Try to Divert Flow from Mauna Loa.

HILO, Hawaii, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Five army airplanes scored "hits" as they bombed Mauna Loa volcano today in man's first attempt to turn back a lava eruption with his own devices.

Twenty 600 pound bombs dropped and exploded on the river of molten rock that for five weeks has been creeping menacingly toward the city of Hilo and its water supply. Witnesses miles away saw enormous puffs of smoke and earth shoot into the sky. The tenth missil hurled lava sheets high in the air, indicating it had struck directly in the fiery channel.

Reports Attack as "Success."

Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, government volcanologist, said the airmen had "remarkable success" in hitting the targets designated by him.

Capt. Joseph J. Ladd dropped the first bomb. It apparently hit its mark, but he noted no change in the lava flow. It was said, however, the results would not be apparent for 24 hours.

The big bombs fell high up on the slope of the volcano, about 40 miles from Hilo. The planes flew about 13,000 feet above sea level, the bombs dropping about 2,000 feet to find their targets near the 11,000 foot level of the mountain.

Two Bombing Flights.

Two flights of five planes each dropped the bombs on an area near the lava source, directing the missils at spots between the red lava patches. Jaggar believed lava tubes may lie under the surface between these patches. Should this be true, he hopes the bombs may have opened new vents in the volcano's side through which the lava could escape in a direction away from Hilo.

When the bombardment began the lava flow was about 15 miles from the city. During the night the flaming river had advanced by spurts for about a mile.

The scene was awesome and terrifying.

At the head of the flow was a tongue of fire 200 feet wide. It rumbled, hissed and devoured brush and trees in single bursts of flame.

Ear-Splitting Explosions.

To the rear of this fiery head the flow spread gradually to a width of 800 feet. Ear-splitting explosions occurred, as if underground activity was paralleling the surface flow.

"While there is no occasion for panic," said Jaggar, "there is considerable concern in the present situation among officials and others. They realize the condition is unusually serious, as the flow is directly in the drainage path [leading toward Hilo], whereas others were not."

The drainage path to Hilo is the Wailuku river. About 11 miles up this river from Hilo are the reservoirs containing the municipal water supply.

City Threatened Before.

Should the lava enter the reservoirs and the stream, it might convert the water into steam and take possession of the river bed to race on into the city.

Hilo, a port of about 20,000 population, has been threatened by previous flows, but the lava never has entered the city.

In 1881 a stream of molten rock crept to within one mile of the city. Princess Ruth of the royal Hawaiian family confronted the oncoming lava and called upon Pele, Hawaiian volcano goddess, to desist. The flow stopped.

A PECULIAR SANTY

He Always Takes Away More Than He Leaves.

Jury Lets Off Million Dollar Note Signers

After deliberating almost four hours, a jury before Superior Judge Donald S. McKinlay returned a verdict last night setting aside a judgment of $970,139 which had been obtained against County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and fourteen other former directors of the defunct Home Bank and Trust company.

The judgment was obtained by the National Republic company, present holder of a million dollar note which the directors signed at a midnight meeting of the board on July 10, 1930, during the formation of the United American Trust and Savings bank, to succeed the Home bank. The note originally was signed in favor of the National Bank of the Republic, under whose supervision the new bank was formed.

Signed as "Accommodation."

It was following the closing of the United bank in 1932 that an effort was made to collect on the note and the directors refused payment. Later the National Republic company, liquidation agent for the National Bank of the Republic, gained the judgment.

During the trial that ended last night after six weeks the directors testified that they signed the note at the request of George Woodruff, then chairman of the National Bank of the Republic, with the assurance they would assume no liability. They asserted that the note was signed as an accommodation and was to have been used to prevent a bank run.

"I was dumfounded when I was told that I would be held liable for the note," Judge Jarecki testified.

Business Deal, Says Attorney.

It was the contention of attorneys for the National Republic company that the signing of the note was a business transaction. In his argument to the jury Attorney George T. Buckingham, counsel for the National Republic company, declared:

"That money belongs to 4,000 stockholders whom I represent. It was a cold business proposition. If the institutions of this country are to survive men's obligations must be respected."

After the verdict had been returned, Henry W. Klein, 7303 North California avenue, an unemployed gardener, who was foreman of the jury, explained that the jurors believed the testimony of the directors.

"We considered the signing of the note was just a lot of high finance," Klein explained.

In addition to Judge Jarecki the other signers of the note were W. A. Wieboldt, founder of W. A. Wieboldt & Co.; Superior Judge Peter H. Schwaba, Paul Drymalski, member of the Cook county board of tax appeals and president of the Polonia Coal company; Ernst Fenske, furniture dealer; A. J. Orthal, department store owner; Fred W. Georgs, a real estate dealer; John G. Carlson, owner of a paint and varnish business; Thomas P. Hair, an official of the Northwestern Yeast company; Meyer Tattelbaum, a baker; Louis D. Glanz, a mortgage dealer; Peter L. Evans, former president of the Home bank; L. H. Prybylski, L. E. Johnson, and John J. Krause, Home bank officers.

Insull Vague on Plans for Radio Chain

Reports in La Salle street yesterday indicated that Samuel Insull, former utilities magnate, is planning to become the active head of a chain of small radio broadcasting stations in the middle west.

Whether the plans are sufficiently matured to make certain their success was somewhat doubtful last night. Mr. Insull declined to make any direct comment on the projected radio chain.

"I have been considerjng many different businesses," he said, "and there is nothing I can say now. My plans are too indefinite."

Several Stations Queried.

It is known that the managements of some stations in the Chicago area have been sounded out on their willingness to enter a combination headed by the former chairman of Commonwealth Edison and other large corporations.

One of these stations is WWAE of Hammond. Officials of that organization declared last night they had no intention of joining the chain.

Medford Maxwell, head of station WCLS at Joliet, another that had been mentioned as a link in the chain, declared that he had not even been approached on the subject.

It was reported that the new chain might take over studios in the Civic Opera building which will be vacated in mid-January by station WENR, one local outlet for NBC.

Reported Backers Silent.

Several persons whom the gossips named as interested in the scheme denied participation and others were noncommittal. George Buffington, a partner of Winthrop, Mitchell & Co., brokers, who had been mentioned as one of a group raising $100,000 capital for the venture, declined to discuss the matter.

In any event, it is not expected that any offering of stock in the chain, which has been tentatively given the name Affiliated Broadcasting company, will be made to the public.

Ota Gygi, musician, who attempted several years ago to put over a radio chain headed by Ed Wynn, the comedian, is said to be the principal promoter of the Insull chain organization and the man who will act as program director if and when it reaches the stage of reality.

The suggested combination would include at least 15 small stations, of 100 to 500 watt power, in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Iowa.

Hoped to Win Stage Chance, Heir Explains

New York, Dec. 28 [Saturday].—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, announced today that Caleb Milne IV. had signed a statement that his so-called kidnaping was an "entire hoax."

After questioning the 24 year old scion of a wealthy Philadelphia textile family throughout the night, Hoover said he admitted conceiving the idea because he was in financial straits.

Ransom notes to his grandfather, Caleb J. Milne II. of Philadelphia had demanded $20,000 for release of the youth, who disappeared from his apartment here on Dec. 14 and was found trussed four days later near Doylestown, Pa.

Hopes for Chance on Stage.

Milne told him, Hoover said, he hoped the publicity would lead to employment on the stage. He has been an amateur actor and mystery story writer.

Hoover said Milne told him this story:

"Milne went to a five and ten cent store and bought a tube of mucilage and a pair of cotton gloves. In his apartment he took a rubber stamp and cut out odd words from newspapers.

"He pasted them to sheets of wrapping paper. He wrote three letters which he sealed in envelopes and addressed.

"On Saturday, Dec. 14, he left his apartment asking his landlady for directions to Gracie square. [Milne had said a 'Dr. Green of Gracie square' had phoned him his grandfather was ill in Philadelphia and that they were to drive to that city.]

Watch and Bloodstained Paper.

"He went to Gracie square and later to a barber shop in the Grand Central station. He had with him a package which contained his wrist watch and an Albany newspaper which he had touched with blood. He mailed the package.

"The letter to his brother [declaring he had been kidnaped] was placed on the end of a Pullman train leaving Grand Central station at 1:40 p. m. for Albany.

"It was picked up later and mailed from Poughkeepsie. Young Milne was never in Poughkeepsie.

Several Days in Trenton.

"Milne did not get on the train. He took a bus to Trenton, spent the night there, in fact, he spent several days in Trenton, but I can't say where at this time.

"Wednesday evening, Dec. 18, he took a bus to Lambertville, N. J., got off there and crossed the Delaware river to New Hope, Pa.

"He started walking from New Hope until he got near Doylestown, then he went up by a school house, threw away his overcoat, brown hat, and gloves, taped his eyes and mouth, tied his ankles, knees, and hands and rolled down a hill toward the highway.

"A few minutes later a car came along and he was found, the supposed object of a kidnaping.

"The letters he sent to his family, which had been concocted in his own apartment, demanded $20,000 ransom.

"The asserted marks of hypodermic injections of narcotics Milne had admitted were made by himself with a pin.

Hoax a Secret from Relatives.

"As far as we know, none of the other members of the Milne family were informed by the boy, either before or after the supposed kidnaping, of the plan."

Hoover said Milne was being held "behind the bars some place in New York City." He said the facts of the supposed kidnaping would be placed before the United States district attorney's office and "Milne will probably be arraigned before the United States commissioner some time this morning."

TELEPHONE GIRL'S QUICK WIT SAVES LIVES OF FAMILY

Miss Grace Gallagher, a telephone operator at the Hemlock exchange, early today heard a feeble cry for help and then heard the phone fall. She found the call had come from a four party line and notified the Chicago Lawn police, giving them the four addresses.

Sergt. James McGurk and his squad found everything all right at two addresses, but at the third, at 5537 South Homan avenue, they smelled gas seeping from the bungalow and broke into the house. They found Charles Adair, 34 years old; his wife, Katherine, 33 years old, and their two children, Charles Jr., 2 years old, and Calvin, 10 years old, unconscious from coal gas which had seeped into their bedrooms from a faulty furnace pipe.

Lieut. James Hughes' inhalator squad revived the father and Calvin. Mrs. Adair and Charles Jr. were rushed to South Town hospital. It was the mother who tried to phone for help and fell unconscious.

LAVAL BRANDS LEAGUE FAILURE AS PEACEMAKER

French Chief Urges Military Pacts.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

PARIS, Dec. 27.—Bluntly informed by Premier Laval that the league of nations security system is unable to prevent war except when it is backed up by military alliances, the French chamber of deputies tonight appeared to be on the point of scrapping this country's traditional foreign policy.

The issue was squarely put up to the deputies by the premier when he appeared to face the fire of his enemies for his attempts to save Premier Mussolini from the rigors of the league covenant.

Urges Regional Pacts.

"Theoretically," Laval said, "the league draws its force from its universality. In reality this universality never has been fully realized. In practice the league would condemn itself as a failure if it refused to weigh objectively its own possibilities. This the league has done. It has always recognized that alongside its general obligations there are the modalities of execution.

"It was at Geneva that the principle and method of regional security pacts were proposed. The object of those pacts is to organize mutual assistance limited to particularly dangerous zones. Unless there are accords of this sort, automatic application of article XVI. of the covenent [providing for sanctions] will always be uncertain and of limited effectiveness."

Vote on Policy Today.

In this passage the deputies understood Laval to be singing the swan song of the league in its present dual role of super court and super police force, and under the euphemistic term of "regional assistant pact," to be proposing a return to the policy of balanced alliances of the great powers in the framework of an emasculated league—the secret goal of both French and British diplomacy for the last two months, in the opinion of many close observers.

Nearly half the chamber is opposed to this policy, but most political experts agree that Laval will scrape through by a thin margin in the final vote tomorrow.

This vote will not necessarily mean that France has thrown the league overboard. If the margin of victory is too slight, it is possible that Edouard Herriot, minister of state, and other Radical Socialist ministers, will resign, forcing Laval to resign also.

Opposes Foreign Policy.

Herriot is opposed to Laval's foreign policy. In the eyes of the left, Laval is the apostate and Herriot the faithful disciple of the late Aristide Briand; one word from him and Laval's probable victory would be changed into certain defeat.

What ties Herriot's hands is first, the fear of the French people as a whole of being dragged into war, and second, the demoralizing suspicion that even Capt. Anthony Eden, new British foreign secretary and one of the league's greatest champions, is secretly pursuing the same aim as Laval.

Though Laval's statement was a dealy blow to the league, and virtually announced the failure of the sanctions drive against Italy, it was not all sweet reading for Il Duce.

Takes Slap at Mussolini.

In speaking of the ill fated Paris peace proposals, which cost Sir Samuel Hoare his job as British foreign secretary, the premier used the following sharp words:

"The Italian government did not examine our suggestions with the promptness and comprehension which we were entitled to expect. I might add that a certain speech [Mussolini's defiant speech at Pontinia] did not facilitate our task."

There was also a stern warning to Il Duce that if he attacks the British fleet because of sanctions, France will keep its promise to come to Britain's aid, and will throw its whole strength into battle.

Opposes Oil Embargo.

"In accordance with the third paragraph of article XVI.," Laval said, "I did not hesitate to engage France to come to the aid of Britain on sea, on land, and in the air, if it is attacked by Italy in the application of sanctions. In order to dissipate any doubt that may exist I wish here to reaffirm the declaration already made to the British ambassador and confirmed to Hoare personally."

This was stronger than any statement yet made by a responsible French statesman because it does not limit France's rôle purely to support but threatens Il Duce with invasion of his territories and aerial bombardments if he goes to war with Britain.

Because of the gravity of this commitment Laval made it clear that he is opposed to an oil embargo which might drive Mussolini to war. Implicitly he made it almost as clear that there is no question of relaxing existing sanctions until some agreement is accepted by Mussolini.

Continues to Seek Peace.

At the same time he announced his determination to make further attempts to negotiate a settlement of the Ethiopian war, not necessarily waiting for Mussolini to take the initiative.

Laval's speech was cheered by the right and hissed by the left. It undoubtedly had a strong effect on fence straddlers of the center, who will ultimately decide the battle.

The premier's chief adversary, Leon Blum, Socialist leader, delivered a violent personal attack on the premier, but seemed to be almost deliberately avoiding weak spots in his armor as if he were trying to save him instead of to overthrow him.

Yvon Delbos, president of the Radical Socialist chamber group, accused Laval of turning his back on the league and alienating France's friends throughout Europe. Paul Reynaud, right winger, attacked Laval's foreign policy on the ground that he had lost a priceless chance to win British gratitude, strengthen league sentiment in England, and thus guarantee France against an eventual German attack.

ETHIOPIA ASKS INDEMNITY

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Terms on which Emperor Haile Selassie's delegation to Geneva is authorized to discuss peace with Italy were disclosed in reliable quarters here today, coincident with government claims of a new victory on the northern front. The Geneva delegation was reported authorized to proceed on the following basis:

Withdrawal of Italian troops from Ethiopia; recognition of the African empire's sovereignty; payment of indemnity by Italy; delimitation of East African boundaries between Ethiopia and the Italian colonies by a league of nations committee, and foreign economic, administrative, and financial aid and advice for Ethiopia only on the condition there would be no Italian influence.

Italians Reported Routed.

A government communique said Ethiopian troops in the Tembien mountain region, north and west of Makale, had routed Italian outposts, capturing 11 machine guns and quantities of rifles and ammunition.

Authorities also received reports that the son of the imprisoned Ras Mailu had been slain in a tribal clash west of the Blue Nile river.

The reports coincided with official charges of an Italian fomented unrest in Gojjam province against payment of imperial taxes. Hailu, former governor of the province, was deposed in 1933 because of accusations that he had plotted with the Italians and now is held in chains on a prison island in southern Ethiopia.

His son also caused trouble for the government after the father was imprisoned, but was not considered dangerous and was allowed to go free.

Italy Reinforces Air Force.

ROME, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Italy was reliably reported tonight to have called out 4,200 new recruits for its air service. More than 1,000 of these specialists were said to be machine gunners.

Aviation circles predicted voluntary enlistment would open soon for 1,000 pilots who must be Black Shirts and have military service records in the classes of 1916 to 1918 inclusive.

Augmentation of the air service, followed by one day a report that 13,000 naval specialists had been called back into service.

Heavy Ethiopian losses in sharp fighting on the northern front were claimed today in an Italian communique.

"One of our detachments reconnoitering in the Takkaze sector repulsed an armed Ethiopian group near Afgaga pass," said the communique. "The adversary losses were serious. On our side six Italians and three natives were killed, four officers, nine Italian soldiers, and 37 natives wounded."

Fleet Maneuvers in Red Sea.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

MASSAUA, Eritrea, Dec. 27.—Italy's Red sea fleet, with a royal commander on the flagship bridge, tonight completed maneuvers which, informed sources said, were designed to make it ready to "face any eventuality."

Lieut. Col. Pedro A. Del Valle of the United States Marine corps, in East Africa as a military observer of the Italo-Ethiopian war, said the maneuvers were carried out with great efficiency. Col. Del Valle is naval attaché at the American embassy in Rome.

Renew Anti-British Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 27.—Renewing the anti-British campaign, two Fascist newspapers, Tribuna and Tevere, contended today that Great Britain is acting against Italy outside the framework of the league of nations.

Tribuna said British military measures in Egypt and Palestine began long before any league decision was taken and are in fact anti-league measures. Similar arguments were advanced by Tevere with regard to Britain's action in lining up Mediterranean allies.

"The British search for Mediterranean solidarity ought to be pursued through the organs of the league," the paper said. "But, on the contrary, this activity is taking place in a diplomatic half light, in the comfortable atmosphere of irresponsibility.

"Never has the league found itself in a more humiliating situation than the one in which it is now placed by the cold political calculations of Britain, accompanied by the imprudence of imperial military organs."

King of Belgians in Britain; Secret Mission Is Rumored

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Health or politics? This is the question being debated in political and diplomatic circles here tonight in connection with the second surprise visit of King Leopold of the Belgians to England within a month.

Rumors were revived that Leopold on his previous visit came as an emissary of his kinsman, King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, to support peace proposals sponsored later by Sir Samuel Hoare, then British foreign secretary, and Premier Laval of France.

Leopold's sister is the wife of the prince of Piedmont, heir to the Italian throne. At the beginning of this week his mother, Queen Elizabeth, returned to Brussels after visiting her daughter in Milan.

Mystery Surrounds Visit.

The object of Leopold's present trip, like the first, is stated to be to enable him to take a rest and consult a London specialist. But Sir Harold Gillies, the surgeon concerned, has gone to the country for the week-end and inquiries at his consulting room revealed that Leopold has so far made no appointment.

So secret is the visit that the Belgian embassy is not officially aware that its monarch is in the country. No engagements have been made for Leopold and the embassy has no information about his plans.

The Belgian king traveled incognito, arriving at Dover early this afternoon and journeying from there by train to Tonbridge, Kent. There he left the station unrecognized and sped off in a private automobile to an unknown destination.

British Envoy to Quit Rome.

Speculation is also rife concerning a report that Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador, will leave Rome tomorrow for a three weeks' vacation in England. Drummond had a long conversation with Fulvio Suvich, Italian foreign undersecretary, in Rome today.

Outwardly the position regarding sanctions remains unchanged. Following assurances from Jugo-Slavia, Greece, and Turkey, that they are ready to place their navies at the league's disposal in event of aggressive action by Premier Mussolini against the British in the Mediterranean, official circles here say they expect no further moves until the next regular meeting of the league of nations' council, scheduled for Jan. 20.

Nevertheless, Britain is working swiftly backstage to mobilize a league force with which to confront Mussolini in event of necessity. Hope is entertained that Poland and Russia will soon indicate a readiness to contribute formidable air forces to the pool.

WORKERS AT FRENCH BORDER GO ON STRIKE AGAINST RED TAPE

PERPIGNAN, France, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The workingmen of the frontier town of Cerbere went on strike today as a protest against international red tape.

On each side of the Franco-Spanish border hundreds of carloads of perishable merchandise awaited entry into the other nation.

France and Spain signed a treaty in Madrid last week permitting the interchange of goods, but border officials refused to let the merchandise cross the line on the grounds that their governments have sent no import or export licenses. Now the border is blocked even tighter than it was before the treaty was signed.

MISSION RESORT ON MOUNTAIN TOP REVERTS TO CHINA

KULING, Kiangsi Province, China, Dec. 28 [Saturday].—(AP)—This mountain top missionary resort, virtually independent for many years under an Anglo-American administration, will revert to Chinese control Jan. 1.

On that date the landowners will turn over their deeds to the Chinese government in exchange for government paper. The restoration of Chinese authority is a result of years of negotiation.

The Kuling estate was founded about 35 years ago on a bare tract of several square miles granted to a British missionary. It became a popular summer resort and is now the site of a thriving community, two-thirds of the area being owned by Americans.

Children of Tavern Club Members to Have Party

Edgar Miller, artist member of the Tavern club, last night was putting the finishing touches on an ice palace being constructed on the club's terrace atop the skyscraper at 333 North Michigan avenue for the entertainment of members' children who will attend a Christmas party tomorrow afternoon. Other artists and architects among the club's membership collaborated in the project. Ireene Wicker, "The Singing Lady" of radio; a clown, a magician, and a Punch and Judy show will entertain the youngsters.

French President Greets 'Typical American Boy'

PARIS, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Richard Heslin, 15 year old member of the Madison Square Boys' club of New York City, here as the guest of the newspaper Figaro as representing the typical American boy, called on President Lebrun today. Yesterday he was guest of honor at a reception by American newspaper correspondents after a day of sightseeing.

JAPAN CHARGES AMERICANS STIR UPRISING IN CHINA

Missionaries Accused of Aiding Students.

TOKIO, Dec. 27. — (AP) — Japan, through reports from consular agents, charged today that American and British missionaries were leading student agitation in China against Japan.

A government spokesman while disclosing that these accusations were made in the reports, declined to state what action, if any, the government would take in the matter.

Missionary participation was noteworthy, he commented, because in previous student agitation and demonstrations mission schools had remained aloof.

U. S. Official Mentioned.

The schools involved were not named by the spokesman. Japanese press dispatches from China said, however that an American official of Yenching university at Peiping, center of the North China autonomy movement, was a leading instigator of student strikes and other manifestations against Japanese control. The name of this American was not contained in the dispatches.

Other dispatches from China named American educated Chinese teachers in the various universities as among the leaders against the North China autonomy movement. These educators, however, insisted that the demonstrations were spontaneous.

Opponents of the autonomy movement in China claim it is sponsored by the Japanese army and that North China would become "another Manchukuo." Aims of the movement admittedly are closer coöperation with Japan and Manchukuo and a joint drive against communism.

A political council has already been established in Hopei and Chahar province and its program is semi-autonomous.

Troops Turn Back Students.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 27—Overwhelmed by more than 4,000 troops sent from Nanking by Dictator Chiang Kai-shek, 2,000 Shanghai students were forced to return to Shanghai from Wusih, half way to their goal, today. They were turned back after a five day struggle to reach Nanking to present a petition demanding immediate action against Japan.

The students left Shanghai Tuesday and reached Wusih yesterday. An unguarded locomotive was commandeered by the students, who ran it themselves. They formed a bucket chain to supply the engine with water and removed stones and other obstacles placed on the tracks by authorities.

Leaving Wusih, the students seized two more locomotives, but soon found the rails had been removed ahead of them. The students then tore up the tracks behind the train and filled the gaps ahead.

Troops Tear Up Bridge.

Outside of Wusih the students discovered a bridge had been wrecked by the troops who had arrived with machine guns and an armored car. Peasants and laborers helped repair the bridge, but the troops arrested the ringleaders and forced the train to halt. The exhausted students were finally compelled to give up their trip.

The trip was an outstanding demonstration of the rapidly gaining sentiment against Japan. Shanghai students are planning a mass march toward Nanking, while Cantonese students are arranging a three day hunger strike in sympathy with the Shanghai and Peiping demonstrators.

Martial law in important Chinese cities is failing to halt the continued anti-Japanese demonstrations.

VOLCANO TARGET OF U. S. AIR BOMBS

Five planes of the United States army yesterday attacked the volcano Mauna Loa with bombs as a burning river of lava crept menacingly toward the Hawaiian city of Hilo and its water supply. Twenty 600 pound bombs were dropped on the river of lava as indicated by the letters "A" and "B." The bombardment was ordered in an attempt to divert the flow of lava from the direction of Hilo and the water reservoirs located on the Wailuku river. Inset map shows the Hawaiian islands.

BRITAIN'S PRESTIGE IN SOUTH AMERICA HIT BY PEACE PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 27.—British prestige in South American countries suffered a severe jolt when Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, signed the Hoare-Laval peace plan for Ethiopia.

South Americans, who have always respected, even if they have not loved the British, now meet them with a mildly patronizing air—a reversal of the traditional British attitude toward "foreigners." British residents in Argentina are bitter in their condemnation of the Hoare plan and the reasons officially given for the British government's approval of it.

Travelers from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and Santiago, Chile, report a similar atmosphere in those countries, where British residents are writhing under a sense of humiliation which has impelled some of them to address messages to the British foreign office "such as that department has not received since the days the Dutch sailed up the Medway."

Scattered Rioting Still Reported in Venezuela

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Reports of scattered rioting still came from Venezuela today, but the government appeared to be in firm control after disorders growing from the death last week of President Juan Vicente Gomez.

DEPORTATION TO ITALY FACED BY ENEMY OF DUCE

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Vincent Ferrero, for thirty years a little restaurant owner in Oakland, Cal., tomorrow will be deported from New York to Italy, unless his lawyer can get a writ of habeas corpus to save him from the jail that awaits him in his native land.

Ferrero, and his friend and partner, Dominic Sallitto, also scheduled for deportation, are casualties, they insist, of a red-baiting campaign on the Pacific coast. Taken to Ellis Island late today, Ferrero described his situation.

"We were picked up by immigration authorities a year ago and charged with anarchism and handling and distributing a magazine called Man," Ferrero said.

"The magazine is perfectly legal and still is sent through the United States mails. As for us being anarchists, that is silly. We are against Mussolini, we are anti-Fascists, that's all."

Ferrero said he and his friend having had no hearing on their case presumed it had been dropped.

"Then all of a sudden, after a newspaper demand for action," Ferrero said, "we were called to New York and now they plan to send me back to Italy where every one knows I have written and spoken against Mussolini."

Sallitto is married; has a daughter, three, born in this country, has been here 13 years and has his first papers.

URUGUAY BREAKS OFF DIPLOMATIC TIES WITH RUSSIA

Acts to Prevent Revolt Led by Reds.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The Republic of Uruguay, asserting that "all America is menaced by violence," formally severed diplomatic relations with soviet Russia today.

This was the only country in South America recognizing the Moscow government.

Passports were handed Alexander Minkin, the soviet minister, and his staf. The Uruguayan chargé d'affaires in Moscow was recalled. A government decree insinuated that the Russian government through its legation here was financing Leftists and planned revolts throughout South America.

Accuses Soviet Legation.

"According to information from the Brazilian embassy," said the decree, "and information of our government the soviet legation in Montevideo has remitted in checks payable to the bearer large sums, the recipients of which cannot be determined," but "providing the foundation" for the presumption in Brazil that the soviet legation actively aided plans of the Third Internationale in South America.

The statement asserted that the soviet government could not disclaim any connection with the Third Internationale and its program in South America because Joseph Stalin, chief of the communist party, opened and closed the recent congress.

[The soviet newspaper Izvestia said today in Moscow that a movement is developing in Uruguay against monopoly and "is in answer to the interests of the ruling circles and foreign capital."]

Aimed to Balk Revolt.

The Uruguayan action was described as part of a precautionary movement against a possible armed uprising, and also was a repercussion of the recent Leftist revolt in Brazil.

After the Brazilian government crushed a radical uprising last month it protested to Montevideo that the plot was inspired through the soviet legation here.

The decree said an investigation here resulted in a strengthening of the "affirmations" by Brazil.

Relations were broken, it was added, "not only as an act of international solidarity" but also "in the safeguard of internal tranquility."

Chile Relieved.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 27.—Satisfaction and relief were expressed in Chilean government circles today when it was learned that Uruguay had finally acted to stifle Russian promoted Red propaganda at its source in Montevideo by severing relations with Moscow.

Surprise was expressed that the action was so long delayed. On many occasions the Chilean, Bolivian, and Peruvian governments have shown that revolutionary agitation has been directed from Montevideo.

Chilean police recently amassed a case against Russian agents active in the farm belt. All the propaganda was proved to have been printed in Montevideo while a radio station was discovered with a secret code of communications with an Uruguayan base.

HOPES OF SHORT, QUIET CONGRESS SESSION PERILED

Frazier-Lemke Inflation to Be First Blast.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Hopeful plans of congressional leaders for an orderly session today appeared in danger of being blasted sky high before the echoes of the opening day back-slapping have died away. Congress will open Jan. 3.

The first explosion is expected to come in the house where supporters of the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill announce they will start an immediate drive for a vote. Their campaign will provide an early test of President Roosevelt's strength in that body.

Sponsors of the measure have 207 names of representatives signed to a petition to force a vote over the wishes of Democratic leaders. They need only 11 names more to provide the majority of 218 necessary to thwart the administration's desires. If these names are obtained the measure would be brought out on the floor and the currency inflation issue made the excuse for many hours of wild-eyed oratory.

Battle Already Is On.

An undercover struggle is now being waged between opponents and supporters of the act—with the Democratic leaders attempting to persuade signers to withdraw and with the inflationists striving to hold the 211 in line while they get the few additional names necessary.

The bill provides for the issuance of 3 billion dollars in new currency to be used as a revolving fund for long time refinancing, at low interest rates, of all farm mortgages.

An attempt will also be made by the Townsendites to get their old age pension plan to a vote, but the leaders are not much worried. Only 47 names have been attached to a petition to compel a test on that.

Both houses will have an eye upon the Supreme court. Victories for the New Deal in the cases involving the agricultural adjustment act, cotton act, coal control, labor disputes, and utility holding company acts will help the program for a short and peaceful session. If, as is deemed probable by many observers, any or all of these laws are held unconstitutional, substitute plans probably will be offered and the session lengthened.

Short Session Imperiled.

Other developments are likely to spring up to defeat the plans for a short session.

Senator James P. Pope [Dem., Idaho] is considering a resolution for a congressional investigation of crime conditions in the United States. Such a proposal easily could develop into a broad inquiry into every phase of law enforcement and perhaps might parallel the Wickersham prohibition report. The flight of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his family from the United States undoubtedly will lend emphasis to the proposal.

The Democratic leaders hope to avoid general tax legislation at the session and hope that a compromise bonus bill can be worked out which can be passed with a minimum of verbal fireworks.

INDIAN RESCUES BOATMAN; FINDS BODY OF WOMAN

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Dec. 27.—(AP)—William McHale, 56, was in a critical condition from exposure today because he used his own clothes to cover the body of his trapping companion, Viola Monroe, after a Christmas eve trolling boat wreck. She died during the night.

Billy Johnson, 83, an Indian who rescued McHale yesterday, said the man became unconscious after telling this story:

A mountainous wave dashed McHale's trolling boat against a rock and washed him and Miss Monroe up on the rocky beach. On Christmas day the storm abated and McHale swam out to the wreck, got his own clothes and managed to unlash a skiff. He kept only a pair of trousers for himself and clothed his companion's body with the other apparel salvaged.

Johnson found McHale skulling along with a broken timber for an oar, with the woman's body in the skiff. The Indian stripped the body, dried the clothes and put them on McHale.

Germany to Let Only 100 Jews Emigrate to Palestine

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Only 100 German Jews will be permitted to emigrate to Palestine in 1936 with a capital of $5,000 under the terms of the Palestine-German transfer agreement. This was announced today by the Reichsbank. Shortage of foreign exchange, it was said, made this measure necessary.

TAX COLLECTIONS UP 19 PER CENT IN YEAR; TOTAL $217,100,000

Tax collections in Cook county for the fiscal year ending Dec. 1, 1935, totaled $217,100,108, an increase of $35,598,056, or 19 per cent over collections for the preceding twelve months.

These figures, made public yesterday by County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill, include taxes on real estate, personal property and railroads, and penalties on delinquent taxes. During 1935 the penalties collected totaled $4,099,326 while for 1934 this figure was $5,516,897.

The board of appeals reduced tax assessments by $115,587,138 during 1935. Of these reductions, $102,111,128 were on 1934 personal property assessments and $13,476,010 on 1933 real estate. Complaints on 1934 real estate valuations now are being heard.

County Assessor John S. Clark reported that 932,814 bills for 1934 personal property taxes were sent out. Of this amount 60,000 were returned undelivered. On further investigation the assessor found 15,000 of the missing taxpayers, but the other bills had to be canceled as it was believed they had been sent to out of town visitors.

Fees collected by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn this year totaled $1,537,302. Last year his office collected $1,098,966.

BLAST WRECKS $100,000 BUILDING OF STEEL PLANT

Middletown, O., Dec. 28 [Saturday].—(AP)—An explosion of undetermined cause early today wrecked a two story building housing the research department of the American Rolling Mill company with such force that Police Sergeant M. K. Byrd reported "not a brick in the building was left in place." The damage was estimated at $100,000.

The night watchman said there was no one in the buiding. Officials said about 30 persons are employed there during the day, but that most of the research work is carried on in laboratories across the street.

Plate glass windows nearly a mile away were shattered by force of the blast. A nearby three story office building also was seriously damaged.

Bound for Pasadena

Miss Helen Valkie, 21 years old, of Rhinelander, Wis., will be "Miss Personality" at ceremonies of the Rose festival in Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's day. She has been in dramatic work at the Pasadena Community playhouse for more than a year and was selected for the festival rôle in a Pasadena Chamber of Commerce contest. Accompanied by her father, Michael, Miss Valkie made a stop in Chicago yesterday on her return to California from a Christmas visit with her parents in Rhinelander.

SUBZERO WAVE ENDS; SNOW AND WARMER TODAY

Relief from the severe cold spell arrived in Chicago according to schedule yesterday. After hitting a new official low for the present winter, 3 below zero at 2 and 3 a. m., the mercury began an upward march and touched a high of 18 at 1:30 p. m. The reading at midnight was 16 above.

Forecaster A. W. Cook said that snow probably would fall early today. The low temperature, it is expected, will be about 10 above. A further rise to a maximum of about 24 is predicted for this afternoon.

The cold wave was of unusual extent. Temperatures fell below zero far south of the Ohio river early yesterday and the Atlantic seaboard was still struggling in near zero temperatures to dig out of heavy snowstorms. The eastern sections are expected to get relief today.

Heavy snows were falling late yesterday in the Rocky mountains, the Dakotas, and Minnesota. There was sleet in Oklahoma.

Tabulations made on a national scale showed that during the cold spell 67 persons were killed by exposure to extreme cold. Eight of these were in the Chicago area.

AUTOIST IS HELD TO JURY IN DEATH OF PEDESTRIAN

Lake County's Campaign Reduces Toll.

Leslie Bradley, 48 years old, 2329 Washington boulevard, whose automobile fatally injured John Shuk, 64, of 2724 West 15th street on Dec. 20, at Ogden and Fairfield avenues, was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter yesterday on recommendation of a coroner's jury. Five witnesses estimated Bradley's speed at 35 miles an hour.

Sustained emphasis on trafic safety has decreased Lake county's automobile death toll for 1935 to 4?, Coroner John L. Taylor reported yesterday. There were 56 fatalities last year.

At 4 p. m. yesterday 998 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. In the same period 777 were killed and 17,617 injured within the Chicago city limits. Cook county trafic deaths yesterday:

Carl Gruenberg, 65 years old, 4033 Nelson street, died in the Belmont hospital after he was struck at Fullerton avenue and Pulaski road by the automobile of Albert Sauerman, 24 years old, 2338 North Avers avenue.

George Dinapas, 38 years old, 805 West 35th place, died of injuries incurred on Nov. 2 when he stepped from behind a street car at 12th street and Wabash avenue and was hit by a truck driven by John Spatafora, 1013 Sedgwick street.

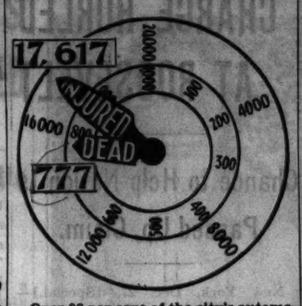

Unidentified man, 50 years old, struck by the automobile of Maurice Bassed, 30 years old, 547 East 47th street, on Dec. 15, at 418 Ogden avenue, died without regaining consciousness in the County hospital.

James Callahan Jr., 20 years old, 4816 Kenwood avenue, was injured early yesterday when the automobile in which he was a passenger collided with a street car at 47th street and Ellis avenue. Callahan is a son of the late James Callahan, manager of the White Sox baseball team, and is a University of Chicago sophomore. The driver and another passenger were unhurt.

Files $25,000 Damage Suit for 'Malicious Prosecution'

Suit for $25,000, charging malicious prosecution, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Henry I. Szymanski, 2149 Central Park avenue, Evanston, against Harold L. Jillson, 225 Linden avenue, Wilmette. Szymanski, who is president of the North Shore school of Physical Culture, charges in the bill that Jillson, formerly a student at the school, had him arrested Dec. 3 on a charge of obtaining a signature to a promissory note by false pretenses. Szymanski was acquitted of the charge in the Evanston municipal court.

THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

U. S. AUTO TOLL DROPS 1.4% FOR 1935 TO 35,500

Trafic deaths in the United States during the first 11 months of 1935 totaled 32,140, a reduction of more than 1 per cent from the 32,462 automobile fatalities of the corresponding period last year, according to a report yesterday by the National Safety council. R. L. Forney, chief statistician for the council, estimated the complete figure for this year will be 35,500, or a drop of nearly 1.4 per cent from last year's all-time high of 36,000.

Gasoline consumption figures indicate a 6 per cent increase in automobile travel during the time this casualty decrease was taking place. The council attributed the trafic decline to aroused public opinion, efforts of state and city officials and safety campaigns conducted by newspapers.

Illinois reduced its trafic deaths 12 per cent this year and tied for 6th place with Montana in the list of states showing improvement. North Dakota heads the list with 22 per cent decline. Oak Park and Evanston, both with 2 auto deaths this year as compared with 7 each in 1934, are tied for the lowest death rate of any American city in the 50,000 to 100,000 population group.

JUDGE TAKES UP AN 'I GOTTA DRAG' STAR; LEVIES FINE

Judge John Gutknecht of the Trafic court yesterday confiscated an "I Gotta Drag" star held by Samuel Klein, 51 years old, 1330 Chase avenue, and imposed a fine of $3 plus $3 costs on Klein for driving without a 1935 or 1936 city wheel tax sticker.

Policeman William Cribbens testified that the defendant had tried to intimidate him with the star when Klein's car, driven without lights, was stopped by the police on the night of Dec. 17.

It's a Mystery to Horan.

The star reads "Personal staf—Municipal court bailif." The origin of the emblem remained a mystery even after Judge Gutknecht questioned Klein and after Municipal Court Bailif Albert J. Horan was interviewed by a reporter. All Klein would tell the judge was that he had received the star "as a courtesy from a friend."

"To tell you the truth," said Bailif Horan, "I don't know whether Mr. Klein received the star from this office or not. I don't know the gentleman and, although I read the newspaper stories and editorial about his arrest with one of these courtesy stars, I didn't bother to look it up.

"Don't Mean Anything, Anyway."

"Those personal staf badges don't mean anything. It's just a courtesy. I discourage their issuance but when some substantial business man wants one as a souvenir or to satisfy a hobby, I've given a few men permission to buy stars at their own expense."

"About how many have you issued in the five years you've been bailif, Mr. Horan?"

"I don't know, but I don't think it would be over fifteen. Some of my predecessors issued more, but I discourage the practice."

FIRE ROUTS TWO FAMILIES.

Fire caused by an overheated furnace at 6740 Emerald avenue forced the families of Raymond Dinsmore and J. L. Worden to flee into the subzero temperature yesterday. The damage was estimated at $300.

REPUBLICANS ACT TO CAPTURE 1937 STATE ASSEMBLY

Plan 2 Nominees in Every Likely Senatorial District

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

With recapture of the 1937 Illinois general assembly by the Republicans in the 1936 election as its aim, the Cook county Republican committee started action yesterday to assure plenty of legislative candidates on the election ballots.

Representative Elmer Schnackenberg, backed by a sheaf of election statistics, declared the G. O. P. would be in control of the lower house today if two party nominees had been put up last year in every Cook county district which had two Republican representatives before the 1930 and 1934 Democratic landslides.

"In the present house the Republicans have 69 members. Schnackenberg argued that eight more might easily have been elected, giving a majority of the house, if the voters had not been euchred out of a choice by the action of many senatorial district committees in putting up a single Republican nominee.

Illinois Voting System.

Under the "minority representation" plan of the state constitution, three house members are elected in each of the 51 senatorial districts. A voter may plump three votes for one candidate, or give a vote and a half each to two candidates, or give one vote to each of three candidates. The theory is that the plumped votes enable a minority party in a district to elect one of the three members.

In every district the senatorial committee of each party determines the number of candidates the party is to nominate for representative. Years ago a practice grew up under which in a strong Democratic district the Democrats would nominate two candidates, the Republicans one. In a Republican district it would be vice versa. The result was to trim the voters out of a choice as only three candidates for the three places would be on the election ballot.

Insist on Two Nominees.

Mr. Schnackenberg pointed out that in Cook county in 1929 eleven of the 19 districts had each two Republican members and one Democrat. In 1931 the G. O. P. held two seats and the Democrats one in eight Cook county districts, while last year only three districts elected two Republicans each.

The county committee decided to call in senatorial committeemen and press them to provide for the nomination of two Republican candidates in every district that had a Republican majority four years ago.

P. H. Moynihan, a former member of congress, has been indorsed for the Republican nomination for congress in the 2d district, and Max Price for the nomination in the 5th district, by their respective congressional committees.

RULES ON CRADLE PHONES CHANGED IN NEW SCHEDULE

Installation of cradle type telephones in all places where coinbox sets are now used will be permitted for the first time in all exchanges of the Illinois Bell Telephone company as a result of a rate schedule revision on file with the Illinois Commerce commission, it was announced yesterday. The same schedule provides for the elimination of charges for changing the type of telephone equipment in most cases.

The new schedule will become effective Monday unless countermanded by the commission. B. F. Lindheimer, chairman of the commission, said yesterday that the changes will be considered at a regular meeting on Monday.

Charges for taking out a cradle or hand set and installing in its place the ordinary equipment, or vice versa, will be eliminated when the rates of the two types of equipment differ. The charge in the city of Chicago for such changes has been $1.50, while in most of the suburbs it has been $1.25. The 25 cents a month additional charge for the cradle sets will be continued in all installations for the first three years of continuous service, after which it is dropped.

$5,000 Award to Injured Parachute Jumper Upheld

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday affirmed a $5,000 verdict returned by a Circuit court jury in favor of Jack Cope, 38 years old, 1213 North Dearborn street, stunt parachute jumper, who was injured in the air races at the Curtiss-Wright airport in Glenview on July 25, 1931. The verdict was against Air Associates, Inc., 5300 West 63d street, which prepared and rented the parachute Cope used. He incurred leg injuries when he jumped from an airplane at 2,500 feet and the parachute opened only part way.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TO WRITE SERIES IN NEWSPAPERS

Earnings Pass Salary of President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The busy wife of the President, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, will embark on the career of a Washington columnist, starting next week, the White House revealed today. The column, plus her pay for radio broadcasting and other writings, is expected to raise Mrs. Roosevelt's earnings to a point considerably higher than her husband's salary, which is $75,000 a year.

What Mrs. Roosevelt will receive for her column is a mystery. Upwards of 40 newspapers have signed up for it, it was reported, at various weekly payments according to circulation and the feature is still being peddled.

Proceeds Go to Charity.

The money will go to some charity, so far undetermined, according to Miss Malvina Scheider, Mrs. Roosevelt's social secretary. The column will be titled "My Day" and will be a daily diary, Miss Scheider said.

"I don't know just what Mrs. Roosevelt will write about," said Miss Scheider. "It will be something that happens to interest her or interest the public."

Arrangements were made by Monte Bourjaily, general manager of the syndicate, when he was a White House luncheon guest recently.

During the year just closing Mrs. Roosevelt earned almost as much for 16 radio talks of 15 minutes each as the President's salary. The revenue from these broadcasts, most of them sponsored by a shoe company, amounted to $72,000.

Used for Subsistence Homesteads.

The radio money was turned over to the American Friends Service committee. Clarence E. Pickett, executive secretary of the group, said that $3,000 was used for general purposes, $6,000 for a health center, and the rest for various developments in the subsistence homestead colonies of West Virginia. The subsistence homestead idea is a pet of Mrs. Roosevelt's.

Radio brought in $36,000 for Mrs. Roosevelt in 1934 and this likewise was turned over to the Friends committee.

Details of the additional emolument flowing in from other ventures such as Mrs. Roosevelt's writings for Sunday supplements has never been disclosed.

Seeks Divorce from Baker; 'Gives Women Free Pies'

Frank Baptist's bakery business suffered because he flirted with his women customers and gave them free pies and cakes, his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Baptist, 69 years old, 4101 Adams street, testified yesterday before Superior Judge Joseph Sabath. Baptist, who is 70 years old, operates the bakery in Jacksonville, Ill. Mrs. Baptist also charged desertion and cruelty in her divorce bill filed by Attorney Harry X. Cole. Judge Sabath awarded her temporary alimony of $15 per week pending final hearing on the bill.

ROOSEVELT WORKING ON ANNUAL MESSAGE; HAS A SLIGHT COLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt continued work on his annual message to congress today in the seclusion of his study. The afternoon cabinet meeting was held at the White House instead of the executive wing adjoining because, it was reported by aids, the President was suffering from a slight cold.

The President said that he had no idea whether he would deliver his message on Jan. 3, the opening date of congress, or wait over the weekend.

A decision as to whether he would appear in person or send the message to Capitol hill would not be made until 24 hours before delivery, the President said.

Speaker Joe Byrns expressed the belief that the President would appear in person before a joint session of the house and senate on either Jan. 3 or 4. Byrns also said that a new tax bill would not be pushed during the coming session of congress.

During his press conference the President said that he had a discussion recently with Robert Boylan, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, relative to problems of the commodity exchanges. The President declined to comment when asked whether he favored a commodity bill patterned after the securities and exchange act regulating the stock and bond market.

PAGEANT DEPICTS TEN SILHOUETTE NATIVITY SCENES

Ten scenes from the Biblical Christmas story were shown in silhouette at the Congress street plaza in Grant park last night in the first of a three nights' performance of the park district pageant, "Shadows of the Manger." As 60 children from the Rogers Park Singing society, carrying lanterns, sang religious hymns, the story of the Nativity was cast on a screen representing a church window.

Although trafic was diverted for a half hour from Michigan avenue between Harrison and Van Buren streets for the performance, cold weather held the number of spectators to a relatively small crowd.

The pageant is scheduled to be given at the same place at 8 o'clock tonight and again at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Miss Edna Groh represented the Madonna last night. Miss Rosemary Mahaffey will take the part tonight, and Miss Margaret Raible is to play the rôle tomorrow. Alfred Stury is author of the pageant, Miss Nellie Williams is the pianist, and Carl Craven directs the singing.

Gov. Olson Will Leave Sunday to Undergo Knife

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Gov. Floyd B. Olson today said he would leave Sunday for the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., to undergo an operation.

'PUTRID POLITICS' CHARGE HURLED AT ROOSEVELT

Chance to Help Nation Is Passed Up, Claim.

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Faced with the greatest opportunity for reform ever granted to a President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt has failed to do anything beyond playing the "usual game of putrid politics," Dr. Howard Lee McBain, dean of the graduate college and professor of international law at Columbia university, declared today in an address before the American Association for Labor Legislation.

"The most serious of all charges that may be brought against President Roosevelt," he said, "is that in the midst of a national crisis giving him opportunities for reform never before possessed by a President, he has chosen, for personal and party interests, to play the usual game of putrid party politics. I believe that he could have put over something higher and that he would stand a better chance for reëlection next November if he had done so.

Hoped for New Spirit.

"I had hoped that in face of impending disaster the American people would demand that politics be divorced from government and a new and different spirit allowed to enter and control."

Turning to the constitution he expressed the opinion that as it stands it is inadequate to meet the pressure that will come upon it in the next ten or twenty years, and added that in his opinion it should be a flexible document, with amendments from time to time.

"I say this," he continued, "despite the confused and haphazard governmental control that has been given us by the New Deal, and despite the fact that business is rising in its might to demand that the government lay off and let it alone."

Dislikes U. S. in Business.

He qualified this by saying that in his opinion it would be impossible to keep government out of business altogether, but he went on to say that he disliked the very thought of government buying its way into economic control.

"Already we have created federal finance corporations that have wormed their way into certain classes of business by laws, grants, and purchases. We have bribed the states to compel their coöperation with federal policies; the social security act is a new and admirable example of this.

Another speaker of the day was Walton H. Hamilton of the consumers' division of the NRA, who defended the constitution.

GAY CHRISTMAS AFTER ALL—WITH HELP OF POLICE

Last Monday evening Charles E. Barry, western freight agent for two German steamship lines, bought a radio as a Christmas present for his wife and hid it in their apartment at 718 Gordon terrace. The Barrys went out for dinner that evening. When they returned they discovered their home had been looted and the radio, jewelry, and clothing, all valued at $5,000 had been taken.

It was a gloomy Christmas for the Barrys but the Town Hall police kept working on the case. Information they received sent them to the home of Marvin Newton, 30 years old, at 821 Crescent place on Thursday night. There the radio was found and Mrs. Barry received her delayed gift.

Yesterday the police recovered the jewelry and clothing in pawnshops near Newton's home. Newton, who was taken into custody, denied committing the burglary.

ELMER A. BENSON WILL SERVE OUT SCHALL'S TERM

Bank Chief Will Join Senate Jan. 3.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Appointment of Elmer A. Benson, state banking commissioner, as United States senator to succeed the late Thomas D. Schall, was announced today by Gov. Floyd B. Olson. The blind Republican senator died Sunday of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile in Washington.

Benson, who will occupy the post until expiration of the term, Dec. 31, 1936, long has been known as a radical. He has been a Farmer-Laborite since that party's birth and before that was active in the Nonpartisan league movement in Minnesota. He is 40 years old.

The new senator is an advocate of public ownership of monopolistic industry and a backer of collective bargaining for labor. He has urged greater levies on higher incomes and inheritances, and favors immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Lawyer and Banker.

After being graduated from the St. Paul College of Law Benson went overseas a few months with American troops in July, 1918. A short while after leaving the service in February, 1919, he was admitted to the bar here. In the fall of that year he returned to Appleton, Minn., his birthplace as assistant cashier of a bank.

In 1923 he became cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank at Appleton, but left that post when he was made state securities commissioner on Jan. 1, 1933.

In appointing Benson to the senatorial post Gov. Olson announced appointment of Robert D. Beery, chief examiner in charge of the liquidation department, to succeed him as state banking commissioner.

Goes to Capital Jan. 1.

Informed of his appointment, Benson said he planned to leave for Washington Jan. 1, two days before congress meets. Neither he nor the governor, who had announced prior to Schall's death that he would be a candidate for senator at the regular election, would comment on reports Benson would be a candidate to succeed Olson as governor.

"I shall be very glad," Benson said, "to join the liberal bloc in congress in opposition to those who would turn the arms of the clock backwards and perpetuate a system callous to human suffering, which neither understands nor wants to understand the meaning of human happiness."

ADMITS SLAYING FATHER.

Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Loren Springer, 30, farmer, living near Milton, Ill., today admitted to a coroner's jury that he fired the shot which yesterday fatally wounded his father, Charles Springer, 64 year old Pike county farmer. He said he fired in self defense.

SPEAKING DATE FOR BORAH SET IN N. Y. JAN. 28

Young Republicans Ask Landon to Talk.

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The presidential candidacy of Senator William E. Borah has taken such definite shape in the city and state that arrangements are being made by his backers to have him speak in Brooklyn next month. Senator Borah is willing and the tentative date is Jan. 28.

A large group of Republicans in Brooklyn and Queens is said to favor the Idaho senator, and the Brooklyn meeting may mean the gathering of these forces into a formidable bloc to boost him here.

The declaration of warfare by Erie County Chairman Edwin F. Jaeckle on State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton, who wants an uninstructed delegation for the Republican national convention, may seriously embarrass Eaton in his ambition, it is said.

May Lose His Job.

If Jaeckle carries his warfare into the spring primaries a fight may cost him his state chairmanship. His ability to organize the state assembly as he desires is the immediate issue.

As for presidential delegates, Eaton has declared himself neutral, but the supporters of Senator Borah and Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas are suspicious of his private luncheon recently with Frank Knox and of his close association with the Knox backers, William Donovan and Theodore Roosevelt.

Departure of a delegation of the New York State Association of Young Republican Clubs last night for Kansas to invite Gov. Landon here is a blow to those who had hoped they would favor Borah.

Credit for the trip to Gov. Landon, being headed by David W. Peck, president of the Young Republicans; George H. Sibley, former president, and Alexander Hamilton, a grandson of J. P. Morgan, who resigned from Mayor La Guardia's cabinet, generally is given to Sibley, who recently conferred with Landon.

Borah Sees Chicagoan.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—After a visit to Senator William E. Borah, Idaho liberal, Edgar J. Cook, Chicago attorney, today announced that the "Liberal Republican Voters' League of Illinois" would present a slate of Borah delegates in the Illinois presidential primary.

Borah refused any comment and Cook said that he was not in a position to state Borah's attitude as to the Illinois primary.

Cook, and independent not affiliated with any of the various Republican groups in Illinois, supported Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 and Hiram Johnson for the Republican nomination in 1920.

Expect Name Written In.

"It is the purpose of our group to put up a set of delegates and contest the opposition in every congressional district in Illinois," Cook declared.

"We are sure that Senator Borah's name will be written in the space reserved for presidential candidates and to an extent that will be entirely satisfactory."

Borah was visited several days ago by Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, aspirant for the Republican nomination. Neither would discuss the meeting.

Ten Coal Barges Sink in Ice Choked Ohio River

Maysville, Ky., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Ten barges sank in the ice-choked Ohio river today as ice carried the steamer Henry C. Yeiser Jr., and its tow of 18 barges downstream. Capt. C. M. Young of Huntington, W. Va., estimated the loss at $170,000 in barges and coal they were carrying to Cincinnati.

SUES FOR $100,000, CHARGING THEFT OF WIFE'S LOVE

A $100,000 suit for alienation of affections was filed in the Circuit court yesterday against Harry Kinsler, 40 years old, head of a garment manufacturing company at 2300 Armitage avenue. The plaintif was John Mayer, 40 years old, a decorating contractor of Grayslake in Lake county, who charged that Kinsler stole the affections of Mrs. Marion Mayer, 35 years old.

The bill, drawn by Attorney John O. Wagner, charges that Kinsler won Mrs. Mayer about Oct. 1, 1934. It also alleges that as a result of Kinsler's attentions to Mrs. Mayer she divorced her husband in July, 1935, at Waukegan, on the ground of cruelty.

ROOSEVELT GETS PLAN TO CUT U.S. INTO PROVINCES

Propose "Little Capitals" as Solution.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Carving the nation into ten or more provinces, with a subcapital or government headquarters in each region, was recommended to President Roosevelt today in a report by the national resources committee of which Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is chairman.

Washington is already bursting with officeholders and buildings can't be constructed fast enough to house the rapidly growing burocracy, it was pointed out.

The regional setups were recommended primarily for national resource study and operations, but it was reported that all federal offices would eventually be consolidated in the "little capitals" in each region.

Attacked by Liberty League.

The American Liberty league immediately released an attack upon the plan as one usually adopted by "dictatorial governments."

"Logically carried out, it would, of course, call for a viceroy of each province, with perhaps a viceregal brain trust to assist him," the league's statement said. "It was not so long ago that two eminent New Dealers—both of whom signed the report of the committee (Ickes and Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator)—were engaged in something approximating a public brawl to determine which should have the major part in the administration of the four billion eight hundred million so-called relief fund. If these two should by any chance become viceroys of neighboring provinces or dominions, the nation might be confronted with a police job of considerable magnitude."

Chicago Midwest Capital.

Chicago would house the "little capital" in the midwestern region, according to the tentative schedule mapped out by the committee. Other regional divisions and their headquarters cities were: New England, Boston; eastern, New York; Ozark-Appalachian, Knoxville; southern, Atlanta; gulf coast, New Orleans; Pacific northwest, Portland; Pacific southwest, San Francisco, and intermountain, Denver.

Other possible headquarters cities mentioned were Salt Lake City, Bismarck, Omaha, Cincinnati, Nashville, St. Paul, and Duluth.

PROPOSED "LITTLE CAPITALS"

Cities designated by stars are the proposed capitals of "provinces" as outlined to President Roosevelt. Dotted circles show locations of other cities mentioned as additions or substitutes.

New Deal Is Losing Ground in Poll; 12 States Approve

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The New Deal continued losing ground rapidly this week in the Literary Digest poll as the tally approached 1,000,000 votes and seven additional states came in. Approval of the Roosevelt policies has been given by 11 southern and border states and by Utah, while 29 states have recorded an emphatic no to the query, "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to date?"

The actual count this week reached to 987,158 postal cards, and of that number 577,631 were marked in the egative. In percentages that means that 58.51 per cent of the votes are recorded against the New Deal. That is a rise from last week's high of 57.68. In the 1924 Digest poll, with virtually the same lists of voters and on the same subject, the record was 61.15 favorable to the New Deal. The Roosevelt leaders accepted the 1934 poll as an accurate reflection of popular sentiment. They discount the poll this year as not representative.

Utah for New Deal.

Utah was counted in the tallying this week and stood 53.84 per cent for the New Deal, being the only northern state to line up with the south. The New England vote is three to one against the Roosevelt policies.

Rhode Island, whose vote last year started the break away from Roosevelt, was reported for the first time, showing 77.05 against the New Deal. The little state is near the top of the opposition list, ranking up with Massachusetts and New Hampshire. The cross-section shows sentiment in New England uniformly against the Roosevelt ideas.

Initial returns reported this week are from Arizona, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Utah, and Wyoming, and all except Utah show substantial majorities against the New Deal.

West Proves Surprise.

The big surprise in the poll through the first few weeks was the uniform opposition expressed by the western states which had been acclaimed as overwhelmingly pro-Roosevelt because of the AAA benefits. The count again this week follows the trend of the earlier balloting, recording the grain states strongly against the Roosevelt policies.

Arizona, in the election, voted two to one for Roosevelt and now shows a percentage of 57.99 against him. Florida continued to record just about an even break, while Oklahoma again expressed disapproval of the New Deal.

Tabulation by States.

The poll tabulation by states to date follows:

	Total votes to date.	Percent. YES in support of Roosevelt's policies.	Percent. No against Roosevelt's policies.

STATE WILL SUE JOLIET FOR TAX ON WATER SALES

Martin Philipsborn Jr., superintendent of the public utility revenue division of the state department of finance, announced yesterday that the state in a few days will file suit to collect $1,048 from the city of Joliet. The amount is claimed as due for sales tax on water which Joliet sold to its citizens between July 1 and Nov. 30, with penalties for delay in payment added.

Mr. Philipsborn opened a hearing yesterday in Joliet, to which the city officials were invited. Mayor George P. Jones declined to attend. He asserted that Joliet would not pay the tax and was willing to fight the case in the courts. A number of other Illinois municipalities have obtained injunctions to prevent the state from collecting sales tax on water.

INVITE AURORA'S CITY WORKERS TO BUDGET PARLEY

The city council of Aurora yesterday invited all employes of the city pay roll to attend a meeting tomorrow at which plans for the balancing of the 1936 Aurora budget will be discussed.

Recently the council voted to increase the pay of firemen and policemen 21 per cent, restoring the salary scale to the 1931 level. Other employes have demanded that their depression pay cuts be restored. This has given the city's financial experts a problem, because even without granting any more raises it is estimated the 1936 expenditures will exceed revenues by $50,000. The total budget is expected to be near $1,400,000.

NEW RIVER FLOW CONTROL WORKS PLAN SUBMITTED

Would Build Water Gate at Guard Station.

A new plan for construction of a flowage control works at the mouth of the Chicago river was filed by the sanitary district yesterday in the office of the war department here. It proposes erection of a flood gate approximately 1,000 feet east of the proposed site of the new outer drive bridge.

The plan, which cost is estimated by the district's engineer at $1,500,000, is a substitute for a previous proposal which would have provided for the erection of a control lock in the river between the Michigan avenue bridge and the outer drive project. The original plan, which would cost $1,000,000, according to engineers, was dropped by the district when shipping interests and owners of property along the river east of the Michigan avenue bridge advanced objections at a public hearing Nov. 17.

Details of New Proposal.

The proposal submitted yesterday calls for two walls and a "sector gate" to form a basin at the mouth of the river. One wall would extend from the south abutment of the new outer drive bridge to a point 700 feet east of the coast guard station.

The sector gate, which would control flowage by being kept open, closed, or ajar, would be built at the coast guard station. The second wall would run northward from the gate to the north pier of the river.

According to H. P. Ramey, assistant chief engineer of the sanitary district, it would be necessary to close the sector gate, halting all navigation when the river became flooded and rose above the level of the lake.

Part of a Possible Lock.

The wall running 700 feet east from the station, he said, would provide a breakwater for vessels entering the harbor, and would form part of a lock if it should become expedient to construct another water gate and a northern retaining wall.

Capt. S. N. Karrick, acting district engineer of the war department, has called a public hearing on the plan for 10 a. m. Jan. 7. He said the attitude of the department, which must approve the application, will be governed by the type of comment offered by shipping and business interests.

Construction of control works by the sanitary district is necessary to comply with a ruling of the United States Supreme court that by Jan. 1, 1938, diversion of lake water be cut to 1,500 cubic feet per second. The present flow is 6,500 feet. With the smaller diversion, a control gate will be necessary to prevent polluted river water from backing into the lake in flood times.

NEW DISBARMENT PLAN TO BE USED FOR 77B INQUIRY

Any proceedings leading to possible disbarment of attorneys named in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' investigation of alleged recruiting of clients in cases filed under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law will be conducted under rules adopted a few months ago with the objective of speeding up investigations of professional misconduct by the Chicago Bar association, officials of that organization said yesterday.

Under the new plan, put into effect during the fall, complaints are heard by a committee on inquiry. This committee acts as a combined grand jury and prosecuting agency in presenting cases to the grievance committee of the bar association, which has the power to recommend disbarment to the state Supreme court. Hearings before both committees are secret.

The committee on inquiry already has in its possession a large part of the transcript of evidence taken before Judge Barnes. As soon as it receives the rest of the transcript it will hold a formal meeting to consider the evidence.

Meanwhile United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe is examining another transcript of the evidence taken before Judge Barnes. He has assured Judge Barnes that if the evidence warrants he will start grand jury proceedings against persons named during the investigation.

ACT TOMORROW TO AVERT STATE CRISIS ON RELIEF

Horner and IERC to Study $3,000,000 Needs.

Members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission will confer with Gov. Horner at Springfield tomorrow afternoon in regard to the serious situation into which a huge shortage of relief funds, from present indications, will thrust the commission early in January.

Chairman John C. Martin of the commission said that the group would make no recommendations for the raising of additional funds, as the commission itself is only an administrative body. They intended, he added, to give the governor full information on the seriousness of the matter.

Slight Hope from Washington.

The invitation to confer was extended by Gov. Horner in a telephone conversation with Mr. Martin. The governor said that he was ill in bed, and indicated that he had had no word—and certainly no favorable word—from Washington on his recent plea that the federal government grant Illinois additional financial assistance for relief.

As the IERC views the situation, it will be at least $3,000,000 short of funds sufficient to carry its relief clients through the first month of the new year. Statisticians provided members with figures showing that the Works Progress administration program, designed to take all able bodied workers off relief, was even less of a boon than it had appeared heretofore.

Expect Load of 184,545 Families.

The statisticians held that the IERC would have to grant aid to a total of 184,545 families in January. Of these 32,732 families will number among their members WPA workers whose wages—the usual rate is $55 a month in Chicago and $45 a month downstate—will be insufficient to support the whole family. An additional 22,000 families will have to be given help for at least two weeks until they receive their first WPA wage checks.

Originally the government claimed that with WPA in full swing the state would have only 65,000 families to care for. The IERC knows now, it was pointed out, that there will be 130,000 families, in addition to the 32,732 who must have part relief and the 22,000 whose checks are slow.

In summary, the commission expects to have $2,000,000 available from state sales and utility taxes and $784,000 left over from December funds. The needs for January are estimated at $5,865,911. The question for the governor and the legislature is where and how the missing $3,000,000 can be found.

And Another Crisis in March.

A little further on looms a second crisis which will thrust up its head with the exhaustion of the WPA funds, probably in March. The Illinois allotment, which has been cut to $62,000,000, is ample only for about three months.

The commission voted to continue its cash relief "experiment" in Cook county during January, authorizing the use of state funds instead of federal funds for this purpose. However, action was deferred on the proposal to replace commodity orders with cash in the 101 downstate counties.

Although it was estimated that savings in administrative costs would reach $70,000 a month under the cash system, there was some opposition to the system. A report made by Leo Lyons, Cook county relief administrator, showed that only 85 relief checks, less than 1 per cent, had been cashed in saloons and liquor stores.

Asks Orders for Milk.

Representatives of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union asked that the IERC give disbursing orders for milk to assure a sufficient supply to children in relief families now receiving cash. Lyons' report indicated that less milk is being consumed under the cash system.

"It is the children who are paying the biggest part of the bill with their health in many cases," said Robert J. Dunham, a commission member.

However, Lyons' report showed that relief clients are overwhelmingly in favor of the cash system because it affords them more freedom in their choice of necessities and does not brand them as IERC dependents.

MOTORISTS JAM LICENSE OFFICE; DEADLINE NEAR

Continue Sale Today and Sunday.

BY HAL FOUST.

Motorists jammed the state's automobile license bureau at 120 South Ashland boulevard yesterday as police continued to warn drivers that Jan. 1 is the legal deadline for procuring 1936 plates and windshield stickers. There was a similar rush of business at the city hall, where $108,240 was paid during the day for 11,536 city vehicle stickers.

Secretary of State Hughes ordered his Chicago license office to be open for business today from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. and tomorrow from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. At this office it was estimated last night that 15,000 plates were sold over the counter before the doors were closed at 5 p. m. The queue extended at times onto the sidewalk outdoors. The average wait, it was said, was 15 minutes, with some customers spending part of this time exposed to the cold.

Advises Purchase by Mail.

Secretary of State Hughes advised car owners to avoid this inconvenience by applying to Springfield by mail for their plates. Many applications mailed today will not be filled before the first of the year, next Wednesday, but it was indicated that no one will be arrested, at least not by Chicago police, as long as he has a receipt showing that the application has been filed and the tax paid.

This is the first year that Illinois has made an aggressive effort to license its vehicles on the date specified by statute and, since it is an initial effort, it will probably not be 100 per cent successful.

Although police issued slips to motorists with 1935 plates yesterday warning that it is unlawful to drive after Jan. 1 without licenses of the new year, it seemed unlikely that arrests will start until later next month. To date only half the vehicles of the state have been registered and there are only three business days remaining of this year.

Better Than Former Years.

If state and city administrations succeed in licensing all vehicles, or 99 per cent of the vehicles, by Jan. 15 it will be a decided improvement over all former years. In the past authorities have been handicapped in general police work by the absence of the identifying numbers, and motorists who paid the tax when due have resented the immunity of big, polished automobiles without the new year's plates.

Judge John Gutknecht of the Trafic court has threatened to fine those who are arrested for not having 1936 licenses after Jan. 1. In the past such cases were continued until the taxes were paid and then were dismissed.

HOLDER OF $1,100 BOND GETS YEAR IN RELIEF FRAUD

Michael Hackett, 56 years old, of a relief shelter at 220 South Morgan street, was sentenced to the Bridewell for a year yesterday after he refused to explain his possession of a receipt for $1,100 in bonds of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company. He was arraigned before Judge Joseph B. Hermes in the Desplaines street court on a charge of defrauding the relief agency of $37.50 in aid.

Ragged and unkempt, Hackett was silent when the court asked him to disclose how he had accumulated the money to purchase the bonds. Moreover, he would not divulge the location of a safe deposit box whose key police found with the bond receipt in his pocket.

Hackett was arrested on Christmas eve as he loitered in an elevated station at Halsted and Van Buren streets. He said he had been living at the relief shelter for several weeks.

Thief Snatches New Auto License Tags from Woman

Police last night were seeking any one displaying the 1936 state license No. 539-907 on an automobile. Miss Mary Stiemann, 8020 Perry avenue, bought the set of plates of that number yesterday in the state license bureau at 120 South Ashland boulevard. As she left the building with the new plates in her hand a colored man grabbed them and fled.

BRIDGE OF GOLD IS JUST A DENTAL BILL TO HER NOW

Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey yesterday ordered that Mrs. Lottie Brenner Carey, 5839 Sheridan road, pay Dr. Francis J. Linane, dentist at 5922 North Washtenaw avenue, for a gold bridge he made for her, but which she never wore.

The dentist testified that Mrs. Carey came to his office last August and had him make the bridge. When it was ready, he said, she suddenly decided she didn't want it, stuck an old bridge back in her mouth and left the new one with him.

Mrs. Carey denied ordering the new bridge, but after Dr. Linane offered to produce as evidence a wax impression of her teeth and show that it fit her mouth, Judge Casey decided that she should pay $200 minus the worth of the recoverable gold.

Mrs. Carey was first married to Ald. William Brenner. After his death she married Eurique von Buelow, who called himself a German count, but divorced him and later married Thomas J. Carey.

Frank G. Gardner, treasurer of the Chicago Title and Trust company, is seriously ill of heart disease in his home at 287 East Central avenue, Highland Park. 'BURY THE HATCHET' PARADE IS PLANNED BY SEATTLE MAYOR

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Mayor Charles L. Smith predicted great things tonight from his latest idea—an old year parade of friendly enemies.

The mayor wants every one to march—arm in arm with his chief "enemy" in a "bury the hatchet" parade on the last day of the year.

"If only one couple from among several groups of our well known citizens who have their different viewpoints get together and shake hands, it will be worth while," he said.

Civic organizations greeted the idea with approval and took steps to bring several of the city's famous "enemies" together.

EDITH M'CORMICK CHILDREN SHARE 10 MILLION ALIKE

Ruling Is Upheld on Rockefeller Trust.

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The three children of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick will share equally in the 10 million dollar trust fund set up for her by John D. Rockefeller Sr., the Appellate division ruled today. The court overruled the claim of Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard to a four-sevenths share, and likewise overruled the claim of assignees of Edwin Krenn, Swiss architect, to a share.

The ruling of the Appellate court affirmed the decision of former Superior Court Justice Robert M. Marsh, sitting as special referee. Marsh's decision had been confirmed by the Supreme court. Today's ruling was unanimous.

Assignees Claim Share.

Krenn's assignees, Maurice Rissman and Carl Baldwin, claimed a large share of the fund on the basis of a will left by Mrs. McCormick bequeathing five-twelfths of her personal estate to Krenn, who had been her social and business associate.

The court ruling, however, was that Krenn could not share in the trust fund, since the elder Rockefeller provided that Mrs. McCormick could dispose of it in her will only among her children or to charitable institutions. In case she failed to make any disposition in her will, it was to go equally to her children. The fund was established in 1917.

Contend for Krenn's "Share."

Mrs. Hubbard's claim was also based on the will, which gave four-twelfths to her, two-twelfths to Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser, and one-twelfth to Fowler McCormick. Since Krenn could not share in the trust fund, she contended, the will left by implication four-sevenths to her, two sevenths to Mrs. Oser, and one-seventh to Fowler McCormick. The court ruled that Mrs. McCormick did not dispose of the fund by her will and that the income should be paid to the heirs by a committee headed by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

O'CONNOR CASE GOES TO JURY AFTER 7 WEEKS

Gambling Conspiracy Is Charged.

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—A jury of seven men and five women today was given the case of Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor, Democratic official of Iowa who is charged with participating in a state-wide gambling conspiracy. At 10 p. m. it had reached no verdict and was locked up for the night.

The step ended a trial which had lasted nearly seven weeks in Judge Earl Peters' court here. One hundred and fifty witnesses took the stand during the trial, the outcome of which is expected to influence to a large degree Democratic chances of holding the state in the 1936 elections.

Jury Gets Instructions.

Judge Peters, in instructing the jurors for 30 minutes today, admonished them to consider well defense testimony that reputations of two important state witnesses were "bad." The witnesses are Lynn Geil of Des Moines, who told the court that he sat in at a meeting attended by O'Connor at which slot machine protection ring plans were outlined, and Bert Rollinger, convict who testified that he paid O'Connor $750 in protection money.

The judge warned that O'Connor's case must be considered alone and is not connected with the 17 other persons under similar indictment. He said that the attorney general could not be convicted entirely on acts of others. Instead, the judge said, the state must have proved O'Connor guilty of specific overt acts, all of them corroborated.

Compared to Teapot Dome.

Special Prosecutor H. M. Havner, in closing the case for the state, likened it to the Teapot Dome scandal. Havner said "United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty went free as far as punishment is concerned, but as far as I am concerned he was as guilty as hell."

Only two possible verdicts, guilty or not guilty, were handed to the jury.

ILLINOIS-INDIANA PACT ON TRUCK TAX IS SIGNED

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—State officials of Indiana and Illinois today signed reciprocity agreements applying to the operation of trucks in the two states. The agreements eliminated Indiana weight taxes on Illinois trucks operating in Indiana and similar Illinois taxes on Indiana trucks operating in this state.

The agreement, however, does not apply to Illinois trucks used in intrastate hauling in Indiana nor Indiana trucks used similarly in Illinois. They must have both Indiana and Illinois licenses.

MICHIGAN MAN FOUND DEAD.

Allegan, Mich., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Edward Lance, 80, was found dead in his home in Hopkins, today. Death was due to heart disease.

Savage Takes His Turn on Stand in Bob and Joe Suit

Business was good back in 1930, Attorney Joseph P. Savage testified yesterday before Master in Chancery Samuel B. Epstein, and he made a present of $40,250 to Attorney Robert E. Crowe, who is now suing him for an accounting of the finances of the now dissolved law firm of Crowe, Gorman & Savage in which they were partners with the late George E. Gorman.

It was Savage's first day on the witness stand in the case. His story of the $40,250 "present" differed from that of Crowe, who previously testified that he acquired an interest in certain monies owed to Savage through an agreement that he would also share losses, if any, to Savage in a particular transaction.

Concerns Special Village Warants.

The transaction concerned many village special assessment warants given to the old law firm of Marshall, Savage & Wielgorecki, with which Savage was affiliated before the partnership of Crowe, Gorman & Savage was formed on Jan. 2, 1929. According to Savage, the warants were posted as collateral for a loan and there was some question whether the warants would "pay out" enough to pay off the loan.

Savage told his story of the formation of the law partnership with Crowe, who was just retiring as state's attorney, and with Gorman, who was just retiring as first assistant state's attorney. Savage had been an assistant prosecutor under Crowe, he said, participating in the Leopold-Loeb and other big trials. He resigned in 1926 and started doing special assessment work for many villages in Cook county.

Objects on "Fee Splitting."

Attorney Franklin J. Stransky, representing the Gorman estate, objected to Savage's account of the partnership agreement by which each partner was to receive one-third of the firm's income. This was because Gorman, as a master in chancery, earned more than $375,000 in fees—$84,000 in one year—and those fees were split with Crowe and Savage. Attorney Stransky's position is that the law forbids splitting of master's fees.

Much of Savage's testimony had to do with checks received by the firm as fees and not deposited in any bank but cashed and the proceeds split among the partners. He mentioned $27,000 as coming from the Chicago Coal Merchants' association, the Consumers' company, the Pennoyer Transfer company, and the Team Owners' association.

$80,000 Fees in Year.

Off the witness stand Savage said his firm carried to the Supreme court a suit concerning a city ordinance which limited the coal companies to certain weights per truck. The fees were immediately prorated, he said, because the partners needed the cash.

In his tstimony Savage said that in 1929 he received $26,000 and in 1930 more than $80,000 for legal services performed before he became a partner in the firm of Crowe, Gorman & Savage. He will resume his testimony before the master on Monday.

EARL BURTNETT SUED FOR $10,000 AFTER A CRASH

Stephen Krajic, 2414 South Turner avenue, yesterday filed suit in the Circuit court for $10,000 damages from Earl Burtnett of the Southmoor hotel, an orchestra leader. In his petition Krajic charged that an automobile accident near Valparaiso, Ind., in which he was injured on Sept. 28, was caused by the reckless driving of Burtnett.

Leon Metzinger of Fargo, N. D., a professor of languages at the University of North Dakota, filed suit for $60,000 in the Circuit court here yesterday against the Grand Trunk Western Railroad company. The damages are sought as the result of an accident in which Prof. Metzinger was seriously injured and his wife and daughter were killed when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by one of the railroad's trains at 127th street, Blue Island, on Dec. 28, 1934.

POLICE AND FIRE VETERANS TO BE RETIRED ON JAN. 1

New Law Ends Service of 206 on Half Pay.

One hundred and seventy-six veterans of the police department and 30 members of the fire department will be retired on pensions next Wednesday, Jan. 1, Mayor Kelly announced yesterday. The mayor's statement followed an opinion of Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes upholding the validity of the recently enacted state law providing for automatic retirement of such public servants at the age of 63. The measure, as passed by the assembly, becomes effective on Jan. 1.

The provisions of the new law make mandatory the retirement from the police department of 24 captains, 14 lieutenants, 36 sergeants, 90 patrolmen, 8 matrons, 2 hostlers, 1 surgeon, and 1 dog catcher.

Retire on Half Pay.

In the fire department 4 division marshals, 8 battalion chiefs, 6 captains, 3 lieutenants, and 9 firemen will be retired.

Among those on the police and fire department retirement list are a number who have a record of nearly 40 years in their particular service. All of them, with the exception of 5 matrons, who have not served a total of 20 years as required by the pension law, will be given a retirement pension of one-half of their present salaries.

Many of the police veterans who will be dropped from the department have achieved noteworthy records of accomplishment in fighting crime. A number have been repeatedly commended for their executive ability.

Ends Make Mills' Fine Record.

One of those to be retired is Lieut. Make Mills, who for years has been in charge of the detective bureau industrial squad, which has achieved an excellent record in curtailing bombing activities, industrial violence, communist troubles, and similar disorders. A number of requests have been received by Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman that Lieut. Mills be allowed to continue his service in the department.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Quin O'Brien, however, who is preparing a formal draft of Hodes' opinion, asserted that the law is mandatory and allows no exception.

The retirement of the captains will leave but 24 regular captains in the police department. Commissioner Allman has asked for an appropriation in the 1936 city budget which would make it possible to increase the number to 50. As there is no eligible promotion list for captaincies, lieutenants will be assigned as acting captains. Commissioner Allman said this will leave a consequent shortage in the ranks of lieutenants—26 to be assigned as acting captains and 14 to be retired. There are now 144 lieutenants. An appropriation for 148 has been asked.

Captains Who Will Be Retired.

The police department commanders who will be retired are:

CAPTAINS.

JUDGE ENDS KOLB 'COMEDY,' DENIES LOVE DAMAGES

Calls Present Wife the Only "Victim."

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher ruled yesterday that if there was any "victim" in the alleged theft of the affections of Norbert U. Kolb, tuck-pointing contractor, it was Kolb's present wife, Gertrude.

The judge called the case a comedy. He found Mrs. Gertrude Kolb not guilty in the suit for $75,000 damages brought by Kolb's first wife, Mrs. Ella Kolb. Attorney John O. Wagner, for the plaintif, announced he would appeal.

A Surprise for Norbert.

Norbert himself, 42 years old, a stocky ash-blonde with a jutting chin, who sat and glared across the table at his first wife during part of his second wife's appearance on the witness stand, appeared astonished as he heard the court apply the word "victim" to his second wife.

Ella, who still lives at 2507 Catalpa avenue, in the scene of what was for her their former marital bliss, according to her testimony, remained calm, but became a shade paler as she heard the court's rebuke.

Gertrude, serene and smiling and appearing not to mind being a victim, wrapped her slinky black caracul coat about her rather buxom figure and departed joyously to pose for photographers in an anteroom, escorted by Norbert. Then they left, presumably for their home at 6149 North Talman avenue.

Calls Defendant to Stand.

Judge Fisher's ruling followed the renewal of a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty by Attorney Maurice Turner, counsel for the young and pretty defendant. Before closing his case Attorney Wagner, under the new Illinois civil practice act, called the defendant to the stand as his witness, without being bound by her testimony.

"From all the evidence before me," said Judge Fisher after carefully listening to the dulcet voice of Gertrude as she was examined by Attorney Wagner, "this sounds more like comedy than a serious situation."

Explaining why he thought Gertrude and not Ella the victim, if any, the judge said:

"Kolb meets Gertrude [in January, 1932] and he poses as a single, unmarried man. He wins her affections. There is nothing to indicate she entices him from his wife. For several months she does not know he is married. Then he informs her he is separated from his wife and is going to Reno to get a divorce.

Pays Wife, Goes to Reno.

"No impropriety is shown on the part of Gertrude during this time. The moving spirit is the man. He pays his wife $17,000 or $19,000 by agreement and goes to Reno."

Alluding to testimony that the first Mrs. Kolb agreed to a divorce after her husband turned over $19,000 to her, only $17,000 of which she says she received, and that she received another $6,500 at the time the divorce was granted her on grounds of cruelty, Jan. 26, 1934, the court said:

"This case should never have been brought into court. This woman sold her husband freedom for a price."

He reviewed the "curious conduct" of Norbert and Ella, as shown by testimony, on his return from Reno in January, 1933, after his wife told him in a telephone conversation she would divorce him here.

"He tells Gertrude," Judge Fisher said, "that his wife is perfectly willing to give him a divorce, that she is so agreeable she even wants to see the girl he's to marry. She goes to their home and is received cordially. Kolb takes the two women out publicly, once with another man along for Mrs. Kolb.

Everybody In the "Plot."

"If a conspiracy existed here, certainly the wife was one of the arch conspirators. We have the unique spectacle of a husband arranging an engagement party and giving Gertrude a ring publicly, before his wife, without a word of protest from her."

The blue eyed Gertrude, a black hat shading her right eye, her full lips carefully made up, impassively denied that Ella visited her in March, 1933, and urged her to give Norbert up, and that she refused, as the first wife testified previously.

'AUTO DERAILS CAR AND HURLS MAN UNDER IT

An automobile driven by Thomas Daly, 34 years old, 5008 Quincy street, knocked a south bound street car sidewise at Polk street and Racine avenue last night and then crashed into another machine. Jeremiah Coakley, 43 years old, 5545 Monroe street, Daly's brother-in-law, was thrown from Daly's car beneath the street car. The street car came to rest with its front end over the curbing and almost against the Mother Cabrini hospital.

Firemen worked 15 minutes jacking up the street car to extricate Coakley. He was taken into the hospital and was found to have a broken right leg and cuts and bruises. One window in the street car was broken and while 20 pasengers were shaken up none was hurt. Joseph Marquis, 30 years old, 637 Millard avenue, driver of the other automobile, and Daly also escaped unhurt.

PLOT TO LOWER MORALS THROUGH STAGE CHARGED

Bostonian Files Bill to End "Obscenity."

Boston, Mass., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Persons involved in a theatrical performance containing dialog or action pertaining to homosexuality, incest, or "subversive propaganda" would be subject to a year's imprisonment and $500 fine under a bill filed with the legislature today.

Representative Thomas Dorgan of Boston, who filed the bill, asserted there was evidence that those in control of the legitimate stage were deliberately attempting to lower the nation's moral standards and use the theater for subversive propaganda.

The bill, he said, was aimed at plays such as one recently banned in Boston.

Sues Mayor and Censor.

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Anne Revere, leading woman of "The Children's Hour," today instituted a $50,000 damage suit for slander against Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston and Herbert L. McNary, Boston censor.

The action was based on a letter written by Mayor Mansfield to a Boston newspaper in which he said the theme of the play was "altogether revolting and tends to pander to the abnormal appetites of those attracted by such stuff."

Miss Revere, a Wellesley graduate, declared the comment of the two officials "had held her up to all the world as wilfully pandering to debased tastes and depraved persons for monetary return." She said her reputation as an actress had been seriously impaired.

Herman Shumlin, producer of the play, filed a similar action Thursday.

Obscenity "No Grounds."

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Alleged obscenity on the stage, without a criminal conviction, is not sufficient grounds for revocation of a theater's license, the Appellate division of the Supreme court held today in a three to two decision.

The decision reversed a ruling of Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Dore which denied the operators of the Republic Burlesque theater an injunction to restrain License Commissioner Paul Moss from threatening to revoke the theater's license.

The commissioner is without authority, the Appellate decision held, to revoke a license for obscenity unless there has been a criminal conviction.

St. Paul Bans "Tobacco Road."

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Federal Judge M. M. Joyce late today upheld the St. Paul city council's action in banning presentation here of the play "Tobacco Road."

The council acted within its rights, Judge Joyce ruled, in threatening to revoke the Metropolitan theater license if the play were shown here. It would have opened a week's run Sunday.

The ruling was on a petition by John M. Kirkland and Sam H. Grisman, producers of the show, for an injunction to restrain the city from this action.

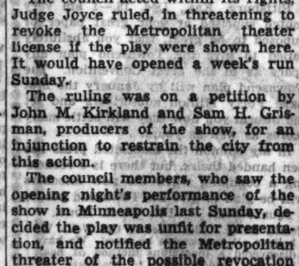

The council members, who saw the opening night's performance of the show in Minneapolis last Sunday, decided the play was unfit for presentation, and notified the Metropolitan threater of the possible revocation action.

FORMER HUSBAND OF THELMA TODD IS BEFORE JURY

Denies Report He Was with Her Alone.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Pasquale [Pat] Di Cicco, divorced husband of Thelma Todd, tonight denied all reports linking him with the blonde actress in the days just before she died.

He appeared before the grand jury investigating Miss Todd's death, held to be accidental by police and a coroner's jury.

Detectives had been told that Di Cicco, at his request, was invited to the last party Miss Todd attended and was to have been seated next to her; that, although he did not sit at that table, he did appear at the same restaurant and spoke to her several times that night, Saturday, Dec. 14, and that he had lunched with her at noon that day.

Found Dead Monday.

The actress was found dead in her garage Monday, Dec. 16, from what an autopsy surgeon said was monoxide poisoning.

The inference was that Di Cicco and Miss Todd, divorced a year ago, were about to become reconciled.

"I had no definite date that night," Di Cicco said he told the grand jury. "I kidded Ida Lupino into inviting me, but I canceled the invitation Saturday afternoon.

"That night I went to the Trocadero café with Margaret Lindsay and the only time I saw Thelma was when we danced near her. I hadn't seen her alone in six months."

Flies from East.

Di Cicco, who arrived here by airplane from the east today, said he took Miss Lindsay to her home "between 12 and 1 o'clock Saturday night" and then went home.

Roland West, her business associate, and R. H. W. Schafer, manager of the sidewalk café, laughed at a report that Miss Todd had been beaten by a man in her café.

Charles [Duke] York, actor and "Lord" Lansdowne, wrestler, were dismissed after questioning by deputies. They were not subpenaed. "Nothing to it," Foreman George Rochester said. "Their stories don't make sense."

'CHILDREN'S HOUR' STUDIED TO SEE IF PLAY IS O. K. HERE

Barnet Hodes, city corporation counsel, announced yesterday that he will report soon on whether it would be permissible to produce in Chicago "The Children's Hour," a drama which has had a long run in New York. The play recently was denied a booking in Boston by that city's stage censorship board.

Herman Shumlin, producer of the play, has announced that he is ready to send it to Chicago within a few weeks if he is given to understand that there will be no repetition of the "Tobacco Road" closing.

"I am not a stage censor," Mr. Hodes said, adding that he is reading the text of the play thoroughly to determine whether or not it will be legal to permit its production here. "The Children's Hour," which deals with accusations made against two women school teachers, has a background of morbidity.

They confessed, police said, to stealing mail from numerous buildings in the Sheffield avenue district in the last week.

HITLER REFUSES TO FREE HIS FOES AS HOLIDAY GIFT

Minor Prisoners Lose Amnesty Hope.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—All hope for a Christmas amnesty for minor political prisoners was abandoned by their families today as regular business was resumed after the Christmas holidays.

In previous years the republican as well as the Nazi government made it a practice to release men and women held on minor political charges. The prisoners were returned to their families for the Christmas festivities.

Relatives who sought to file petitions for prisoners held in concentration camps and prisons were told that their requests were useless. Nevertheless many wives and children of prisoners spent Christmas day at home in hopes that their husbands and fathers would return to them.

Dogs Peril Visitors.

Many women applied for permission to see their husbands in "Columbus house" in Berlin, headquarters of the secret police. They made their requests despite the fact that persons who called on relatives in recent weeks spoke with terror of the "huge dogs prowling up and down in the barred court through which visitors must pass on their way to offices where they are allowed to see relatives in the presence of a guard."

Among persons recently transported to the concentration camp at Dachau is the former editor of the Morgenpost, Herr Goetz. He left Berlin shortly after the Nazis assumed power. He was deprived of his editorship because he was a Jewish Socialist. He went to Paris with his wife, who formerly worked in Socialist welfare projects. The Ullstein concern agreed to pay Goetz a pension of $150 a month.

Seized Upon Claiming Money.

Since it was impossible to transfer the money abroad, Goetz and his wife returned to Wiesbaden and then Berlin. When they tried to claim the money which had accumulated the couple were arrested because of their "suspicious stay abroad." Goetz was sent to Dachau and his wife was removed to Brandenburg prison.

Particular Whisky Robbers Take 5 Cases, but Spurn 12

The police last night were searching for two gunmen who have a taste for one particular brand of whisky. They held up Casmir Tomlin, 4579 North Moody avenue, truck driver for the Welsh Cartage company, 444 West Grand avenue, at Armour and Grand avenues last night and made him drive to Ohio street and Grand avenue where they selected five cases of their special brand and put it in their sedan. They scorned a dozen cases of whisky of other brands and drove off. The whisky they stole was valued at $100.

DOUBTS HE CAN GRANT REPRIEVE TO HAUPTMANN

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman expressed the belief today that technically he does not have the power to reprieve Bruno Richard Hauptmann should the Court of Pardons refuse clemency.

Although last minute reprieves have been granted in recent years, the governor observed that the constitution limits the reprieve power to within 90 days of conviction. Hauptmann was convicted Feb. 13 and under such an interpretation the reprieve power expired May 13.

The 90 day period generally has been interpreted to mean 90 days after all appeals are exhausted, but the governor said information given him by legal authorities was that it meant 90 days after conviction in the lower court.

Court of Pardons to Meet.

The governor said he might seek a formal opinion from the attorney general's office on the question might be discussed by the Court of Pardons on Monday. The board probably will decide then when to consider Hauptmann's petition for clemency and whether to meet at state prison to personally hear Hauptmann, the governor said.

Gov. Hoffman declined to say whether he would grant Hauptmann a reprieve at the last minute should an "emergency" arise. His answer to that question was "What do you think?" He said that in the event of an emergency he probably would consult Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, trial judge.

Stay Granted Last August.

The governor did stay a recent execution by a last minute reprieve. On Aug. 13 he halted the execution of John Favorito when another state prison inmate offered to take the blame for the killing of which Favorito was convicted. The court of pardons made an investigation of the prisoner's story, denied clemency, and Favorito was electrocuted two months later.

The governor said he received a letter today from Hauptmann's mother in Germany requesting clemency for her son. Hoffman said he would present the formal four page typewritten petition to the court of pardons.

LINDBERGH PLANS STILL A MYSTERY; SHIP NEARS PORT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's desire to avoid publicity and unbroken silence regarding his future plans continue to excite the British press. Attempts to discover where the famous aviator, his wife, and son, Jon, intend to settle have so far drawn a blank despite the most intensive investigations.

Reports from New York that Col. Lindbergh planned to live with his wife's brother-in-law, Aubrey Neil Morgan, at Llandaff, near Cardiff, Wales, were flatly denied today by members of the Morgan family. Aubrey is a junior partner in the firm of David Morgan, Ltd., of Cardiff. Llewellyn Morgan, head of the firm, disclaimed any knowledge of Col. Lindbergh's intentions.

"We have had no communication from him and know nothing beyond the press reports," he declared.

A radio message received in London from the captain of the American Importer, the vessel on which Col. Lindbergh sailed from the United States, reports the ship is encountering heavy weather, but is expected to berth at Gladstone dock, Liverpool, Monday.

NEXT STEPS IN CONFISCATION.

In a recent case the Supreme court upheld the right of Pennsylvania to collect inheritance taxes from heirs who thought they had discharged inheritance tax obligations by paying New Jersey what that state had asked. The duplicate assessment which the court sustained and which is not uncommon was in addition to the old federal estates tax, which was itself a sizable chiseler of the fortunes of decedents. Nor has the difficulty been alone one of amount. These multiple exactions had to be met in cash, which meant finding buyers for a variety of properties. Only in a roaring bull market could even the most liquid parts of large estates be sold except at drastic price concessions. Instances have been noted of large estates which shrank as much as 90 per cent under the squeeze of taxes and liquidation to meet them.

To circumvent these hazards large estates were being broken up even before 1929. The depression strongly accentuated the movement, because it was the kind of property owned by the wealthy—equities—which fell most in the deflation. But the biggest incentive to the distribution of large estates came from the President's message of June 19 last and the increases in estates taxes which followed the President's recommendation.

In the message the President asked for legislation which would "prevent an unjust concentration of wealth and economic power." He demanded legislation which would "encourage a wider distribution of wealth." In fine with the President's request, congress passed a law which increased estate taxes by 400 per cent above those charged under the law of 1926—the law which had driven wealthy individuals to distribute considerable quantities of their property.

Large estate owners who had not already done so and who did not take time by the forelock and distribute their property immediately after June 19 last must be very stupid persons indeed. The break-up of substantial private fortunes in this country must be well-nigh complete.

Large aggregations of wealth still remain intact in the estates owned by churches, foundations, colleges, and hospitals. As early as 1922 the government reported that the wealth of foundations, churches, and colleges exceeded 8 billion dollars.

At the present time the figure is fully 15 billion dollars, or half the national debt. As the movement to break up large concentrations of wealth gains momentum the extension to churches, universities, and hospitals appears to be inevitable. Students of church history do not have to be reminded that confiscators of wealth have been no respecters of institutions and once started have not stopped so long as anything remained to be confiscated. Nor is it likely that they will act differently in the present instance.

SPELLING.

Dana Stewart, a fourteen year old Peoria county boy, won first in the state grade school spelling turnament, makeing a score of 197 out of a list of 200 words. The boys did better than the girls, five boys and one girl being placed. These are useful contests. Spelling is an accomplishement which marks the precise and accurate mind. There is a human tendency to be satisfied with approximation, with a thing which is allmost right but not exactly so. The discipline which rejects the nearly good must stamp character on the person who may have to endure his imperfections but cannot be brought to admire them.

Tollerance of error in others may be a charity, in oneself a sin against truth. When George Washington ordered "hatts" from London his agent, if he spelled the bonnett another way, could excuse the second t, first, because the squire was a colonial, and, second, because the English language had not come to an agreement with itself. Spelling is a Spartan training for the Spartan mind.

CONDONING MURDER.

On the night of Sept. 6, 1934, Howard Guilford was murdered in Minneapolis. He had been a leader in the protest against the press gag law, later held unconstitutional in a notable decision of the federal Supreme court, and editor of the publication against which the law had been immediately directed. Guilford was driving in the Pillsbury avenue district, a so-called "exclusive" quarter of Minneapolis, when another car crowded his to the curb and an occupant opened fire upon him with a shotgun. Guilford's head, says the news report, was all but blown off.

In 1927 Guilford, soon after the first publication of his paper, had been assaulted and shot four times in a similar affair, and though his life was despaired of he recovered, though with impaired health.

The criminals in the first attack were not exposed or punished. The murderer or murderers who finally killed him have not been exposed or punished.

The only intelligent inference from the scandalous inaction of the authorities in these crimes is that they condoned them even if they did not participate in them. To condone them is to invite further crimes of the same kind, as the recent murder of Walter Liggett, another editor, demonstrates. It is on the same moral level as participation and constitutes as serious a threat to the people of Minneapolis.

DEFENSE OF AMERICANISM.

It is to be hoped the appeal of the public relations committee of the Illinois Bar association for coöperation in its campaign against the dissemination of subversive propaganda will have energetic and practical response. The appeal is directed to city and county bar associations, school and civic groups.

The extent and effect of the demoralizing influences at which the appeal is aimed need not be exaggerated to be taken seriously, much more seriously than the great class whose future it is endangering realizes—the home owner, the skilled worker, the small business man and his employers, the white collar or salaried employé, the farmer of his own land, the professions. These Americans have lived so long under the protection of American institutions that they assume their condition to be inherent in the nature of things, an assumption which, backed by the national optimism, does not conduce to the eternal vigilance that is the price of liberty. Meanwhile the advocates of revolutionary change in the American system of life, champions of foreign systems, economic, social, and political, do not sleep on their cause. The country is full of schemes to bring about some fundamental change, supported by organization and spreading propaganda. This is a natural product of freedom, but it calls for active and intelligent defense measures unless we are willing to lose suddenly or gradually what we have always cherished as the special values of American life.

All measures for the defense of Americanism, if they are not to defeat themselves, must be consistent with Americanism. Individuals alarmed for possessions or privileges are likely to ignore this essential principle and to demand resort to some form of compulsion which seems to promise immediate protection. The situation might so develop as to compel defense from force by force, but happily we have not reached that stage and need not reach it if we meet subversive propaganda by exposing its fallacies of assertion and argument. It is not difficult to defend American institutions and principles, to show to the great mass of the American people their meaning and worth. But it is a task that cannot be left to take care of itself. It requires, in fact, just such widespread coöperation among awakened citizens as the bar committee asks for and upon which many patriotic organizations are already working. Indifference and preoccupation with private interests must be overcome. The solution is in education in the widest sense by public discussion and by placing within the reach of all the essential facts which, despite disappointments and abuses, demonstrate the merits of Americanism.

Every tyrannical government of the old world, including the self-styled proletarian republic, suppresses this process. The enemies of Americanism, while they demand its privileges, would do so likewise. Nevertheless, our best defense from them is exposure of the misinformation disseminated by them and instruction in the facts and the meaning of American institutions and principles. Americans know how to organize for effective action. Organization must not be left to subversive forces.

Editorial of the Day

THE TOWNSEND PLAN EMERGES AS A NATIONAL ISSUE.

[Fremont (Neb.) Tribune.]

The election in Michigan has left the nation with a bad case of Townsend jitters. This demonstration of the ability of the advocates of the most fantastic scheme ever devised for getting something for nothing to elect a member of congress is convincing evidence that Townsendism has become a national issue, for better or for worse.

It is a political Frankenstein that is stalking across the American stage today, in the form of the Townsend plan. President Roosevelt may not acknowledge parentage, but he is the father of the state of mind that has made the American people receptive to the Townsend principle.

Mr. Roosevelt has cast the seed of this remarkable idea to the economic winds, and he is likely to be the first to be buried under its harvest. He taught the American people to look to Washington for all the blessings of life. He sponsored the creed that the public treasury was an inexhaustible fountain of cash and credit, into which an enlightened nation might delve interminably. He made a billion dollars look like a counterfeit nickel. He threw into the discard all the axioms of thrift and of caution, and put in their place the new virtues of borrowing and spending.

Mr. Roosevelt taught all this to America, and now his pupils are in a fair way to teach him something. The Townsend plan goes far beyond anything he has dared to do, inconceivable as that might have seemed a few months ago. His profligacy with billions dims into pure penury in the light of this new crusade. And if Townsendism goes anywhere at all it will trample over the dead political body of Franklin Roosevelt.

It does not seem possible, even yet, that the basic intelligence of the people of this country can accept the Townsend principle. But that it is gospel to thousands of men and women in every part of the nation is a fact too obvious for dispute. To those imbued with the inspiration of security that symbolizes the Townsend delusion reason is vain and logic futile.

If this plan does prevail and America is finally committed to the colossal experiment the abyss of national instability into which we are destined to descend is sad to contemplate.

The sending of one man to congress does not, of course, constitute control of that body. The Townsend planners still have a long way to go. But the important thing at the moment is that they are very obviously on their way.

By the standards of normal times the Townsend plan is a ridiculous idea. It could only blossom in a period of great distress. In better days Dr. Townsend would have been laughed off the street or locked up.

But there is nobody to laugh at Dr. Townsend now. He stands in the center of the national stage, with the whole nation as his attentive audience. No one knows what power he holds or how many followers he has. No one knows what his destiny is to be. But the American nation has come to a sudden realization of the fact that the economic and political affairs of this country are turning topsy-turvy, and that Dr. Townsend is doing it. He may be headed for the White House, or beyond.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

SOME PEOPLE have written to me that I'm all wet when I say that most of the automobile tragedies are the fault of the drivers. Well, it might possibly be true that the cars are to blame. Looking out of my window yesterday morning when the mercury was slowly trying to get away from the zero mark, I counted twenty-five machines that had stood out in the snow and the intense cold over night, and most of them had been there for several days; ever since the cold wave started. Now if those automobiles had any sense at all wouldn't they go over to a garage and stay inside out of the storm? Certainly. Why doesn't an automobile realize that he cost his owner a good many hundred dollars, maybe thousands, and not stand out in the street in freezing weather? A good many of them, of course, were frozen up, and wrecking crews had to come over and tow them to a repair shop. Now that cost their owners a lot of money. If an automobile had any decency at all it wouldn't stay out in the snow and put its owner to a lot of unnecessary expense. And then look how the automobiles are acting about getting their state and city licenses for next year. The state and city authorities declare they are going to begin arresting drivers right after New Year's day if the cars haven't got their licenses tacked on 'em. But are the automobiles making any effort to get their licenses so that their poor owners will not be humiliated by being arrested and fined? Not at all; they just don't seem to give a darn whether they have their new licenses by Jan. 1 or not. After all, when I see how doggoned shiftless and lazy automobiles are, perhaps it's true that they are more to blame for accidents than their drivers.

HI, HANDSOME!

Up Seventh street walked Jeremiah Brown,
Aged sixty-three, dyspeptic, and possessed
Of quite the sharpest tongue and blackest frown
In all the neighborhood. Small boys addressed
Him secretly as "Old Man Sour Face";
Small girls made grimaces behind his back;
And small dogs scampered with more speed than grace
Before his cane should strike them from his track.
This afternoon all Seventh street was gay
Except each spot where Jeremiah tread.
He scorned the sunshine, scorned the shops' array,
And kept his scowling gaze set straight ahead.
At Vine and Seventh stood a battered car
With eight or ten young students packed inside,
And as he passed they pushed the door ajar;
A young thing called, "Hi, Handsome! Have a ride!"
Old Jeremiah muttered, "Saucy chit,"
And kept on walking very quickly. Still
The tight lines of his mouth relaxed a bit;
His black eyes twinkled quite against his will;
There was a spring to every step he took,
And in his heart . . . Ah, Jeremiah, had
You deigned to give the window panes a look
You would have seen reflections of the lad
Who wore the sweater of the college crew,
Walked just behind you, and who waved to greet
The "saucy chit" that hadn't noticed you
That shiny afternoon on Seventh street.

FIGURES FROM THE treasury department show that for every dollar the government takes in it spends one dollar and ninety-five cents. Of course there's only one answer to that; the government must stop taking in money. Then it will only spend ninety-five cents for every dollar it doesn't take in. Oh, well, figure it out yourself, but it looks a little bit difficult.

THE WHOLESALE MAKERS of postcards are kept busy night and day now turning out carload lots of cards for the visitors in California and Florida who grasp this wonderful opportunity to write to their friends in other parts of our great Union: "Sorry to hear about your blizzard and zero weather. We are having tea now under the palms in front of the hotel and will go bathing in the ocean this afternoon. Having glorious time. Wish you were here." Oh, well, who cares? Reading news of a blizzard in the rest of the country and writing a postcard of commiseration about it is the principal outdoor sport in California and Florida. It's really the best fun they have.

WHAT'S BECOME of President Roosevelt? Why, even Mr. Garner, the Vice President, gets much more notice lately than Mr. Roosevelt. And never before in the history of this great confederation of free and sometimes united states has the Vice President been more in the limelight than the President. Time was when we didn't even know who was Vice President, but now we hear as much about him as though he used somebody's liver medicine for baldness and ingrowing toenails.

WITHOUT BENEFIT OF FLESH.

What do you know of me,
Setting out your bread,
Spending what you proffer me
Lying in your bed?

The clock is more absorbing,
Ticking on the wall;
The dog asleep beside the fire;
The first snowfall.

If we should meet hereafter,
I fear you'd never own
My naked unfamiliar soul,
Standing alone.

INHERITED EYE DEFECTS.

THE study of heredity has helped to clear our understanding of many diseases. Among these are certain anomalies affecting the eyes. The eye, being a highly specialized organ of great complexity, is particularly subject to abnormalities of growth. Animals bred in an unfavorable environment may be born with imperfectly developed eyes or even with no eyes at all. Such deformities may become fixed in the germ plasm of certain strains so that malformed eyes appear with great regularity in the descendants.

One of the defects that has long interested students of heredity is known as color blindness or daltonism — so-called because John Dalton, who first studied it, was himself color-blind. This peculiar deficiency affects about 10 per cent of men, but very rarely occurs in women. It is transmitted from father to son. Daughters of a color-blind father, while not themselves affected, are conductors and pass on the imperfection to their sons. If members of two color-blind families or cousins in the same color-blind family marry, the women as well as the men who issue from such a marriage will be color-blind.

In daltonism the sense of color is seldom completely absent, but the victim confuses red and green especially. In certain individuals the sense of red is markedly defective and in others the sense of green is lacking. This makes inconvenient the present system of red and green traffic lights, as color-blind persons find difficulty in obeying the signals. We must understand that color blindness does not affect the vision. The eyes may be perfect but cannot distinguish between colors.

The same form of sex-linked heredity appears in the disease known as retinitis pigmentosa. In this condition the periphery of the retina [the lining back of the eyeball which conveys the sense of sight to the brain] is affected by a form of degeneration, the first symptom of which is night blindness or inability to see in dim light. Center vision remains good for long periods, even throughout life, but in some cases the field [breadth] of vision becomes gradually narrower until the victims are practically blind or at best can see only objects that are straight ahead.

Another failure dependent upon this form of heredity is optic atrophy or Leber's disease. About the time of puberty loss of vision may be noted in one or both eyes, which may progress to marked dimness of sight. Such patients seldom become blind but may have their vision reduced to one-tenth or less of normal, so that close work is impossible. It is apparently due to degeneration of the fibers of the optic nerve [nerve of sight]. While this condition usually occurs at puberty, Riedl has recently collected a number of family histories which show that it may be manifest in early infancy and result in practically complete blindness.

Albinism, or absence of pigment throughout the body, is noticed especially in the eyes, which depend upon pigment for the protection and proper functioning of the retina. Both sexes may be affected. When light strikes the eyes the structures are so transparent that they appear pink. Due to the resulting poor vision the eyes cannot focus steadily but are subject to a rather constant to-and-fro movement. In fact, in severe cases the eyeballs appear to be in constant motion. Such individuals are seldom blind but have a marked lowering of vision.

These are only a few of the hereditary eye diseases. In most cases they are not improved by either medical or surgical treatment, and reliance, therefore, must be placed upon various types of optical instruments which magnify the images. We can escape hereditary defects by being well born. Children, unfortunately, cannot select their parents, but marriageable adults may, through the exercise of intelligence, avoid taking a life partner with known transmissible defects.

HEAT AND ICE.

M. P. W. writes: Is it possible to give general rules for proper use of heat and ice? When to use hot applications and when to apply ice seems a nice distinction.

REPLY.

Heat is employed in the treatment of sprains, dislocations, bursitis, bruises, and in infections of various kinds, including infected wounds. It is also helpful in arthritis and in various neurological and psychiatric disturbances. Its general effect is relaxing.

Severe cold causes congestion of the skin capillaries and, later, their rapid and extreme contraction with a lowering of the surface temperature. A moderate degree of exposure to cold is followed by a reaction during which the capillaries become dilated, the circulation is stronger, and normal body temperature returns. Cold is indicated in nearly all congestive disorders, such as severe headache. Like heat, it may be used in infections and in sprains. It tends to lower the violence of inflammation in acute pericarditis and in acute inflammations of joints, and hence relieves pain. It is used in some eye and nervous diseases, in skin diseases, and in fevers.

SEE CHILD SPECIALIST.

Mrs. V. R. writes: I have a baby 6 months old who is not like other babies. He had a hemorrhage of the brain when born. Do such children ever develop normally?

REPLY.

Many children who have had a hemorrhage of the brain at birth recover and are normal mentally. Much depends upon the extent of the injury. If your child is not developing he should be under the care of a competent child specialist.

"PROMISED SHARE."

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A person has no money at the present time, but has been promised some through an estate at a later date. 1. Can he make a will now leaving this promised share to certain individuals so that in case of death before the estate is settled his share can be distributed as he wishes? 2. Is there any way of making a will so it will not have to be probated? E. G. R.

1. Yes, but if he dies before the death of the person from whom he is expected to inherit, then presumably they will inherit nothing.

2. In general, the presence or absence of a will has nothing to do with the necessity for probate. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TAX SALE.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How many years' taxes does one have to be behind before property can be sold for taxes? I am four years behind and would not like to lose the property. 2. Just what is the limit? I have had lots of trouble and am very short of money, so if I pay just [3] what is necessary until I get caught up I will be able to take care of the rest of it. E. M.

1. There can be a tax sale immediately upon the first default.

2. Two years after the tax sale, a tax deed issues which is a serious cloud on the title, but if there are no bidders at the tax sale, then there is a forfeiture and a belated adjustment is somewhat easier.

3. The first step would be to ascertain at the office of the county clerk what has been done in your case.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RIGHT TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A husband and wife have a joint bank account. They purchase a $1,200 fur coat for the wife, have it remodeled to fit her, and pay $800 on it. The wife dies a few days after the transaction. In her will she leaves all of her clothing and furs to a sister. To whom does the coat belong, the furrier, the husband, or the sister? J. E.

The rights of the furrier depend on the wording of the contract of sale. The rights of the wife under that contract would go to her sister under the will. We cannot advise to advantage without having the wording of the document before us.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil.—The Brazilian chamber of deputies' recent approval of a constitutional amendment allowing the president to meet any revolt by declaring a state of war comes when communism, reputedly with a stream of Moscow gold, is winning a large following from all classes of people in this country.

The chamber's decision followed by less than a month the revolt which broke out Nov. 23 in the states of Pernambuco and Rio Grande do Norte and which was followed four days later by another bloody outbreak in Rio de Janeiro when a third of the 3d infantry revolted.

The uprising was planned to break out simultaneously in all twenty states of Brazil, but, due to cold feet or more sober judgment on the part of most of the conspirators, it took effect in only the two states.

Loyal troops put down the disorders and the government's position is now considered strong. However, more than a thousand persons, including officers and men of the army, doctors, lawyers, engineers, and even newspaper men, are reported to be under arrest and awaiting trial for having parts in the plot, which was officially declared to have been of communist origin.

Special police at Sao Paulo reported finding in the possession of a prominent person arrested on suspicion a document proving that the Nov. 23 uprising was directed from Moscow. The document showed, police said, that Brazil was to have been made a soviet republic had the revolt been successful, with Luiz Carlos Prestes as president and a Russian, Igor Dolgorosky, the appointed delegate from Moscow.

Carlos Prestes is the recognized leader of communistic activity in Brazil—having been appointed head of bolshevist propaganda in this country after he spent two years in Moscow—and officials say he directed last month's abortive uprisings.

When Capt. Agildo Barata, young officer who led the 3d infantry rebellion, was captured he carried the rebels' orders, written in red ink, dated Nov. 26, 1935, at Rio de Janeiro, and signed by Carlos Prestes, officials declared. They said there is no doubt of the genuineness of the signature.

Officials are sure Carlos Prestes, an ex-Brazilian army captain, was in Brazil to direct the disorders, although he has ostensibly been an exile since 1927, when, with a few hundred followers, he trekked across the wild Brazilian hinterland and finally took refuge in Bolivia. For a few years he enjoyed a sort of "hero" reputation and was popular among the Brazilian working classes.

Singularly, in 1930 Getulio Vargas, who is now president, summoned Carlos Prestes secretly from Buenos Aires, where he was then living, to Porto Alegre, state of Rio Grande do Sul. Vargas invited the exile to aid in the revolution which Vargas and his Allianca Liberal were organizing and which eventually upset the existing régime. Carlos Prestes accepted and was given, it is declared, a few hundred dollars with which to buy arms abroad for the revolutionaries. He went back to Buenos Aires, but it is maintained he never delivered the rifles.

After the 1930 revolution, however, he was invited to return and reënter the army, but he refused and took his family to Buenos Aires. Shortly thereafter he made his visit to Moscow.

Many immigrants—Rumanians, White Russians, Poles, Lithuanians, and others—are finding their way into Brazil. At the immigration office they declare they have fled to this country to be safe from bolshevism. They appear penniless, yet in a few weeks many start businesses.

This correspondent, in a long investigation, determined that many who land penniless are soon approached by their countrymen who offer financial assistance on condition that the new arrivals join the communist party and participate in its well organized propaganda. In return they are promised—and get—support for their business.

Each steamer from Europe lands a score of new recruits for the Brazilian communist party. Good and poor hotels, boarding houses, workers' unions, and factories are packed with them. After a few months in this country many are patronizing good clubs, going to parties or gambling heavily at the casinos and even working actively in local politics.

The police are well aware of this strange and dangerous situation, but little is done about it. Critics say the police, too, are profiting from the communist slush fund.

THE AVERAGE FILIPINO.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Mr. Chesly Manly's article in today's TRIBUNE relative to the average Filipino is either an attempt at humor or a display of the effects of the tropical climate upon an otherwise normal mind. If it is the latter, the whole incident is pardonable and may be completely ignored. However, if it is intended to be humorous, it falls sadly short of its objective. The conclusions drawn are neither factual nor logical. It insults the intelligence of the thinking person, and invites resentment from the Filipinos as well as from the conscientious Americans who have earnestly contributed toward the development of the islands to their present state.

In support of his statements Mr. Manly cites isolated and unrelated incidents. The fact that he has been associating with Igorrotes and Moros and a few from the unenlightened classes does not qualify him to pass judgment on the average Filipino, because it is as fallacious to take such incidents as a basis for generalization as it would be for any one to come to this country and make the statement that the average American is a composite of such elements as the most underprivileged Negroes; the Alaskan Eskimos in their native environs; the backward Indians in their reservation; the baby killing fiends who are driving eminent citizens out of the country; the flogging and raping morons roaming at large; the wife swapping individuals about whom we read so much lately, and the murderous gangsters that abound in American cities.

The mere fact that these elements do exist in this country does not justify any one in taking them as the basis from which to draw the conclusion that the average American should be selected from such groups, any more than a sane person should select the average Filipino by a casual observation of the backward classes and the primitive aborigines who have been driven to the remotest extremes of the islands, and who are a deterrent rather than a contributing factor in the progress of the country.

Fortunately, there are reputable institutions in the United States and in the Philippine Islands where authentic facts relative to the islands are obtainable, and we need not rely upon narrow minded and prejudiced comments.

VERY MUTCH SUPRISED.

Pittsburg, Kas., Dec. 18.—I am very mutch suprised at your great paper or suposed to be great, that you absilutely failed to give the Townsend plan any space as to the great Convention. The Townsend plan will by January the first have Forty Million subscribers and let me inform you now they will settle many scores as well as yours.

In my opinion the associated press has ben handed theirs. but there is a reckoning a comming when the now knockers will be glad to give the Townsend people a square deal. DR. W. E. ROWE.

AN ACHIEVEMENT.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 23.—I wish to congratulate THE TRIBUNE on its two page color photogravure depicting the birth of the Christ in Sunday's [Dec. 22] TRIBUNE. It certainly is a wonderful advancement in the printing industry over the last quarter of a century.

NOTARIAL FEES.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—There has been a little controversy over notarial fees, which I feel cannot pass unchallenged. The complaint of the moment [do my eyes deceive me?] apparently is relative to exorbitant charges. Ho, ho, what a sense of humor the complainant must possess!

I have had the exalted position of notary public for nigh onto six years and my fees have mostly been collected in nonnegotiable smiles or thank-yous. My clientèle consists of relatives, friends, neighbors, and their relatives, friends, etc., etc. To the best of my recollection, I have collected $2 in six years [and this is a most extravagant estimate]. Compare this with the cost of my seal, registration fee, and re-registration fee, and a few other incidental expenditures, and I am strictly on the debit side of the ledger. The only profit attached to this office is the thrill I experience when I see how lovely the seal appears on the document I have just notarized.

DISGRUNTLED NOTARY.

THE VIRTUES OF TOWNSENDISM.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Those dirty, lying articles you publish about the Townsend plan are not making any headway with our members. We've got all such papers and the major political parties on the run, and we will keep them there until we run you ragged and make honest men out of them.

The Crusaders tried it and our membership jumped. You've got the wrong system. You tried to ignore the plan and now you are so jittery that you jump at your own shadow and are using every foul means you are capable of. The people have woke up and refuse to be slaves any more at such hands.

We have just started. M. M. BEAR.

PUBLIC SPIRITED YOUNGSTERS.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—This morning I had the pleasure of seeing a group of youngsters between the ages of 11 and 14 pouring ashes on the street at the intersection of Ogden and Hamlin avenues. It appears that there had been several minor accidents due to the formation of ice on the street made by the skidding of automobiles. These youngsters evidently have had the proper training in foreseeing possible serious accidents and loss of life, and therefore have taken it upon themselves to protect the public. They are real safety-minded citizens and should set an example to many of our adults.

S. EDWARD BLOOM.

WHY NOT DOUBLE THE PENSION, THEN?

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 24.—Mr. T. D. Ehrlich, in his "Analysis of the Townsend Plan," ignores the most important part of the plan—the compulsory spending of it each month. This feature would open every factory in the country on full time. Every man able to work would have a job and he would not be working for from $6 to $15 a week as at present. With a job at good wages who would worry about the tax?

BORAH ON WAR.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—In your editorial this morning on Senator Borah I noticed that you failed to mention that among other things "the leonine Borah indorsed the war in a speech as lofty, as patriotic, and as perplexing as usual." This was in the early part of 1917. The quotation is from "Road to War," by Walter Millis.

ALIMONY PAYER 13 YEARS MAKES PLAINT TO JUDGE

ChargesEx-WifeDisobeys Court Order.

Earl W. Masden, owner of a textile converting plant, who lives at 1400 Lake Shore drive, has paid his former wife $22,660 in alimony in the last thirteen years. When she failed to heed a court order providing that their son, Earl Jr., 14 years old, should spend Christmas day with his father, Masden and his attorney, Norman Becker, complained yesterday to Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court.

Judge Sabath issued a citation calling on the mother, Mrs. Caroline Masden, 2004 Farragut avenue, to show why she should not be held in contempt of court for failing to obey the order. Her attorney, Robert Cantwell, asserted that she had not been informed of the order, which was issued Tuesday by Judge Sabath, directing that the father have the boy over Christmas. Attorney Becker replied that the original divorce decree provided that the father should have custody of the boy on week-ends and holidays.

Seeks Affection of Son.

Masden charged that in spite of this order, he had not seen his son from last May until the boy called on him Thursday evening and asked him to drop the court proceedings against Mrs. Masden.

"This man is the champion alimony payer of Cook county," Attorney Becker told Judge Sabath. "All he asks in return is that he be permitted to win the affection of his son, and his ex-wife is attempting to refuse him that."

Judge Sabath made the citation against Mrs. Masden returnable on Monday. A few months ago Masden obtained an order reducing the amount of his alimony payments to $20 a week.

Suicide Blamed on Alimony.

Despondency over inability to meet alimony payments was fixed by a coroner's jury yesterday as the reason for the suicide of Fred J. Frank, 43 years old, 5911 Princeton avenue. Frank shot himself on Thursday in a bakery at 252 West 59th street, of which he was the manager, and died a short time later in St. Bernard's hospital.

His widow, Mrs. Florence Frank, testified at the coroner's inquest that he had been ordered to pay her $10 a week as temporary alimony pending hearing of a suit for divorce, and that he had had difficulty in meeting the payments.

Five Die in Portugal.

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Torrential rains, regarded as the worst Portugal has experienced in the last 25 years, brought death to five persons today.

The property loss is large. Several destroyers and other ships parted moorings at Lisbon and Oporto and were damaged in collisions.

APPEALS COURT CENSURES JUDGE ON REALTY DEAL

Reverses $35,000 Sale of 9 Story Building.

A ruling of Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude approving the sale of a nine story apartment building after foreclosure to a bondholders' committee for $35,000 drew the censure of the Illinois Appellate court yesterday. In reversing the order of sale and ordering a resale the high court condemned the use of "equity powers of a court of chancery for purely business reasons."

The property involved is the Dellashore apartments, 257 East Delaware place. The Appellate court pointed out that after the building had been bid in for $35,000 by a representative of the bondholders' committee, $8,592 was to be deducted for fees and other prior claims of the trustee and attorneys, and only $26,408 would remain for distribution to holders of $230,000 outstanding in first mortgage bonds.

Secondary Issues Get Nothing.

Holders of second mortgage bonds, totaling $100,000, and third mortgage bonds, aggregating $60,000, would receive nothing.

The foreclosure suit was filed April 19, 1932, by Melvin Straus, as trustee representing the holders of outstanding first mortgage bonds. A decree of foreclosure and sale was entered on Dec. 1, 1932.

The sale was held Aug. 23, 1934, the only bid—$35,000—being made by Irving Feldinger, nominee of the bondholders' committee, consisting of George W. Rossetter, Jay C. McCord, and Sidney H. Kahn, who acted in a similar capacity in numerous Straus cases. The committee had $180,300 of the outstanding bonds on deposit. On Aug. 31, 1934, Judge Trude ordered all nondepositing bondholders to be notified that a hearing on the report of sale and objections would be filed.

Court Upholds Lone Objector.

The only nondepositing bondholder represented at the hearing was Harold Factor, who objected to ratification of the sale but was overruled. Judge Trude then approved the sale and a reorganization plan. Factor took an appeal. He charged that the proceedings were collusive and fraudulent and "part of a scheme to deprive bondholders of the value of their securities" and that the sale was "fictitious."

The opinion of the Appellate court, written by Judge Oscar Hebel and concurred in by Judges Ross C. Hall and Denis E. Sullivan, said:

"This bid of $35,000 for the real estate is rather startling when we consider that the improvement on this property is a nine story fireproof apartment building, which had incumbrances consisting of a $300,000 first mortgage, $100,000 second mortgage, and $60,000 third mortgage.

"The approval of a report of sale and distribution should be carefully considered by the chancellor and the sale should not be approved when it is apparent to the court that the sale is so inadequate as to be unreasonable and sufficient to excite suspicion. The bid reported was so grossly inadequate as to be inequitable.

"The nondepositing bondholders were not properly before the court, but were given 120 days to decide if they would participate.

"The bondholders' committee sought to use the equity powers of a court of chancery for purely business reasons, in other words, to have the court approve a contract entered into by a group of bondholders to induce nondepositing bondholders to join in this contract."

SENTENCES TWO YOUNG ROBBERS.

Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court sentenced Samuel Adams, 18 years old, and John Nolan, 18, both of College, Ga., to a year in jail for automobile theft and a year on each of three charges of purse snatching yesterday. The sentences are to run consecutively.

TWO SENTENCED TO 1-5 YEARS FOR INSURANCE PLOT

Gustaf Lindquist, former insurance commissioner of Minnesota, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul lawyer, were sentenced by Judge Joseph Burke in the Criminal court yesterday to one to five years in prison. Each was also fined $1,000. Their motions for new trials were denied, but they were granted stays of mittimus until Jan. 27 to prepare for appeals.

The two were convicted by a jury of conspiracy to gain control of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield in order to loot its assets.

Lindquist has been in jail since his conviction for lack of $7,500 bonds. Karatz, however, has been at liberty in $25,000 bonds, covering this and another case in which he was convicted. Before his most recent trial Karatz was found guilty with David [Long Count] Barry, boxing referee, of conspiracy to defraud the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Jackson boulevard, of $94,000 with which to gain control of the life insurance company. Karatz was sentenced to one to five years in prison and Barry to a year in jail.

CHARLES BROWN, PRINTING PRESS EXPERT, IS DEAD

Former Chief of Federal Government Plant.

The body of Charles S. Brown, a veteran in the printing business in Chicago and superintendent of the government printing office in Washington during President Theodore Roosevelt's administration, will be brought here today from Hot Springs, Ark., where he died suddenly on Christmas day.

Mr. Brown, who was 75 years old, appeared in good health when he left here several weeks ago to spend the winter at Hot Springs. He made his home here at the Alexandria hotel. His wife, Charlotte, died in 1930.

Starts as Printer's Devil.

For 25 years Mr. Brown was associated with the Duplex Printing Press company of Battle Creek, Mich. He entered that company's employ after working up from printer's devil to the ownership of a small weekly newspaper in Michigan, and was the company's Chicago representative for 15 years.

He was retired about seven years ago when the company established a distributor here, but he kept "in the harness." After having been a salesman of newspaper printing presses and an expert on their installation, he could not bring himself entirely to give up his work, his associates said.

He was given a leave of absence by his employers when President Theodore Roosevelt asked him to come to Washington and take charge of the government printing office. He held that post for three years, until the end of Roosevelt's term.

Burial at Hastings, Mich.

Surviving him are two sons, Charles H. and Lemuel S., and a daughter, Mrs. Winifred B. Holcomb, 6211 North Artesian avenue. Charles is a salesman for the Duplex company.

The body will lie at a chapel at 2701 North Clark street today and tomorrow. Burial will be at Hastings, Mich., on Tuesday.

SON FILES SUIT TO BREAK WILL OF MRS. M. E. HUGHES

Notice was filed in the Probate court in Miami, Fla., yesterday that the will of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hughes, mother of George A. Hughes, president of the Edison General Electric Appliance company, will be contested by her son Frank of Glendive, Mont.

Mrs. Hughes, the widow of Gen. Alexander Hughes, once attorney general of Dakota territory, died in her apartment at the Seneca hotel here last Dec. 16. In 1930 she created an annuity of $900,000, which is shared at her death by her sons, George, William B. of Evanston, and Frank, and her daughter, Mrs. George W. Dulany, 936 Lake Shore drive. The balance of her estate, consisting of $100,000, was willed to her son, E. A. Hughes, retired Chicago utility executive.

Ednyfed Williams, attorney for Mrs. Hughes, said here yesterday the Miami suit seeks to break the will, which left the $100,000 to E. A. Hughes, on the grounds Mrs. Hughes was not sane in 1930 when the will was executed and also that she was a resident of Florida and not of Chicago. She kept a winter home in Coral Gables, Fla. Mr. Williams said the will was filed for probate in Chicago and that the hearing on the contest would be held here in February.

SHOOTING LANDS ONE IN HOSPITAL AND TWO IN JAIL

Two men were locked up and a third man was in the Bridewell hospital last night as a result of a shooting in a tavern at 1624 Lawrence avenue earlier in the day. The wounded man, Herbert Allen, 41 years old, 4819 North Lincoln street, a painter, was shot in the chest. His condition was not serious.

Guido Menyerelli, 34 years old, owner of the tavern, said Allen was shot by John Kiley, 30 years old, 2229 North Kilpatrick avenue, a minor official for the flat janitors' union. Menyerelli said Kiley had started a quarrel with him and finally drew a revolver and fired a shot at him. At that instant, he said, Allen walked between them and was struck.

Kiley denied the shooting but he and Menyerelli were taken in custody by Lieut. John McSween and locked up at the Summerdale station.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Thanks a Million

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A sour note, sounded in Tin Pan alley yesterday, swiftly enveloped Radio Row in a discord of blue. This situation was brought on by the announcement by Warner Brothers Pictures corporation that music provided by eight subsidiary concerns is banned from broadcasting beginning Jan. 1, until further notice. The ban resulted through secession of these music houses from the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers. The music houses were dissatisfied with royalties from radio under A. S. C. A. P.'s 1932 agreement with broadcasters.

Though this squabble probably will result in long drawn out litigation before it is settled there will be immediate results. Many long established radio theme songs and many much played selections will vanish. The blue pencil will get "Rhapsody in Blue," by Gershwin, Paul Whiteman's signature, and others.

Here in Chicago George Olsen is affected. Last summer he abandoned his original theme, a sort of locomotive effect, for the tune, "With a Song in My Heart." Yesterday he had to drop that. Henceforth he will use "Sandali," [meaning "In a Little While" in Hawaiian], an original composition by Henry Russell, Murray Martin, and George Monroe of his orchestra. At WBBM-CBS the ban was made effective immediately for sustaining programs. Sponsored programs will make the change at New Year's. W-G-N and MBS and NBC will take notice of the ruling Jan. 1.

Other local CBS theme songs dropped are: Myrt and Marge, "Poor Butterfly"; Vivian della Chiesa in "Stars of the Milky Way"—"Young and Healthy"; Money Music Makers—"Look for the Silver Lining"; Ann Winters, "The Girl Friend," "Me and the Boy Friend"; The Cadets, "Dreaming"; Joe Plotke's orchestra, "Quicker Than You Can Say Jack Robinson." No new theme songs have been selected by these entertainers as yet.

In the east Ray Noble will have to drop his own song, "The Very Thought of You," which he uses as prelude to his program; Fred Allen, "Smiles"; Richard Himber, "When Hearts Are Young"; Abe Lyman, "California, Here I Come"; Singin' Sam, "Barbasol [tune of "Tammany"]; Voice of Firestone, "Memory Lane"; March of Time, "The March of Time." There will be many others, musical libraries now being occupied with sea[rching] them out. Tunes from many [Br]oadway's current musical sho[ws, inc]luding "Jubilee," also are affe[cte]d.

Such composers as Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern, and Sigmund Romberg find themselves in the uncomfortable position of belonging to ASCAP and working for the Warners who forbid the use of their music on the air.

Broadcasters contend that composers hold at least equal rights with publishers to the performance of their music on the air. But until such rights are established and legally defined they are likely to restrict their activities to avoid copyright penalties.

The Warners got $340,000 in 1934 from radio, according to ASCAP, under the 1932 contract which calls for sustaining royalties of from $500 to $10,000 per broadcaster for use of music plus 5 per cent of receipts from time sold to advertisers. This contract has just been extended for 5 years.

The Warners have demanded a cut of a million a year for the future. To this ASCAP has cried "unthinkable!" But spokesmen for certain broadcasters suspect that relations between Warners and ASCAP are still of the friendliest. They suspect that what ASCAP really means is, "Sounds reasonable," and that in the end it aims to get more money out of radio.

Prof. Frank Hodder Dies; 'Teddy' Roosevelt Critic

Lawrence, Kas., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Prof. Frank H. Hodder, 75, head of the University of Kansas history department for 27 years, died today after a heart attack. PLAN BALLISTICS TESTS ON BOYS' GUNS IN KILLING

Ballistics tests will be made on three .22 caliber rifles which were taken yesterday from Oak Lawn boys to determine whether one of the rifles fired the bullet which caused the death of Herman Heersma, 38 years old, 9328 54th avenue, Oak Lawn, Policeman Anthony Urban of the Willow Springs county highway station announced last night. Heersma died in the Little Company of Mary hospital Thursday from a mysterious bullet wound in the forehead suffered Tuesday.

The three boys from whom the rifles were taken were Robert Palaman, 10 years old; Harold Davies, 17, and Robert Wiedner, 9. Neighbors told Policeman Urban of seeing three boys shooting .22 caliber rifles near the Heersma woodshed, in which he was found shot, on Tuesday. The boys denied having been hunting in the vicinity recently.

The physician who attended Herman Heersma was criticized by Deputy Coroner Lawrence Rasmussen at the inquest yesterday.

Heersma was found unconscious in the woodshed with a tiny wound in his forehead. It was not revealed until just before he died that there was a .22 caliber bullet in his head.

"You were remiss in not reporting an accident case to the police," Rasmussen told Dr. E. G. Schussler, 5225 95th avenue, Oak Lawn, who treated Heersma. The physician replied that he did not consider Heersma's case serious at first, and declared that he was unaware that police must be told of all accidents.

The inquest was continued until Jan. 21.

ARRANGE RITES FOR WIFE, DEAD IN LOVE TRAGEDY

Two women met at a west side funeral chapel yesterday and shared the grief that followed a Christmas day tragedy. They were Mrs. Mabel Eberhardt, 1435 North Kostner avenue, sister of Mrs. Alice Hayden, who killed herself after hearing her husband, James, declare his love for another, and Mrs. Julia Thompson, 120 South Wood street, his sister.

Also assisting in funeral arrangements was Hayden's mother, Mrs. Josephine Hayden. Uppermost in the minds of all was the irony of events that followed the tragedy, which occurred in the Hayden home at 48 North Leavitt street. Following an inquest which freed Hayden and the other woman, Josephine Carden, 18 years old, of 3447 Franklin boulevard, she declared she no longer cares for Hayden and will not marry him.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hayden will be held Monday in the chapel at 2346 Madison street.

DYNAMITE BOMB TOSSED INTO CLUB FAILS TO EXPLODE

A bomb consisting of nine sticks of dynamite inside an iron pipe was thrown through the glass of a door of the old Rainbo Gardens at 4812 North Clark street early today. The fuse, however, was severed when the bomb hit the glass and the dynamite failed to explode. It was found by William Babb, 6444 Laflin street, a watchman.

Sergt. Michael Pidgeon of the police bomb squad questioned Frederick Cramer and Richard Levi, officials of the New Opera Club Catering company, which is having the place redecorated and plan to open it as the New Opera club on Jan. 15. Both said they could furnish no motive for the attempt to wreck the place.

RAID HANDBOOK THIRD TIME; FIND IT'S STILL BUSY

Police Sergeant Frank O'Sullivan and his anti-gambling squad have been conducting an endurance contest for the last two days with the management of an alleged handbook in room 801 at 36 West Randolph street. On Thursday the policemen broke down the doors of the place with sledgehammers and arrested four men, who were freed in court when it was shown the police had no search warrants. Yesterday the squad again invaded the room and arrested four men. Just an hour later a third raid netted two men who were taking bets from patrons, according to the police. Other alleged handbooks at 300 Van Buren street, 110 South Clark street, and 123 West Madison street were also raided yesterday.

'KNOCKOUT DROP' THEFT CHARGE TO GO BEFORE JURY

Ruth Simmons, alias Vivian Murdock, 28 years old, arrested a week ago in the Morrison hotel while allegedly attempting to give a casual man acquaintance a drink containing "knockout drops," was granted a jury trial in a theft case yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. The trial was set for Jan. 17.

Donald S. Williams of Evanston testified that he met the Simmons woman on the street last July and accompanied her to her room in the Mark Twain hotel where they had a few drinks. Williams said he woke up several hours later to find the woman gone and his watch and ring, valued at $1,000, missing.

APPEAL IS FILED ON MERCHANT'S $100,000 ESTATE

An appeal from the probating of the will of Philip Goldberg, Highland Park merchant, was filed in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday. The will, disposing of an estate of $100,000, was approved Dec. 3 by Probate Judge Martin C. Decker of Lake county. Mr. Goldberg died on July 19 in his home at 17 Second avenue, Highland Park.

Judge Decker, in probating the will, held that it was inoperative, however, as to the widow, Mrs. Goldberg because of its failure to mention her. This ruling gave her a dower right of one-third of the estate. The will had bequeathed $5 each to two of Goldberg's children, Selma and Alexander Goldberg, and the balance of the estate was divided equally between two other children, Milton and Sadie Goldberg.

The appeal was filed on behalf of Goldberg's divorced wife, Libby, who is the mother of his four children. She has been in a mental institution since 1906. Goldberg won a divorce in Chicago in 1908. The appeal contends that Goldberg was not a resident of Chicago, that Cook county courts had no jurisdiction in the divorce case, and that the divorce and Goldberg's second marriage are void and Libby is the real widow, entitled to dower rights.

FEES OF $200,000 ALLOWED FROM ECKHART ESTATE

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell allowed $200,000 in fees yesterday to the executor and attorneys of the estate of Bernard A. Eckhart, Chicago manufacturer and leader, who died in May, 1931. Percy B. Eckhart, a son, who acted as executor, was allowed $100,000 from the estate and his law firm, West and Eckhart, received another $100,000.

Percy B. Eckhart pointed out in the application for the fees that there has been considerable litigation in the estate, which is valued at $5,369,136. The government sought $1,237,480, asserting that amount was due as inheritance taxes on gifts Mr. Eckhart made to his family before his death. The government contended that the gifts were made in contemplation of death. The United States board of tax appeals allowed a claim for only $45,000.

After specific bequests to charities and employés, Mr. Eckhart left most of his estate in trust for his widow, his sons, Percy and Carlos, and two daughters, Mrs. Hazel E. Brophy and Mrs. Dorothy Williams, former wife of the Rev. E. Reginald Williams of Milwaukee.

LAWYER'S WIDOW LEAVES $3,482,000 TO RED CROSS

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The American Red Cross will receive $3,482,535 from the estate of Mrs. Clara A. Hapgood Higgins Smith, widow of Frank S. Smith, lawyer, and sister of the late Gov. Frank W. Higgins. The sum to be received by the Red Cross was disclosed today when the transfer tax appraisal was filed. The Red Cross was named as a residuary legatee in the will.

The estate was appraised at $4,928,804 gross and $4,621,045 net. Total bequests to charitable and public organizations were $3,773,694. Mrs. Smith died March 15, 1934.

Out of its total of $3,482,535 the Red Cross must set aside $375,000 in life trusts for five relatives who contested the will. This was provided in an agreement approved in Surrogate's court in settlement of the contest.

STATE TEACHERS VOTE TACIT O. K. TO A SALES TAX

Horner Blamed for Delay in Aiding Schools.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 27.—Over strong objections, the Illinois State Teachers association today gave tacit approval to the sales tax as one source of revenue to obtain a proposed increase from 13 to 30 million dollars yearly in the state school distributive fund.

Several Chicago delegates asserted there was "deep resentment" against the sales tax and that the association ought not go on record as favoring it. They also said it was inconsistent to suggest an occupational tax after having voted previously in favor of a graduated income tax.

The convention, however, voted down an amendment which would have eliminated the sales tax from a list of revenue sources which included taxes on gasoline, income, corporation income, grain futures, beverages, and luxuries.

Demand 13 Millions Due.

Demands for 13 millions of arrearages in back appropriations also were renewed when the association accepted the report of its legislative committee.

Fred L. Biester of Glen Ellyn, committee chairman, told the teachers that the responsibility for "the delay in helping schools rests now with Gov. Horner." He criticized the governor for not including the school problem in the first special session call.

"Gov. Horner is the one who could give us leadership," Biester said. "The path to more money from the state goes directly to the executive mansion."

Frank A. Jensen, La Salle High school superintendent, was named president to succeed C. E. Vance of Danville. Vice presidents elected were Orville T. Bright of Flossmoor, W. C. Handlin of Lincoln, and W. R. McIntosh of Olney.

Charles McIntosh of Monticello was reelected treasurer and Samuel Sullivan of West Frankfort was named as a member of the executive committee.

Claim Billions Untaxed.

The teachers claimed billions of dollars' worth of intangible property "as legally and constitutionally taxable as tangible property" is omitted from the assessment lists.

One resolution adopted at the morning session asserted "the cost of the common schools of Illinois has been reduced 63 million dollars a year since 1931, and the result has been a serious reduction of school efficiency in many communities."

The proposal to enlarge or merge school districts was approved, but the teachers declared relief in the "present acute financial crisis cannot await reorganization of the system."

In other resolutions the convention recommended its name be changed to the Illinois Education association and deplored the action of Gov. Horner in vetoing the teachers certification bill passed by the last general assembly.

COUNTERFEITER'S PAST SIFTED FOR CLEW TO MURDER

Search for clews to the killers of Sam Latelle, 38 years old, convicted counterfeiter, or the motive for the slaying, proved fruitless yesterday. Latelle's frozen body, a bullet wound in the back of the head, was found in a lonely spot on a railway embankment near 1446 West Kinzie street Thursday night.

Police under Lieut. Edward Birmingham of the Racine avenue station spent most of the day in seeking acquaintances of the man, whose names were in a notebook he carried. Those questioned declared that they knew the slain man only slightly. No facts concerning Latelle's recent life were learned.

One theory was that Latelle might have been an informer against a counterfeiting ring, slain for revenge, or to seal his lips against further revelations. This was denied by Capt. Thomas Callaghan, head of the federal secret service unit in Chicago.

Capt. Callaghan said that Latelle had been a fugitive on a government charge since May 18, 1934. He had been sentenced three days earlier by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone for possession and passing of counterfeit money and was placed on probation.

Police are seeking Dominick Tromino, who was convicted with Latelle and given a suspended sentence, and Samuel Alto, 355 Locust street, whose name was found on a pawn ticket in Latelle's pocket. It is believed, however, that this name may have been an alias used by Latelle.

TROOPS CALLED AGAIN IN STRIKE AT MINNEAPOLIS

Not Martial Law, Says Gov. Olson.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Reminiscent of the truck drivers' strike more than a year ago when Minneapolis was ruled by martial law, National Guardsmen tonight guarded a knitting company plant which long has been the center of labor difficulties here.

The guardsmen were under an order by Gov. Floyd Olson to "assist civil authorities" in a move to prevent further disturbances. Olson insisted his act did not constitute "martial law."

Numbering 66 men, under full arms, composing Company C, 135th infantry, they were ordered in late today following a conference between Mayor Thomas E. Latimer and Police Chief Frank Forestal, and after the mayor had informed the governor that unless military measures were taken he feared serious clashes.

Five Policemen Hurt.

Last night five policemen and an undetermined number of pickets and sympathizers were injured when the latter attacked police and employes of the firm, the Strutwear Knitting company.

Some 40 Strutwear employes were removed from the plant under a heavy protecting guard immediately after the militia arrived. Capt. Owen J. Trainor, in charge of the troops, announced that the employes would not return to the plant and that orders from the adjutant general's office were that no one except the necessary watchmen and those needed to operate the heating system were to be permitted to remain on the premises.

Difficulties at the plant first reached a peak last August when pickets besieged the building after they charged attempts had been made to prevent the unionization of employés. Strutwear officials denied this and said that eight dismissed had been taken off the pay roll for other reasons.

Finally Close the Plant.

The dispute, however, increased and the Strutwear officials closed the plant, which normally employs nearly 1,000 persons.

Since that time numerous attempts at negotiation and mediation have been made by various parties, but all have failed. Part of the plant's equipment was recently moved to St. Joseph, Mo., where the company has indicated it may move.

The latest disturbance, that of last night, resulted from reports that the company was attempting secretly to resume operations. Pickets who charged the building smashed more than 100 windows.

The order for troops today followed a new demand made by a committee of businessmen that Mayor Latimer maintain law and order at the plant, to permit peaceful reopening and reemployment of people who want to work.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 27.—(AP)—The discovery of $11,000 in missing jewels in a telephone booth in Grand Central station in New York City was disclosed here today. The jewels disappeared from the home of Alexander E. Duncan Dec. 14, the wedding day of his daughter, Mrs. Edward E. Yaggy Jr. Duncan said today that the jewelry had been recovered by an insurance company. He said the gems were found by a man whose name he declined to disclose. Duncan said the finder wrote him that he had "a package of interest."

Seize 40,000 Gallon Still and Arrest Two on Farm

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—An illicit alcohol still with a capacity of 40,000 gallons, was seized today on a farm near Harrison by federal agents. A huge barn has been remodeled to house the equipment. Adelbert Gleasman, who operated the farm, and Clarence Stannard, hired man at the farm, were arrested. Federal men said they believed the plant had been installed by a Chicago bootlegging syndicate.

ARGENTINA IS OUT OF THE RED; ANNOUNCES CUT IN INCOME TAXES

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Argentina's soldier president, after four years of a tight fisted recovery program in which he has mingled caution with his own spectacular New Deal measures, eased his grasp on the nation's purse tonight.

Gen. Augustin Justo and his finance minister, Federico Pinedo, by virtue of a budgetary surplus of 20,000,000 pesos [about $5,400,000], announced a program of relief for income taxpayers, shopkeepers, and professional men.

It is effective Jan. 1 and embraces the exemption of some 50,000 wage earners in the lower brackets by a downward revision of the income tax and the abolition of certain license taxes to benefit about 26,000 small tradesmen and professional men.

Oppositionists were skeptical of the program, claiming it is largely political and anticipatory of the March congressional election.

MR. ZUBAWCZES HAS FAINT IDEA —AND IT WORKS

The strange psychological condition that causes Edward Zubawczes, 35 years old, 520 South Lawndale avenue, to pass into a coma every time he is arrested is occupying the attention of the police and experts at the Psychopathic hospital.

On Nov. 11, 1935, Zubawczes was arrested by police of the Fillmore street station on a charge of disorderly conduct. He promptly went into his coma and remained in it for several days. When he was arraigned in court he was dismissed. Last Tuesday he was again seized as he was breaking into a tavern at 3554 Southport avenue. Again he went to sleep and last night was reported in a comatic state at the Psychopathic hospital.

Sergt. Michael Ahern of the Town Hall station expressed the opinion that Zubawczes, who once served a term in San Quentin, the California penitentiary, goes into his trances to gain sympathy.

FIGHT TO RESCUE 80 TRAPPED ON 3 SHIPS IN ICE

MOSCOW, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Efforts were pushed tonight to rescue 80 persons stranded in three small steamers caught in the ice in the Caspian sea while 100 passengers of another trapped vessel trekked across eight miles of ice to shore in the Okhotsk sea.

Snowstorms forced back pilots sent to aid the 80 in the Caspian sea. The passengers have been stranded for more than a week.

FIND CANN AUTO NOT ONE USED IN LIGGETT KILLING

But It Will Be Held, Officers Say.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—An automobile used by Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld for the business trips the day of the slaying of Walter W. Liggett Dec. 9, is not the one used by killers who shot Liggett to death in the alley behind his apartment.

John B. Dalton, St. Paul criminologist, told Peter S. Neilson assistant county attorney, today that he was unable to find anything in an examination of the automobile to establish it as the killers' machine.

Meyer Shulberg, president of Chesapeake Brands, Inc., liquor firm for which Cann is sales manager, owner of the machine, has attempted for several days to have the car released. It was impounded a week after the slaying by state authorities.

Await Filing of Report.

Neilson indicated the car would continue to be held, however, until Dalton has filed his report with Frederic A. Pike, assistant attorney general in charge of the Liggett murder investigation.

Kid Cann is under indictment for first degree murder in the killing and is in jail awaiting trial Jan. 20.

Today the widow of the weekly newspaper publisher, in the last of a series of articles appearing in a St. Paul newspaper, told of the machine gun death of the husband.

It was chiefly on her identification of Cann as the slayer that he was indicted and in her article, without using Cann's name, she said "only one impression [of the shooting] stands out—the horrible, grinning face of the murderer, a triumphant demon leering at me from his automobile."

New Issue Published.

The third edition of Liggett's newspaper, the Mid-West American, to be published since his death appeared on news stands today. Written and edited by his widow, who is carrying on the battle he was making against Minnesota's Farmer-Labor party and against alleged criminal-political alliance in Minneapolis, it carried as its lead story a new attack on Gov. Floyd B. Olson.

Find Cause of Collapse of 55 at South Bend Fire

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 27.—Special.]—Fire Chief William Freeh today found an explanation for the excessive toll smoke took on the fire department yesterday when fifty-two firemen and three street department workers were overcome in a blaze which destroyed the H. L. Green store. Celluloid articles and cellophane wrapping stored in the basement had sent up fumes which sickened firemen exhausted from long exposure in the near zero weather. Hospitals reported that twenty-four firemen would remain for treatment a second night.

'TEDDY' ROOSEVELT GRANDSON SEEKING $15,000 FOR INJURY

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Cornelius V. S. Roosevelt, 20, a grandson of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, is plaintif in a suit for $15,000 entered in Middlesex Superior Civil court today against Albert H. Newhouse of Medford, of the Newhouse Motor Transportation firm.

The action is brought in behalf of young Roosevelt, a minor, by his mother, Mrs. Eleanor B. Roosevelt of Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

The suit is based on an accident alleged to have occurred in Shrewsbury last April. The declaration asserts that young Roosevelt, who is a student at M. I. T., was severely and "permanently" injured owing to "negligence and carelessness of the defendant, his servants or agents" in the operation of a truck.

The declaration further says that hospital and medical expenses were incurred in treating injuries sustained.

32 NEW INTERNS ARE ASSIGNED TO COUNTY HOSPITAL

Thirty-two young doctors, all residents of Chicago, were appointed yesterday to serve as interns at the County hospital for an 18 month period beginning Jan. 1, the county civil service commission announced. Certificates were issued by Albert J. Flynn, president of the commission, and Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board.

Those receiving certificates were among the 98 who passed the medical tests given by the commission last January. The 32 getting the highest grades in the examination were appointed last July 1. Those named yesterday stood next highest. They are: Stephen W. Ranson, Leonard H. Weissman, George P. Kaplan, Zachary Felsher, Bertram Spira, Isidore Sklar, Abe Podalsky, Frank M. Quinn, Abraham Wolf, Louis D. Boshes, Samson D. Entin, Herbert Schiller, Alvin Rzeszotarski, Samuel Aronson, Rudolph W. Hack, Mitchell J. Nechtow, George L. Kravtsow, Andrew J. Brislen, Samuel Nieder, Samuel W. Rosenberg, William N. Knudsen, Max Pister, Berney I. Malbin, Franklin Olsen, David P. Lauer, Bernard Schwartz, Donald Dickerson, Ben Pass, Charles W. Scruggs, Eugene Hamilton, Seymour Salberg, and Edgar Breakstone.

SEES TIME WHEN BEDS OF OCEANS ARE MOUNTAINS

Sinking Will Subside in Distant Future.

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—In the long distant future the beds of several seas will be elevated into mountain systems, Henry V. Howe of the University of Louisiana said at today's session of the 48th annual convention of the Geological Society of America and affiliated societies.

Though the beds of the Mediterranean and Caribbean seas, the Gulf of Mexico, and the seas between Asia and the Japanese and Philippine Islands are now subsiding, eventually, he said, they will reverse their sinking tendencies. Through compression and elevation they will become mountains.

Reasons Not Understood.

He spoke on geosynclines, which are the great elongated areas of the earth's crust, generally at or near the edges of continents. For reasons not well understood, he said, they continue to sink, in relation to areas on either side of them, for long periods of time. As their hard rock floors sink, they form troughs in which tens and hundreds of thousands of feet of sediment accumulate, the accumulation about keeping pace with the sinking.

After millions of years of this process the troughs are compressed and the layers of sediment become compact to form beds of rock, he said. The beds are bent into folds, broken and shoved past each other. During and after the compression, folding and faulting these rocks, he continued, are elevated into great plateau-like areas, which are carved into mountains by erosion.

Presents Paper on Quakes.

Andrew Leith and J. A. Sharpe presented a paper on "deep focus earthquakes and the strength of the earth," in which they said that investigation shows that about 10 per cent of the most important earthquakes occur at about 700 kilometers below the surface.

The contrast between the uplifted portions of continents and their basin-like depressions is caused by the slower sinking of the high land, rather than relatively faster elevation, Raymond C. Moore contended in a paper on continental tectonics. Contrary to general opinion, he said, continents are essentially stable geological features and do not tend to drift away from their original positions.

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Feveral is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her horse Siwash. She was taking an early morning's ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, helps her friend, Inspector Piper, investigate. They suspect murder. Miss Withers finds a briar pipe on the spot where the dead girl had lain. Mrs. Maude Thwaite and her husband, Rufus, are owners of the stable where Siwash is kept, and Latigo Wells, manager. Maude Thwaite desired to own Siwash. At Violet Feveral's apartment Miss Withers and Piper overtake Violet's half sister, Barbara Foley, about to elope with Eddie Fry, Violet's boy friend and a race track gambler. Violet was divorced from Don Gregg, and had him put in alimony jail. Thomas, who with his wife, Mattie, are old retainers of Don's father, Pat Gregg, comes in search of Violet. Old Mr. Gregg thinks he is going to die. Thomas hints at foul play. Don Gregg had been released from alimony jail on a fake writ before his wife's death, though he has an alibi and is not held. The autopsy of Dr. Bloom, medical examiner, reveals Violet Feveral was killed by a BB bullet which hit her throat. An expert tells Miss Withers that the "murder" pipe's owner has false teeth. She buys apples with which she hopes to find who among the suspects has false teeth. Piper and Miss Withers call at the Gregg home. Pat Gregg hints there may be a second murder after the big race on Saturday at Beaulah Park. Abe Thomas admits it was he who got Don out of jail. Latigo Wells is fired from Thwaites. The day of the race arrives. Miss Withers and Piper and all the suspects attend. Miss Withers wins on Wallaby, a long shot. She knew he had been Violet Feveral's selection. After the race Miss Withers and Piper head for the Gregg home, driven there by Capt. Joel Tinker of the local police. Barbara, Latigo Wells, Eddie Fry, and Don Gregg are there. Pat Gregg has died—of a stroke, the local doctor insists. Abe Thomas had attended the race.

INSTALMENT XLII.

THE DREAMS OF A DYING MAN.

Captain Tinker said they could take his car, and he would have one of his men pick it up at the village.

Miss Withers followed Piper down to the car.

"I telephoned Dr. Bloom," the inspector told her. "He made quite a fuss, but I finally got him to promise that he'd come up here. I'd feel more certain of this cerebral accident stuff if Bloom said so."

Miss Withers sniffed again. "He won't," she said. "And Oscar, we're not going to New York tonight. It's time this whole mystery was solved, and it won't be solved by absent treatment, either. I intend to stay in the front line trenches . . ."

"Until Dr. Bloom finds that Gregg died a natural death?" Piper suggested with a grin. He guided the roadster out onto the main highway.

"Which he won't!" Miss Withers stoutly retorted.

They managed to get dinner of a sort in Beaulah's one hotel. Miss Withers ordered lavishly and barely touched her food. When the inspector chided her she shook her head impatiently. "I'm putting two and two together," she explained. "Right now they add up to something in five figures plus decimal points, but I'm still trying."

"An attack in the form of a cerebral accident could not be artificial?"

"It's a shame we can't get rooms," the inspector complained. "A good night's sleep would do wonders . . ."

"'To sleep, perchance to dream'!" Miss Withers returned. "Oscar, I couldn't sleep until I hear what Dr. Bloom reports." Suddenly she dropped the spoon in her coffee. "Oscar! Did you hear me? 'To sleep: perchance to dream: aye, there's the rub! For in that sleep of death, what dreams may come . . .?'"

"You're tired, Hildegarde," said the inspector kindly. "You're overwrought. I'll see if I can't find a place for you to lie down . . ."

"Oscar!" she exploded. "Don't be any more stupid than you have to be! I'm quoting Shakespeare for a reason!"

"Yeah? What reason?"

Miss Withers leaned toward him, her plain and somewhat equine visage tense with excitement. "Pat Gregg dreamed strange dreams during his other attack," she explained breathlessly. "He dreamed of being the pendulum of a clock, and then of being a red Barbary ape swinging in a tree. . . ."

"So, what? He had nightmares!" growled the inspector.

She looked at her watch and saw it was after ten. "Don't you think Dr. Bloom has arrived at the Gregg place by now?"

"I'll find out," Piper promised. "Anything for peace in the family."

He got up and made a telephone call. "Bloom's at the house," he announced as he came back to Miss Withers' table. "He says the young man tried to keep him from examining the body, until Tinker threatened to send him to the local hoosegow."

"But what did he find?" demanded Miss Withers.

Piper shrugged. "Nothing, as yet," he admitted. "The old boy is mighty cautious. But he says he isn't satisfied that the death is natural, and they're going to send for an ambulance to bring the body down to the local undertaking parlors."

"We might be able to meet them on their way!" Miss Withers said, rising from the table.

"But Hildegarde, you've seen the body," protested the inspector. "You're not going to tell Bloom how to do his job, are you?"

She looked at him. "I'm perfectly capable of making a suggestion or two," she said.

She took up her position outside the Marble Hills mortuary, and when Dr. Bloom and the local officials arrived with their grim subject, she cornered the medical examiner.

"Doctor, I want to know just what is a cerebral accident?" she demanded.

"But this is no time for a medical lecture——" he began testily. "If a man has hypertension or high blood pressure, he is likely to be subject to thrombosis or cerebral embolism or some other form of what we call cerebral hemorrhage . . . the result of too much pressure of blood on the brain."

"And an attack in the form of cerebral accident could not be artificially induced?" she went on.

Dr. Bloom frowned, and then smiled faintly. "Certainly, you could get the victim to run up twenty flights of stairs. . . ."

"I was thinking of another method," Miss Withers said. She told the doctor what it was.

"Good God!" he exploded. "I never heard of such a thing. But still ——" The doctor's face lit up with an innocent childlike excitement. His fine white teeth clicked nervously, and he clawed at his beard with his stained, dark fingers. "The marks on the ankles—yes, it could be! Anyway," he decided, "I'll go and see!" He hurried away into the mortuary after the others, but Miss Withers had all the confirmation she needed.

She rushed back to the hotel, where she had left the inspector peacefully drowning upon a settee. It was getting on toward midnight now, and the hotel lobby was deserted.

"Wake up, Oscar!" she cried. "I know who killed Pat Gregg!"

"Eh? What's that?"

"Snap out of it, Oscar. I need you to drive the captain's car." Her excitement finally communicated itself to the drowsy inspector.

"Okay, okay," said he. Halfway to the door he stopped. "Where are we going?"

She pushed him forward. "We're going to ring doorbells," she said.

"Yeah——but whose?"

Miss Hildegarde Withers stared him full in the face. "Dead men's doorbells!" she said.

. . . . . .

"Hadn't you better switch off your lights?" suggested Miss Withers.

"But how can I see to drive?" protested Oscar Piper.

"If we can't see, we can't be seen," the school teacher told him. "We'll trap our key witness. Drag a man out of bed when he's heavy with sleep and you'll get the truth out of him. He won't have his mind keyed up to lying—it's an old dodge, but I'm staking everything on the chance that it will work."

"Just to smash an alibi?" Piper asked.

She nodded. "The best alibi in the world," she said softly. Suddenly the inspector jammed on the brakes. "Look!" he cried.

He stopped the car and both of them stared up the hill toward the Gingerbread house which loomed darkly against the stars. There was a faint flicker of flame. . . .

Best Sellers Are Children of Book Clubs

Anne Lindbergh's Story 1935 Exception.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE year's best sellers . . . those are always interesting statistics with which to close the literary budget. This year I wrote to all of the leading publishers asking them to name the year's books which have sold over 100,000 copies.

The book clubs, with their large memberships, have had a great influence on book sales, not, of course, that every member takes the book chosen by the judges, but enough do to pile up the sales figures tremendously over those of books not selected by the clubs.

Every book but one of 1935 which has sold over 100,000 copies has been a book club selection. That exception was Anne Morrow Lindbergh's lovely "North to the Orient" which had sold 165,000 copies before Christmas.

The other books of the year which have passed the exciting 100,000 mark are "Life with Father" by Clarence Day, "Vein of Iron" by Ellen Glasgow, "Personal History" by Vincent Sheean, "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" by T. E. Lawrence, and "Mary, Queen of Scotland and the Isles" by Stefan Zweig, all except "Vein of Iron" biography or autobiography.

Those statistics led me to investigate the best sellers of the last twenty-five years and I collated the following figures with the help of the publishers and three lists, one compiled by Edward Weeks and read before the Institute of Arts and Sciences at Columbia university; an article by Frederick Lewis Allen, author of "Only Yesterday," and a list of the 25 years' best sellers in the 21 Doubleday-Doran bookshops published in their Christmas Book Dial:

'Pier 17' Is Dramatic and Vivid Story of West's Dock Strike

Walter Havighurst, who started in the public schools of Decatur, Ill., and ended his scholastic work in King's college, London, has written a dramatic, clear cut, forceful bit of fiction in "Pier 17" [Macmillan, $2], the story of a water front strike at Seattle, based on recent west coast labor troubles.

"Pier 17" makes no attempt to teach a lesson or explain how a strike should or should not be run. Havighurst merely tells a straightforward, stirring story of a battle between the union and the shipping companies which ended disastrously for the workers. There is tragedy, comedy, and a thin bit of romance.

It's not a cheerful story but it's a gripping one. Havighurst writes with the skill and assurance of an old timer. His background of sea and sailors is colorful and authentic. His chapter of a storm and fire at sea is a splendid bit of descriptive writing.

Political Novel

T. S. Stribling has deserted his native south for big city politics in his latest novel, "The Sound Wagon," published this week and reviewed today.

[Pinchot Photo.]

British Publish 16,000 Books in 1935; a Record

And New Year Promises to Set Another.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—During 1935, for the first time in history, over sixteen thousand new books were published in Great Britain in a single year. The increase in novels alone was over 500.

And 1936, as I have already promised, will lose no time in attacking this record. One interesting contribution to the new year's publications will be a new short biographical and critical study of Arnold Bennett. It will be, however brief, very thorough, for the author, J. B. Simons, has long been lecturer in modern English literature to the Workers' Educational association, and he is a devoted student of Bennett's work.

Not only has he examined sources and influences, but he is familiar with what has been written about Bennett all over the world; and besides dealing in general criticism he will analyze individual books with the object of establishing the author's true qualities. The publisher of this book, "Arnold Bennett and His Novels: A Critical Study," will be Basil Blackwell, of Oxford. I expect it to be a really useful and informative work.

A. P. Herbert, newly elected member of parliament for Oxford university, has lost no time in showing that he is going to enliven the proceedings of parliament.

He announces that he has ready a little bill for the overdue reform of the English divorce laws, as to which he has stated his full case in "Holy Deadlock" as well as in many miscellaneous writings.

Another literary M. P., and one of the youngest, is Somerset de Chair, who wrote "Enter Napoleon." Mr. De Chair is brimming with energy and intelligence; his chief interest is in foreign affairs [he intended to enter the consular service], and he has a first hand experience of continental politics.

Even more experienced in this department is Harold Nicolson, well known to American readers as the author of the biography of Dwight Morrow. If these three men, Mr. Herbert, Mr. Nicolson, and Dr. De Chair, cannot improve the standard of debate by thinking and speaking what is in their minds I shall be disappointed.

Duff Cooper, the new minister of war, had just finished his "Haig," the biography of the field marshal, before he received his promotion, and the second volume of this book will be published by Faber & Faber in the spring.

Echoes of the conflict over the first volume persist; and the second volume promises to be quite as controversial. Since Lloyd George has retired to Africa to prepare the final instalment of his great apologia, 1936 should once more be full of literary fury.

T. S. Stribling Writes Satire on Politicians

"The Sound Wagon" Seems Heavy Handed.

"The Sound Wagon," by T. S. Stribling. [Doubleday Doran, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

T. S. STRIBLING, who has written mildly satiric novels about his native south with what his few peers and most of the rest of American readers would call genius, has deserted both his native background and what seemed like [but apparently was not] his native mildness for satire in the more populous and most satirable field of city and national politics.

He calls his arena Megapolis, which is a good all around name for a great metropolis within easy air commuting distance of Washington, and he goes into the local political rackets of the big city with passion.

The political career of Henry Caridius, which opens with the book, is founded upon a violent protest against corrupt politics. Its foundation is as insubstantial as the air which the candidate breathes in his fiery speeches until fate plays him into a real candidacy by the death of his opponent on election day.

A party boss secures for him an overwhelming majority by the simple means of sending back to the polls to vote a second time the army of voters which had already given his opponent an overwhelming majority when death made him no longer a candidate.

Henry Caridius goes to Washington as congressman, gets on the committee he wants to be on, gets the office he wants, gets the girl he wants, because the girl he wants wants him and is the daughter of the richest man in America.

Racketeers racket through the pages, the wheels of government shriek out graft, and everybody is either in cahoots with or harassed by crime or malpractice. The law, the press, government, present day life in general is satirized.

The satire is, however, in my judgment, heavy handed. Mr. Stribling's genius is not that of Swift. He is an important chronicler, and an honest commentator on the social scene and consciousness of the south. He is not a born—nor a trained—ridiculer, and satire to be effective must be as invisible as the cosmic ray. Mr. Stribling's magic in "Sound Wagon" is like the prestidigitating of an amateur—the illusion is not there.

Of the characters in the book not one is a real person. The boob legislator, his spoiled-rich knowledge seeking secretary [who wants to be another Bertha Krupp], his jealous wife, his crook saving law partner, the crooks he saves, the inventors he doesn't save . . . each character is an idea rather than a person, and of such is not the kingdom of great novels.

There is material in "The Sound Wagon" for a superb novel, but "The Sound Wagon" is not a superb novel.

"It Must Be Your Tonsils" [Doubleday Doran, $1], by Kenneth Roberts, is one of those books that put stitches into the sides of some readers. It's about the author's experiences with a pair of tonsils, his slow conviction that they had given him arthritis, their removal and his discovery that what was the matter with his knees was a pulled cartilage and that maybe it's his teeth that put crinks in his elbows. The discomforts of examinations, the tonsilectomy and a sore throated convalescence are all described as thoroughly as may be in seventy pages.

Saga of Bounty Thrilling Yarn of Sea Tragedy

Tells Running Story of Mutiny and Aftermath.

With that most famous of all sea tragedies, the mutiny on the Bounty, now on the screen, both film fans and readers of Nordhoff and Hall's popular trilogy on that subject should be interested in "The Saga of the Bounty [Putnam, $2.75], edited by Irving Anthony. This is a running story of the mutiny and its aftermath of disaster as told by the men who took part in it.

Lieut. Bligh, Master's Mate Christian, Midshipman Heywood, and others all voiced their experiences nearly a century and a half ago, and Anthony has woven them skilfully into a continuous narrative of thrills.

"These adventurous seamen were for the greater part intelligent men," says the author. "Their stories savour of truth, the truth of experience, in this matter stranger than any fiction created from them. There has never been any need to do more with the story than to gather their personal records. In this book the dead speak out of their sincerity and intimate knowledge. The narratives are printed as written, together with official utterances concerning the affair."

"The Saga of the Bounty" should interest every reader of "The Mutiny on the Bounty" trilogy, for it covers the entire tragedy told about in those three books. It is illustrated and has end paper maps illustrating all of the voyages made by the Bounty and Pandora and small boats from those two ships.

Famed Palmer Mansion to Be Open Tonight

Miss Pauline Will Bow at Dance There.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE debutante season, the gayest in years, continues tonight with the debut of Miss Pauline Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer. This granddaughter of the late Mrs. Potter Palmer, a social leader in Chicago three decades before her death in 1918, will be presented at a dance in the old home of her grandmother, reopened for the occasion.

The dance itself will be as simple as the debutante's mother, one of society's most conservative and unostentatious members, can make it, but the fact that the great castlelike mansion at 1350 Lake Shore drive has been opened and refurnished especially for the party makes the dance an outstanding debut of the season. Some of the furnishings and noted works of art have been disposed of, but, as far as is humanly possible, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer have restored the dwelling to its former state of elegance and formality.

Furnishings Taken Out of Storage.

Some of the furnishings have been taken out of storage and others have been moved from the Astor street apartment where the Palmers now live to the Lake Shore drive house. A corps of cleaners and decorators has been busy for days getting the ballroom and the other first floor rooms ready for tonight's party, and by the time Mr. and Mrs. Palmer and their younger daughter are ready to receive their guests everything will look as if the Palmers were entertaining in their own home.

There will not be many at the dance, however, in whom the old house will revive memories of former entertaining there, for only a few older people have been invited, and to some of the young married people and to all of the debs and their beaux, probably, the house will be a new, unexplored place.

The Palmers' elder daughter, Bertha, namesake of her grandmother, made her debut there at a reception in November, 1928, so her friends were in the house then. She now is Mrs. Oakleigh Lewis Thorne and she and her husband arrived yesterday from their home in Mount Kisco, N. Y., to attend the dance. Mrs. Thorne and Mrs. Palmer III., the former Rose Movius of Boston, will receive tonight with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer and Miss Pauline, her mother's namesake.

Mansion Sold as Building Site.

The Palmers moved from the brown stone mansion in April, 1930, Mr. Palmer having sold it in July, 1928, to Vincent Bendix, who in 1933 sold it to a small syndicate of wealthy Chicagoans who planned to wreck the house and build a huge apartment building on the site. The house reverted to Mr. Palmer, however, before the work was done. Potter Palmer Jr. had purchased Honoré Palmer's share in the house after their mother's death. Honoré Palmer has no daughters, just two sons, so there never was a question of his using the house for debuts.

In December of the year that Mr. and Mrs. Palmer gave an afternoon reception to introduce Miss Bertha they gave a ball for their daughter's and their own friends and the late Mme. X of THE TRIBUNE wrote of it in her Sunday chronicle of social activities: "Toll the knell of a passing age, an age of large mansions and spacious hospitality! What was probably the last great society ball to be given in a private residence in Chicago was that at which the Potter Palmers entertained several hundred of their friends eight days ago in the historic family mansion on Lake Shore drive. It was with real emotion that the older guests left the house that night. Never again will a scene just like that be possible here. The handsome, old fashioned, six sided hall, with its ornate stairway, its fine and affable air of yesterday, with the vista from it on every side of large, high ceilinged rooms, and its general tone of gay hospitality, will pass from our social and civic life . . . all of these will soon be but a memory. The Palmers' hosts of friends that evening bade farewell not merely to a gay party but to a great epoch."

No one could foresee then that the house, which even then had been sold to Mr. Bendix, ever again would be the property of the Palmers and that they would furnish and reopen it in 1935 for one night's entertainment for the daughter who in 1928 was a little schoolgirl.

Debutantes Will Dine at Casino.

Miss Palmer will dine tonight at the Casino at a party Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hubbard are giving for debutante Barbara Hutchins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins.

Among other dinners that will be given before the dance are one that Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter are giving for the junior Kellogg Fairbanks and one at which Mr. and Mrs. James W. Rogers will be host and hostess.

Many of the debutantes and their beaux will have luncheon in Lake Forest tomorrow as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins, who are entertaining for their niece, Miss Ellen Hill of California, who is here from Vassar for the holidays, and for three Chicago debutantes, Miss Nancy Ryerson, Miss Joan Ryerson, and Miss Peggy Clow.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One of the best of winter beauty aids is a light, efficient oil that can be used as cleanser as well as softener. It isn't expensive and can be used lavishly.

While the wind is high and the snow is on the ground we want to remind you again of one of our pet beauty aids for winter. This is an oil, not a bit expensive, that you can use in absolute slathers as a skin softener. And it will do your skin a world of good if yours is the kind of epidermis that gets all harassed when the cold weather comes.

The woman who put us on to this lives in the country; not only that, but she's one of the vigorous, sensible ones who goes in for winter sports. We never could figure out how her skin, which we knew to be excessively dry anyway, stood the strain of nippy air and cold wind for hours on end while she went skiing and skating.

The oil, it seems, does the trick for her. As soon as she gets in the house she massages it in well. Sometimes, if she has privacy after one of these long outdoor sessions she mixes it with her favorite tissue cream and gives herself a thorough repair treatment. And many a night she goes to bed with her face coated with it. It's proved well worth it. She has used this oil on her hands, too, soaking them whenever she gets a chance.

This oil isn't so heavy as to be unmanageable and it is one oil that has a nice fragrance. It really helps to counteract dryness, you see, and skin dryness seems to be the paramount beauty problem these days.

If your skin is peeling and cracking and being absolutely rebellious when you try to make up smoothly give this oil some serious thought. If you use it faithfully you'll be charmed with its efficiency. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Senator Tydings Takes Bride at Quiet Wedding

Police Guard Mansion of Bride's Mother.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—(AP)—In a police-guarded gray mansion on Massachusetts avenue, Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland was married today to blonde Mrs. Eleanor Davies Cheeseborough.

The tall, socially prominent senator wanted a quiet wedding and got it. Not until the austerely simple ceremony was over and guests started arriving for the later reception did police slacken their vigil.

Then Senator and Mrs. Tydings came out to face the press. His wedding suit was an afternoon cutaway with striped trousers. His bride was wearing an afternoon gown of lavendar-gray crêpe, heavily trimmed with gray fur with broad-brimmed gray picture-hat to match. Her bouquet was orchids.

"Just one shot," said the senator firmly to camera men.

And it was a brief shot at that, for when the photographers pleaded with the bride and bridegroom to look at each other the bridegroom did as requested, but the bride laughed and ran back into the house.

Just about the minimum of personnel for a wedding went into the handsome home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Emlen Davies, for a ceremony that had been kept so secret the senator even denied as late as noontime it was going to take place today at all.

The Rev. Albert J. McCartney of the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant officiated at the 4:30 ceremony. The senator's lifelong friend, Donald Symington of Darlington, Md., was best man. The bride had no attendants.

A reception followed and the avalanche of guests tangled the 5 p. m. traffic of Massachusetts avenue.

The senator's office announced the couple would leave tonight for a honeymoon in New Orleans, and would live during the session of congress at the Massachusetts avenue home where they were married.

Mrs. Tydings formerly was the wife of Thomas Patton Cheeseborough Jr.

Good Morning!

[From a "Frisco Kid" ad.]

It sounded very promising. So I steamed over to the Chicago theater—expecting thrills and getting 'em.

"Frisco Kid" tells a melodramatic story of San Francisco's "Barbary Coast" as it was—when it was. Before the vigilantes took it for its last toboggan slide. The "kid" is one Bat Morgan.

Bat's a sailor. He's shanghaid, but escapes. In a barroom mêlée he kills an awful fellow known as Shanghai Duck—and from then on there's no stopping him. He determines to be he works on the coast—and the works he becomes—sponsored by a crooked politician by the name of Daley. . . . Then—love enters his life. Love for the daughter of a newspaper editor who had been murdered because of his crusades against the "coast."

It is this love that reclaims the bold, bad boy and sets him thinking straight. [But don't think that's all there is to the story. There's plenty more that I have no notion of revealing here.]

The tale unreels colorfully and punchfully. It is effectively backgrounded and has what seemed to me just the proper miasma.

As Bat, Mr. Cagney had a rôle he could get his teeth into. He and Fred Kohler have a fight that should make screen history and there are plenty of minor encounters to keep the tale from going sissy. James is pretty good at loving, too.

Margaret Lindsay gives a clean-cut performance as the editor's daughter. Other players are satisfactory in the main and so is the direction.

The story's weak strand is the ease with which Bat Morgan sells himself and his ideas to the Big Boys.

Taken all in all, however, "Frisco Kid" is movie merchandise that has both flash and quality.

Oak Park Scene of MacArthur Nuptials Today

Miss Jean to Be Bride of Gustavus Babson.

Arthur John Howard will serve Mr. Babson as best man, and ushering will be Mr. Babson's brother, James A. Babson, and two cousins, Sanford E. Babson of Detroit and Norval B. Langworthy; William H. Mr. Babson and his bride will be at home after Feb. 1 in Beverly Hills. They are going east on their wedding trip.

Another bride today is Miss Marion Knight, daughter of William W. Knight, who is being married in a quiet ceremony at 5 o'clock to Stephen Roby, son of Mrs. Emily Roby. Dean Gerald Moore of St. Luke's pro-cathedral in Evanston will read the ceremony in the Knight residence at 520 Lee street, Evanston, and a reception will follow for the relatives and intimate friends who witness the marriage.

Miss Louise Knight will be her sister's only attendant, and John Harleston Read will serve Mr. Roby as best man. Mr. Roby and his bride will leave for Boston tonight to visit her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Knight Jr., who have a home in Wellesley, and to visit the junior Philip E. Coyles [Jane McKinney of Winnetka], who have a new home in Marblehead. Then the bridal couple will go to New York and Bermuda, and upon their return they will make their home on the north shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Beeson of Evanston announce the marriage of their daughter, Jeanne, to Dudley Wood Sheppard, yesterday in Los Angeles. Mr. Sheppard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Sheppard of Berkeley, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cohen, 1301 North California avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Grace, to Raymond Merlander of Chicago on Dec. 18 at the Blackstone hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlander have left on a cruise to the West Indies.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Rosenthal, 851 Drexel square, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Beatrice, to Roy Wedeles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wedeles of the Belmont hotel, on Jan. 2 at the Blackstone hotel.

Two Debutantes Are Given Ball at Blackstone

Miss Cornelia Ranney and Miss Barbara Hutchins both chose blue gowns in which to greet their friends at the ball their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney and Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins, gave at the Blackstone last night. The party marked the formal debut of Miss Ranney, whose gown was made of blue taffeta, but Miss Hutchins, whose gown was of tulle in a paler shade, was presented at a tea at home in November.

Miss Ranney wore white orchids and Miss Hutchins carried a bouquet of gardenias. Both Mrs. Ranney and Mrs. Hutchins wore white. The ballroom was decorated very simply with greens and silver leaves.

The debutantes dined at the Casino as guests of Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, who entertained for Miss Ranney and Miss Pauline Palmer.

Looking as pretty as a picture, Miss Anne Dinsdale Harding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Harding Jr., yesterday afternoon was introduced to society at a tea-dance at the Indian Hill club. Miss Harding and her mother and father received before a screen of pink poinsettias and huckleberries that had been placed before the open fireplace. The debutante wore a becoming frock of blue and silver taffeta made with a bouffant skirt and puffed sleeves, and she carried a spray of orchids. Mrs. Harding wore a gown of brown-rose crêpe and orchids.

Several of the debutante's friends poured at the tea table in the dining room, which was decorated entirely in white and silver, and Miss Harding's brother, Charles III., a student at Harvard, and several young men served as ushers.

Technique of Films Doesn't Work Well in New York Drama

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Several motion picture talents were united in the production of "Tapestry in Gray," a new drama by Martin Flavin which came to the Shubert theater tonight.

It was produced by B. P. Schulberg, a Columbia executive. Marion Gerin, the director, also is from Hollywood, as are the two leading players, Elissa Landi and Melvyn Douglas.

Another importation from Hollywood is the story telling technique. In a series of disjointed and awkwardly contrived "sequences," the story relates the estrangement of two scientists, boyhood friends, through the wife of one. The "flashback" is generously employed to the destruction of smoothness and dramatic surprise. The first audience seemed to take the play lightly.

Shields, Tennis Star, Has Good Part in Movie

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Producer Sam Goldwyn has cast Francis X. Shields, former tennis champion, for a main rôle in "Come and Get It," story of a family of Wisconsin lumber barons which has been adapted from Edna Ferber's story. Virginia Bruce will be featured in it.

Walter Wanger, producer who had Charles Boyer under long term contract, has now put Boyer's wife, Pat Patterson, under similar contract. She's English and her husband is French.

Personal nomination for two of the finest film characterizations ever seen by the writer: Paul Muni in the name rôle in "Louis Pasteur"; Ronald Colman as Sydney Carton in "Tale of Two Cities."

When the orphans' Christmas eve holiday was held at the Chinese theater here 2,700 orphans were seated in 2,200 seats by the expedient of packing the smaller ones two to a seat. They saw "The Littlest Rebel."

A slick auto salesman sold Clark Gable a new model the day before Christmas by the psychological maneuver of having the car, highly polished and invitingly poised to go, just in front of M-G-M studio each night when the actor left the lot. And later each evening the salesman would appear at Gable's quarters, inviting him to "just get behind the wheel and try it." Gable drove onto the lot a bit sheepishly, saying "he'd have gotten me anyway eventually."

Boris Petroff, who acted as manager of the artistic details of Mae West's career, and Jim Timony, who managed her business affairs, have now dissolved their partnership as Hollywood Little Theater promoters. Petroff will produce a stage vehicle titled "Murder with Music," starring Carl Brisson in a downtown Los Angeles theater after Jan. 1. Timony continues with the Hollywood theater.

The Christmas present which pleased Stuart Erwin most was the one he bought for himself, a super electric train with locomotive, tender, mail car, six coaches, and yards upon yards of track. "When I was a kid the family was too poor for me to have one," Erwin says. "Now, I've got one with enough track so that the cook can put a sandwich on it in the kitchen and it will be delivered to me in my bedroom."

Apollo Singers Give 'Messiah' for 75th Time

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Handel would be two hundred and fifty this year if he had lived. One of Chicago's opportunities to pay homage to the old Hanoverian in his time of jubilee came in the form of a presentation of "The Messiah" at Orchestra hall last night by the Apollo Musical club.

This veteran organization is used to honoring Handel both in and out of season, for this was its seventy-fifth performance of the oratorio. In the sixty-four years that have elapsed since the founding of the Apollo Musical club the directors who passed the baton from hand to hand through all these decades have worked steadily toward the goals of tonal beauty, tasteful and musicianly interpretation, split second attack and precision. Their efforts flowered last night into some remarkable performances of the choruses.

Edgar Nelson present conductor, conceives of eighteenth century music as horizontal rather than vertical. As a result of this very sound idea his voice leading is clean and intelligible and he concentrates his forces for some stunning effect only at those climaxes in the score where Handel forgets his polyphony for the moment and peers a hundred years into the future to prefigure the oratorio style of Mendelssohn.

The club announces what is believed to be the first complete Chicago performance of Handel's "Israel in Egypt" for its next Orchestra hall appearance on March 3.

Shopper Finds Smart Hats at Modest Prices

Small Head Sizes Available in Collection.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Small head sizes and equally small areas as to fabrics are combined with modest price tags in a new collection of midwinter headgear, the shopping find of the week.

While these hats are practically the smallest millinery creations to be found, they are unquestionably among the smartest. They are gay, flippant and highly colored and just what you need to give your dull and dark winter clothes the right pickup.

The colors are knockout . . . a rose red, soft almond green, odd and unusual tints of pink madonna blues, rusty hennas, mustard green, and one of the snappiest all white numbers you ever saw.

Some clever, soft, sophisticated gray affairs come in plain felts and some have narrow bands of gray krimmer. Other dark gray felts are distinctive tops for smart slim tailored suits that will be worn under winter coats for the next few weeks.

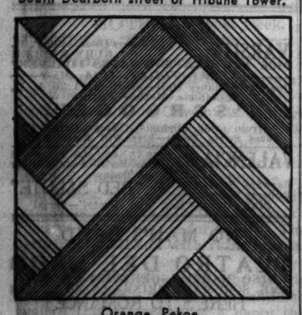

Jaunty models with and without feathers have a decided Robin Hood air. The crowns reach dizzy peaks and the brims are deftly dipped and turned to achieve the proper dash. Bright green hats of such description can be matched to giddy green gloves and even a handbag to contrast all your black dresses and suit.

In this same hat collection are all the difficult shades to match the newest and most exciting of high colored gloves—sulphur yellow, rust, dusty pink and violet. See these very small hats soon while they are new and high fashion news.

Orange Pekoe.

By NANCY CABOT.

We are not talking about tea today, although the title immediately suggests a steaming, clear, amber liquid. The quiltmaker who created and named this block christened the square "Orange Pekoe" because of the color arrangement—three shades of orange. The original coverlet was made from scraps which had to be pieced together after much study and arrangement in order to eke out a warm bed covering rather than an object of beauty, but unconsciously much charm and beauty was achieved.

BY MARY MEADE.

Holidays or high water, we still have the weekly kitchen forum. Before we plunge in today, however, may we suggest a New Year's resolution? Why not resolve to pass the buck to us on all your major cooking problems during 1936? In return we'll resolve anew to give each letter the best attention and the most complete information and help our resources offer. Only a few of each week's questions may be answered in this Saturday forum, but each is sure of a prompt reply through the mails. Especially—although we hate to discuss mundane matters in the same breath with high minded New Year's resolves—if it comes to us along with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to speed up the process.

Mrs. J. E. K. of Chicago starts us off today with this: "I would like to know how to keep soft cookies soft, hard cookies hard, chewy cookies as they should be—and so on."

Storing cookies to keep them at the height of their goodness simmers down to these simple rules: Soft cookies need to be kept from the air and are best kept in a covered tin or jar with waxed paper between layers; hard and chewy cookies best retain their proper qualities when some circulation of air is uprovided. In either case, it's best not to pile cookies too heavily upon each other, which means choosing a wide, flat jar in preference to a tall, narrow one, and for cookies of the soft variety it should have a well fitted cover. The hard and chewy ones may be kept in the same jar, without the air tight cover, protected merely by loose layers of waxed paper over the top and between the cookie strata.

From Kenosha, Wis., Mrs. M. writes: "When I try to make bread it raises nicely, but after it's baked it has a pasty flavor." The cause probably is too long a raising period, Mrs. M., or too high a temperature for the raising. If you check on that particular step in your bread making, we believe you'll improve both the flavor and texture of your bread. If not, won't you write to us again, giving both your recipe and specific description of the way you make it? Perhaps this long distance diagnosis is wrong.

Mrs. L. S. M., another Chicagoan, has written to ask how to remove the caked substance that coats the inside of tea kettles and the lower parts of double boilers. The easiest method is to heat a half and half mixture of vinegar and water in the utensil. If the liquid bubbles as it's being heated, you'll know that the mineral deposit gradually is softening, and that you'll soon be able to remove it by a little gentle prodding. A dilute solution of hydrochloric acid may be used instead of the vinegar, but the latter usually is more easily obtainable in the average kitchen.

Sometimes this heating with acid has no effect on the mineral deposit, however. Then it frequently is possible to employ another method, if you do it cautiously. Heat the dry utensil gradually until it is too hot to touch comfortably, and then pour in a little cold water. [Watch out for the steam—it's easy to burn yourself this way.] This may cause the scale to crack so that it may be removed easily. Remember the caution, however. If you overheat the dry kettle, it's likely to warp out of shape when the cold water strikes it.

Christmas Good Subject for Study Groups

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Parent study groups, parent-teachers' associations, child study clubs, and others who gather in the interests of parent education, take notice. Here is a suggestion for next October's and November's program—or rather programs, for it will take several sessions to cope with the subject well.

If I had been more "forehanded" I would have written about it while the warm September days still lingered, but it is always hard for me to think about Christmas before the snappy weather arrives. So on the chance that next fall will again catch me napping, I'm going to give you the hint today [in the form of a letter] and advise you to clip it and tuck it away for future use.

"As parent education chairman of our P.-T. A., I have planned for our next meeting a discussion of the topic, "How to plan a satisfactory holiday season for the whole family," a correspondent writes.

"I am wondering if it would be possible for you to write me a letter on this subject which I might use as a basis for the discussion. Your articles on the subject in the past have been extremely helpful. Unfortunately, I do not have them.

"Also, can you tell me where to obtain suggestions for simple but practical gifts which children can make—and suggestions for wise selection of gifts for children between the ages of 6 and 14?

"My work has been along the line of home economics and I am planning on giving recipes for wholesome candies, cookies, and sandwich fillings which children can make.

"Any suggestions or help which you can give me in planning this program will be greatly appreciated."

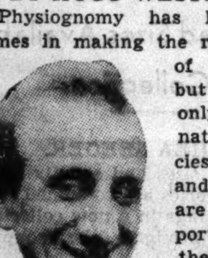

"A satisfactory Christmas for the whole family"—what a splendid and constructive idea for a meeting, or several meetings. Families these days have such varied interests that just the having of a common interest on Christmas is heartwarming. Make notes now, while Christmas is still "hot," for next year's program.

We have special holiday material that will be of practical help to parent groups. If you would like it, we can send you a list of the titles and your chairman can make selections and estimate the necessary postage. In writing in for the list please be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

Face Reveals Reasons for Man's Failure

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

JIMMY DURANTE.

Physiognomy has helped many times in making the right selection of occupation, but it covers only one factor, natural tendencies. Training and opportunity are of great importance and these, of course, do not show in the face. In sales work, however, native ability is of greater consequence than in the trades or professions and if a man does not have such ability he should not take up selling.

Some years ago a man asked a friend to get him a place as a salesman. The friend was himself successful both as manager and as a personal producer and did not think it was a difficult job. Any one with a good "front" and willingness to work could do it, he believed. The man was sent on the road, but returns were poor and expenses kept mounting until the manager became suspicious. Other men were selling the article right along; why could his friend not do it?

When a physiognomical analysis was made the matter was readily cleared up. A photograph showed that the man had none of the facial signs of sales ability. These signs are a strong mouth, especially with a long upper lip, heavy dark eyebrows, and a high ridged nose in side view. It is not necessary to have all these marks, but there should always be a good mouth, and this our man lacked. He was recalled and given a position in the office, where he soon proved his worth.

Jimmy Durante's nose is famous and deserves study. It is highly developed in its lower fleshy part in front view and rounded in side view, which means he knows what is wrong with the world but declines to do anything about it. The short upper lip signifies a tendency to worry about people and things, but his natural understanding of their weaknesses [the fleshy nose again] prevents him from attaching an undue importance to them. The nose hangs down over the upper lip, denoting an ability to make fun of others and get away with it.

[THE TRIBUNE has arranged with Mr. Westerberg to make individual analyses of its readers from a photograph, preferably a profile or three-quarter view. See coupon. Photo will be returned if sufficient postage and envelope large enough for photo are inclosed. A snapshot will do.]

Canada to Have Opera Purely National in Talent

TORONTO, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Canada tonight became the first nation in the world to have an exclusively national opera—with formation of the Canadian Grand Opera association. Braheen Urban, producer, announcing the association, said it would have an all-Canadian cast of principals and chorus. Success of three opera presentations last spring, he said, warranted the permanent organization.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

Have Both Warm and Cold Baths.

K. M.: Cold baths are excellent for stirring up the circulation, but they do little toward cleansing. The ideal way would be to have your warm bath first, for cleansing purposes, and follow with a cold shower. Follow this with a brisk rubdown with a Turkish towel. Your blood will tingle.

Sorority Formal.

Alpha chapter of Gamma Theta Rho sorority will give its semi-annual formal dinner-dance this evening at the Continental room of the Stevens hotel. Miss Sylvia Janows is president.

Surprise Visit Seldom Finds Friendliness

Dropping in Without Warning Is Discourteous.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Dropping in on people to surprise them is not one of the recommended forms of diversion.

Thus we would enlighten Jo. Jo has a beau who lives about 200 miles away. Naturally, his job keeps him from running up to see this girl of his, between whom there is a marriage understanding. Her time is her own and she has money of her own to pay railroad fare when the urge to surprise some one overtakes her.

We're against the idea. Too many heartaches have been born of the impulse to drop in unannounced. The man in the particular case might be delighted. Again, he might be anything but delighted. He might be seriously inconvenienced. He might be dated for the particular surprise day. He might be engaged in some business deal that, for the time being, absorbs his every moment. He might have neglected a shave or shoe shine that day, and no man wants to be caught by his best girl not looking his best. No, we don't approve of the surprise idea at all. The telephone and the telegraph lines are at one's convenience to forestall any embarrassment or inconvenience at the other end.

We think if a vote were taken among men that they'd stand behind us in begging for the advance notice.

Indeed, some women still entertain the quaint notion that an old school friend of their own sex is delighted to have them drop out of the sky suddenly and ring her doorbell. Perhaps it is our misfortune that our days are so crowded with "musts" that we cannot be affable party to the surprise visit. It must have been more pleasant living when one could be interrupted so without any particular disruption of plans.

But, since we're living in a day crowded to the door with things that must be done, we all do welcome a brief notice, at least, that we are going to be descended upon. We speak of this because of the recent breakup of a long time friendship. An out of towner, with all the time in the world on her hands, dropped in on a busy woman who had to have a certain piece of work in a client's hands that night. The busy one was kindly as could be, but she had to get that customer's frock done regardless of old friendships.

The out of towner assumed unfairly that the busy one was simply showing off and high hatting an old back home friend. A telephone call would have netted a dinner invitation, no doubt, when a leisurely chat could have been enjoyed.

According to CULBERTSON

JUSTICE REALLY IS BLIND.

A curious paradox in bridge is that a slightly off-color bid is apt to be severely punished, while an atrocious bid too often is rewarded. A friend of mine once bitterly remarked that "It was all right with him that God should take care of fools and drunkards, but why should crazy bidders get the same protection?" I feel constrained to echo his plaint whenever such a farce as the following hand is brought to my attention.

West, dealer.

NORTH
♦ None

WEST
♠ Q 5
♦ A Q 6
♣ A 10 4

EAST
♠ J 7 6
♥ 4
♦ K J 9 7 4 3

SOUTH
♠ K 9 2
♦ 10 8 5 2
♣ K 8 6 3

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	1 spade	2 diam.	2 no tr.*
Pass	3 no tr.	Pass	Pass

Double [final bid]

*A fantastic bid. Two spades would be slightly optimistic; two no trump is indefensible.

West opened the diamond ace, North discarded a spade, East played the seven of diamonds, and declarer the deuce. Feeling sure that South must have a double diamond stopper—judging from both dummy's void and South's pass to the double of three no trump—West now shifted to the spade queen. North's ace won, and the queen of clubs was led. West took the ace and led another spade. Declarer's K-9 trapped East's jack, and both tricks were cashed, setting up dummy's long spade. Now the king and jack of hearts were led, West not covering the latter. The jack of clubs was used as an entry to dummy for the cashing of the heart ace and the last spade, after which declarer ran off his two remaining club tricks. Result, three no trump made with an overtrick, instead of a 300 penalty.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: My partner opened the bidding with one heart; the next hand bid one no trump; I passed; fourth hand bid three no trump. I held:

♠ K 8, ♥ 10, ♦ Q J 10 7 5, ♣ 7 6 5 3 2. What should be my opening lead?

Answer: The queen of diamonds. It is evident that your partner's suit is well stopped by the opponents and, with the spade king in your hand as a probable entry, it is not at all unlikely that your diamond suit will be quickly established.

Deep Personal Pride Protects Woman from Vulgar Appearance

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"I mean that deep personal pride that all women have who are truly impressive!"

The foregoing came from the lips of a young woman for whom it is safe to predict a brilliant future. She is Margo, who, already at 18, has won fame dancing, singing, acting in the movies, acting on the stage, where she now appears in "Winterset," one of the season's most stirring dramas.

We were talking about women, beautiful women and women not so beautiful. The kind of women one admires and one does not admire. Margo happened to comment on how, in her dancing experience, she had seen so many beautiful women and how horrid and ugly some of these could become when they were without the deep personal pride that prevents mistakes.

A deep personal pride serves a woman in every department of her life: in her relations with people, in her appearance, everything. It fortifies her against cheapness, commonness, vulgarities of speech and behavior, against vulgarities in make-up and dress.

Deep personal pride, as the brilliant young Margo says, makes one become important to herself as a person.

More—important as a woman! To emphasize, Margo recalled that fine line of Katherine Mansfield's when she said: "If women only would realize their strength in being perfectly the woman!" or words to the effect.

In that strength of being completely and perfectly the woman there's great beauty, Margo repeats. One of the great dangers of career women, whether they be in the professional field or business, is losing that beautiful strength. Because women have to fight their way along, there's danger of becoming aggressive, argumentative, fighting females, when our greatest strength lies in having pride as women.

"It's what I admire above everything else in other women," concludes the interesting young actress, "the grace and graces of a deep personal pride!"

Record Attendance at Notre Dame Club Dance

More than five hundred alumni, undergraduates and friends of the Chicago club of Notre Dame university, attended the club's 17th annual Christmas formal dance at the Medinah club last night. It was the largest attendance in the history of the affair. Football stars, including Marchmont Schwartz, Jack Elder and Andy Pilney, were on the committees.

DOZEN PARALYSIS VACCINE DEATHS STIR PHYSICIANS

Treatment Stopped After Use on Thousands.

Chicago physicians were stirred yesterday by a report from the medical director of the United States Public Health service, Dr. J. P. Leake, that in twelve cases of vaccination against poliomyelitis [infantile paralysis] death had resulted from the development of this disease.

The report is published in the Dec. 28 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The statement is made by Dr. Leake that this series of cases, in which the disease developed in six to fourteen days after the injection of one or the other of two different vaccines, "renders undesirable the further use of poliomyelitis virus for human vaccination at present."

"During the past year in the United States," the report states, "several thousand individuals, mostly children, have received subcutaneous [under the skin] and intracutaneous [less than skin deep] injections of treated poliomyelitis virus in the hope of acquiring immunity against the natural disease.

Supposed to Be Harmless.

"The two different forms of treatment to which the virus was subjected were intended to render it innocuous when thus used as a vaccine.

"Through those responsible for the production of these vaccines, through several health officers and through others, word has come to the United States public health service of the development, at suggestive intervals following these injections, of cases of paralytis poliomyelitis with high fatality."

Among the cases mentioned are:

A girl, 21 months old, received the second dose of vaccine A in the right arm twelve days after the first dose, and the onset of poliomyelitis occurred six days after the second dose. Paralysis began in the right arm three days later and death occurred five days after the onset.

Little Likelihood of Outside Cause.

A boy, 4 years old, had his onset of poliomyelitis eight days after the first dose of vaccine A in the left hip and one day after the second dose at the same site. Paralysis began in his right leg two days later and is at present, after three months, confined to that extremity, though there is hope of ultimate recovery.

"The likelihood of the whole series of cases having occurred through natural causes is extremely small," the report states further ". . . Although any one of these cases may have been entirely unconnected with the vaccine, the implication of the series as a whole is clear."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Bobsled Season's Here

December 27, 1935.

WITH plenty of snow in the fields, old fashioned bobsleds being used to haul feed for the steers, and some of the farm horses being shod with nonslip shoes so they can walk with ease on ice, there's an atmosphere of the old fashioned winter here on the experimental farm. The sleds made their first appearance this week. There are two of them now in use.

Although they are somewhat different from the sleighs that I used to ride on [when I was a boy helping my grandfather haul wood from the timber] because the "sled chassis" has been rigged up with a hayrack top, they're old fashioned bobsleds just the same, and it's a treat to see them going through the fields this week.

The cold weather and snow created several extra chores this week, but it was too cold and stormy to work in the corn fields anyway, so the boys had time to take care of the odd jobs. For example, Louis had to pile straw around one corner of his house to keep the water pipes from freezing. Then the boys had to pack the bases of the windmills with straw to keep them from freezing.

Clarence decided to bank the foundation of his house with snow as an added protection for the plumbing in the building. The low temperatures of the week added another job—that of draining the pipes leading from the ever busy hydraulic ram.

Zero weather also increased the work of maintaining hot fires in the water tanks for the stock. It has been necessary to stoke the stoves in the tanks very often the last few days.

Louis Thurow had been doing some pretty cold horseback riding this week. His is the job of rounding up the steers in the field at feeding time and then driving them to the feed bunks. During the day the husky Herefords are scattered all over the corn field, where they are gleaning many a meal among the cornstalks. The cattle seem to enjoy the game of having some one round them up.

I was watching them the other day when a cold wind was blowing across the fields. The animals kicked up their heels, galloped around and acted as if they actually enjoyed the cold weather. I saw two of them suddenly stop, square off, put their heads down, and then indulge in a little scrap. But it was all good clean fun for the Herefords and after a few seconds of shadow boxing they headed for the feed bunks.

The guinea hens on the Wheaton farm discovered a new way to keep their feet warm this week when zero weather came. The other day when I was in the sheepfold [where the guineas roost at night during the cold weather] I saw several of the birds get on the backs of lambs standing around in the shelter. Then they started scratching with their feet until they got their toes well down in the lambs' wool.

Just as soon as the birds had their feet buried in the wool and thus were getting the full benefit of the "four footed radiator" they calmly sat down to enjoy the heat. The lambs apparently are not annoyed by this stunt, so you may see two or three of the birds enjoying this "free heating" service at one time.

Although the guinea hens now are coming into the sheepfold to roost at night, the turkeys continue to demonstrate that they don't mind the cold. They are roosting outside in the trees every night.

SCIENTISTS FIND NEW FIELDS FOR GUINEA PIG USE

Germs Innoculated Into Unborn Animals.

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The little guinea pig, used for medical experiments which have saved man untold suffering, was reported in a new field today, giving its unborn young for medical experiments of a delicacy impossible by other methods.

The discovery was described to the Society of American Bacteriologists by Oram C. Woolport of Ohio State university. He was verified by five other scientists who told how they already have used the new technique.

Woolpert devised methods of inoculating disease germs directly into the unborn guinea pig, between the ages of 25 and 65 days. During that period, he showed, the tiny animals are completely sterile, apparently uncomplicated by taints of disease even from their mothers.

Taints Are Obstacles.

These taints of other diseases present are one of the common obstacles to successful experiments with any animal after its birth. Woolpert said he had inoculated these young pigs with infantile paralysis, tuberculosis and diphtheria. Paralysis failed to take, the others were successful.

"It is believed," he reported, "that these experiments establish the practicability of the technic and suggest a wide field of usefulness in bacteriological studies because of freedom from external contamination and greater susceptibility to certain infectious agents."

Chicagoans Make Report.

Using the same method I. S. Neiman, University of Chicago, reported results in studying human tuberculosis. Joseph Stritar and N. Paul Hudson, respectively of the University of Chicago and Ohio State found the unborn pigs susceptible to smallpox vaccine in a way rarely seen in adult pigs.

Floyd S. Markham and N. Paul Hudson of Ohio State worked with a virus from the submaxillary glands of guinea pigs. They concluded from this experiment that the unborn pig is the "animal of choice for detection of virus and for securing tissues rich in virus."

Gets Year in Bridewell for Christmas Shooting

Sylvan Bernstein, 28 years old, 1244 North Dearborn street, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Judge George B. Weiss in the women's court yesterday on a charge of carrying a concealed revolver. Benjamin Clark of Detroit was shot and slightly wounded by Bernstein on Christmas day when he accompanied Miss Eva Darda, 28 years old, 3023 Preston avenue, to Bernstein's apartment.

NATIONAL BODY VOTES CENSURE OF LOUISIANA U.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Louisiana State university, referred to by the late Senator Huey P. Long as "my school" was censured today by the Association of American Law schools for "far reaching political influence" attributed to Long's rule.

The association adopted a sharply worded report of its executive committee which said "it is true that death has removed the personal influence of Huey P. Long," but added it was "by no means sure that a successor to his ambitions and influence may not arrive."

After lively debate the association directed the censure at the entire university, singling out particularly the law school toward which an attitude of "anxious solicitude" was adopted.

"Whatever confidence your committee has as to the future of the college of law of Louisiana State university rests principally on the fact that Senator Long is dead," the report said.

HAGENBCK-WALLACE CIRCUS TO BE TAKEN INTO 2 OTHER UNITS

Sarasota, Fla., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus and the Al G. Barnes show will absorb the Hagenback-Wallace shows, second largest circus in the world, next season, Samuel Gumpertz, vice president and general manager of the Ringling circus interests, announced today.

The Hagenback-Wallace circus has been on the road for forty years and now is in winter quarters at Peru, Ind. Steadily mounting taxation on circuses led to the decision to disband the Hagenback-Wallace unit, Gumpertz said.

Announcement of the merger was made shortly after the Ringling interests decided to put the Ringling-Barnum & Bailey show on rubber tires and revive its street parades which were abandoned a number of years ago with the development of paved streets and the growth of automobile trafic. The show's horses are being equipped with rubber shoes.

LAKE BLUFF BOY HURT RIDING SLED TIED TO AN AUTO

Andrew Armstrong, 16 years old, 211 Moffett road, Lake Bluff, was injured yesterday when he was hit by a truck as he rode on a sled hitched to an automobile. The accident occurred on Woodland road in Lake Forest.

The sled was attached by rope to an automobile driven by James Templeton, 1300 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest. The driver of the truck was Myron Hiscox of 136 Washington circle, Lake Forest. The truck passed over the boy's body, but at the Alice Home hospital, where he was taken, it was said his injuries were not serious.

Chief of Police Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest said after the accident that any one riding sleds hitched to automobiles would be arrested and fined.

Woman, 89, Prefers Cigar Smoking to Sissy Cigarets

Lawrence, Kas., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Bobbed haired Mrs. John Ary, 89, who likes to look at life through cigar smoke, said today: "Women have no business dabbling in politics and business. If they'd stay home they'd be better off, and they'd live longer, too." A pioneer mother of 10, she said what the country needs is larger families. "And about women who smoke cigarets—they're sissies, just plain sissies. I smoke cigars, two or three a day, probably."

THE GUMPS—SETTLED TO HER COMPLETE DISSATISFACTION

Rambler Five Beats Ripon, 49-36.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

De Paul's basketball team whipped Washburn college of Topeka, Kas., 42 to 24, last last at De Paul auditorium preparatory to invasion of Des Moines, Ia., tonight where the Blue Demons face Drake university. This will be the third game of the week for De Paul. Last Monday night it defeated Wisconsin to bring its Big Ten average for the season to .500.

Coach Jim Kelly and the De Paul team left immediately after last night's game for Des Moines. The team then will have one day of rest and on Monday night will meet its fifth conference opponent, the University of Minnesota, at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

All Players Participate.

Every member of the De Paul squad participated in last night's victory. At the intermission De Paul led, 25 to 7, and had the regulars been kept in the game, the score might have reached record proportions. Capt. Ray Adams, despite his brief term of service, led the scorers of both quintets with 11 points, which included five field goals. P. Howlett, substitute guard, also registered five field goals for De Paul.

De Paul started a second team at the opening of the final period. These boys clicked off two uncovered goals from under the back board after which Washburn rallied and played De Paul on more than even terms.

Washburn Off Form.

The Washburn team motored to Chicago and while the players didn't alibi, they evidently were in poor form during the first half because of the trip. Washburn meets Wisconsin at Madison on New Year's eve.

Although 32 personal fouls were called, 17 on De Paul, only 10 free throws were made by both squads. Washburn counted six penalty shots to De Paul's four.

LOYOLA WINS, 49-36

Loyola university defeated Ripon college, 49 to 36, with a first half rally at Loyola gym last night. Loyola led, 26 to 23, at the half. Earl Christ, Ripon captain, led the scorers with 15 points, closely pressed by Marv Colen and Gart Winkler, both of Loyola, who scored 14 and 13 points, respectively.

Ripon held the lead briefly in the first half when Christ went on a scoring spree to bring his team from a 14 to 7 disadvantage to a 19 to 16 lead before Colen, Winkler, and Ed Murray put Loyola ahead 26 to 21. Ken Smith's long shot with seconds left finished the first half scoring.

Mathas opened the second half with a long shot to bring Ripon within one point of the lead, but Loyola dashed ahead to hold a 35 to 28 lead with 15 minutes to play. Christ's field goal at this point was Ripon's only points while Loyola continued piling up a lead. With the score 44 to 28, half way through the period, Loyola substitutes took over the game. Ripon brought its count up to 34 before the Ramblers finished their scoring with 5 points. Radke's pushup shot finished the game. Lineup:

Gal in Cerise Tights Leads Roller Derby, It's Rumored

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The twenty-four teams in the transcontinental roller Derby now rolling at the Coliseum have rounded into shape and now are skating like mad. THE TRIBUNE yesterday rushed us down to the big hall on Wabash avenue to see who is leading in the mythical dash from San Diego, Cal., to New York and though we failed to find out we think the leader is the blonde in the cerise tights, and a right pretty little gal she is, too.

Our visit gave us our first view of a transcontinental roller Derby, though this is the second one to be held in Chicago and the fourth in the history of the world. Right off you might wonder why THE TRIBUNE assigned a reporter who had never seen a transcontinental roller Derby.

While this piece is in no sense an autobiography we think you are entitled to know something of our background before we start experting on this event. For one thing, before we got overweight, we were a bouncer in a roller rink in Anderson, Ind. We weren't really a bouncer, but just skated around and around backwards telling the boys and gals to slow down whenever they got too alecky.

Don't Forget Bull Run.

We got the transcontinental slant several years ago by accompanying Charley Pyle's bunion derby from Lincoln, Ill., until the sherif sneezed or impounded Mr. Pyle's "land yacht" at Joliet. And we have been a six day bike nut for 16 years, going back to the days when the spectators used to yell "Lazy Oscar" at Oscar Egg every time he circled the track, making us very angry for we knew Oscar had the stuff, as proved by the fact he since has made $500,000.

Some say that attendance at six day bike races all these years has unbalanced us and that's the reason that sometimes we sit and talk to ourself for a half hour or so. All we know about this is that the sight of a bike race seems to relieve the condition and when we started chatting yesterday we were dispatched to the Derby, there being no six day race in town this week.

We watched the Derby for quite a while before looking up Harry Newman, one of the gents who is in charge and doing much to get the sports world to accept the Derby as a sports-speed event instead of a walkathon on wheels.

It's Colossal, Boy, Colossal!

Mr. Newman, whose eyes twinkle to a noticeable extent, first told us that he never has had a sport take a hold of him like the roller Derby. "I have been on the job 12 hours a day in the 35 days of each of the Derbies and several times I have thought I'd sneak an hour or so to visit a relative or something," said Mr. Newman, "but when I would get to the door an impulse would seize me. 'No, I might miss something,' I would say to myself. Then I would hang up my hat and rush right back to the trackside so's not to miss one of the thousand thrills that happen every day of the race. The whole thing is colossal and our only job is to get sports lovers to see their first Derby. After that they think it is colossal, too."

Mr. Newman explained everything, except that he forgot to tell us who was leading, if, indeed, he knew himself. He was nice in introducing us to the lady skaters.

Eleven Hours On.

The teams skate 11 hours each day and each team must be represented on the track every minute of those 11 hours. During the evening hours series of match races are held in conjunction with the Derby. This feature corresponds with the sprints at six day bike races. There are "jams" similar to those in bike racing, these being precipitated when one or more skaters break from the field and attempt to steal a lap. Also, as in bike racing, these jams are ended only when there is a spill, that is, when one or more skaters fall.

Spills are more frequent in a large skating field than with the bikes, but it is said that the judges can tell on the rare occasion when a fake spill is attempted to halt the jamming. In such instances the schemer is penalized five laps.

The boys and girls do not leave the hall during the course of the spectacle. The boys sleep on cots in the north half of the infield enclosure and the gals' dormitory is in the south end.

After being told of all these technical details we met Leo Seizer, who also thinks the Derby is colossal. Mr. Seizer is an old time walkathon impresario, but is very happy at having switched to a sports event from his old dramatic endurance field.

Ah, Some Unfinished Business.

The field includes two married teams, Tom and Albie Whitney and Jack and Jayne Cummings, and one mother and son pairing, Ma Bogash and her boy, Bill.

We were interested in the announcement that one of the male skaters, Curly Nanna, is "tattooed on every square inch of his epidermis, except his face." But we had to leave shortly after the announcement was made.

The second day of the University of Chicago Christmas week tournament, which ended the first round games, left five teams from each of the west and north sections, four from the south, and two from the central to play off the second round today.

The highest individual score of the first round was 21 points, made by Charles Bucholz, Calumet, whose team beat Kelly yesterday afternoon. Harry Krotish of Crane, another of yesterday's winning teams, was runnerup for scoring honors in the first round with 19 points.

The afternoon winners yesterday, Crane, Calumet, Tilden, Hyde Park, and Lane, are among the most promising of the sixteen teams which will play off today's second round. Of the five Hyde Park, last year's runnerup, and Tilden promise to wage a real battle when they oppose each other.

Hyde Park Dazzles McKinley.

Both teams have good defenses and are fast, but Hyde Park appears to have better passing and team work. In its game against McKinley Hyde Park scored 24 points in the first quarter, bewildering McKinley with fast passes and accurate shots, and ran off with a 42 to 25 victory.

A well coördinated Crane quintet romped over Waller for an easy 41 to 16 victory in the opening afternoon game. Crane jumped to an 11 to 2 lead in the first quarter, and increased it to 20 to 7 at the end of the half.

Calumet Beats Kelly.

Calumet was victorious, 31 to 24, over a fighting Kelly quintet in a well played game. The outstanding player of the contest, Capt. Charley Bucholz of Calumet, made 21 points before he was forced out on personal fouls in the middle of the last quarter.

College Officials to Discuss Subsidy for Athletes Today

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—After two days of private discussion leaders of the National Collegiate A. A. plan to turn the attention of tomorrow's 30th annual meeting upon the radical decision of the Southeastern conference to subsidize athletes, particularly football players, openly and under faculty control.

Since taking action two weeks ago at Atlanta, the Southeastern group, composed of 13 of the largest and oldest educational institutions in the deep south, has been under fire from academic sources. Criticism, based on the ground that open subsidization of students with athletic ability will only lead to more abuses, has been offset by praise in many quarters for the "progressive" character of a move which brings out into the open, where it can be properly controled, a common collegiate practice.

Vote on Olympics.

Whether the N. C. A. A., as a whole, approves or disapproves the action already put into effect by the Southeastern group, tomorrow's discussion is expected to help clear the atmosphere.

The concluding sessions of the three day assembly of college and school leaders, representing all parts of the country, otherwise are slated to feature a vote in support of the American Olympic program, financially and otherwise, by the N. C. A. A. Meanwhile the American Football Coaches association, in separate annual meeting, is expected to indorse a few changes in the 1936 football rules, including elimination of the so-called "slow whistle" and a possible change in the regulations on penalties for pass interference.

Show Football Movies.

A joint session of the athletic organizations today, devoted mainly to formal talks and an elaborate showing of college football movies under the direction of Michigan's head coach, Harry Kipke, paved the way for the more important meetings tomorrow.

To present the Southeastern conference's viewpoint, on the subsidizing issue, it was understood Dr. John J. Tigert of Florida, president of the conference, had accepted a special invitation to address the N. C. A. A. convention. Meanwhile such leaders as Dr. Wilbur Smith, athletic director of Tulane, and H. J. Stegeman, athletic director of the University of Georgia, rallied support or sought to put at rest any fears that the athletic bars were being let down in Dixie.

Exhibiting the text of the new rule adopted by the Southeastern conference, Dr. Smith pointed out it served mainly the purpose of putting under strict faculty control a practice which has been going on, under cover, for years.

Bring Situation into Open.

"The whole situation boils down to this," said Dr. Smith. "We propose to treat students with athletic ability on the same basis as all others. The faculty will control all scholarships or subsidies to such students. The aid that may be given is strictly limited. The scholastic requirements are unchanged. Everything will be open and above board and I do not think there will be any danger of overdoing the benefits to athletes."

Stegeman emphasized that "no cash at all will be given to the students receiving scholarships."

Maj. John L. Griffith, president of the N. C. A. A. and commissioner of the Big Ten conference, declared the executive committee had decided not to recommend any action, for or against the step taken by the Southeastern conference. He emphasized, however, that sharp differences of viewpoint existed, that he intended to bring the subject into his annual report and encourage full debate in open session.

New Conference Formed.

Chief by-products of today's activities, conducted mainly in the lobbies, included formation of the New England College conference and speculation over several football coaching changes. Charter members of the new conference are Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut State, Rhode Island State, and Northeastern of Boston.

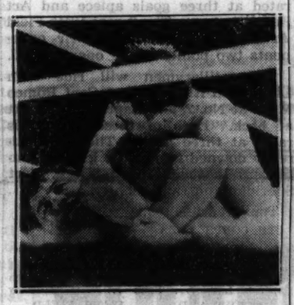

The names of Adam Walsh of Bowdoin, Herb Kopf, assistant to Lou Little at Columbia, and Ernie Nevers, backfield coach at Stanford, were mentioned as possibilities for the head coach's job at Lafayette, to be vacated by Herb McCracken.

O'MAHONEY PINS MAN MOUNTAIN IN 21 MINUTES

Londos Issues Challenge to Champion.

Danno O'Mahoney, heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Man Mountain Dean in 21 minutes and 22 seconds at Chicago Stadium last night.

The majority in the crowd of 7,049 were O'Mahoney backers. Nevertheless they were not impressed with the result and expressed their disapproval of Dean's showing with loud jeers, as Dean lay on the canvas moaning, "My ribs are broken." Nobody believed him with the possible exception of a state athletic commission inspector who carried the news to his superior, Chairman Joe Triner.

Triner quickly waved the inspector out of his sight.

They Exchange Slaps.

The alleged rib breaking climaxed 20 minutes of slow wrestling, during which Dean held the upper hand. He slapped O'Mahoney on the right cheek and the champion dropped to his knees. He smote O'Mahoney on the left cheek and again he fell to the canvas. Then he tried slapping both cheeks at once and Dan went down again. When this had gone far enough, O'Mahoney did some slapping on his own.

Dean rolled and swayed while the fans jumped to their feet and stood looking on in amazement, puzzled over the havoc an apparently ordinary slap by Danno had wreaked on his bewhiskered opponent. O'Mahoney then grabbed Dean's arm, draped him over his shoulder, and tossed him to the floor for good.

Londos Issues Challenge.

Jim Londos, who was dethroned by O'Mahoney last June and has been resting since, is ready to resume his campaign. He appeared at the Stadium and challenged O'Mahoney to a return match.

Dean weighed 312 pounds and O'Mahoney 225.

Ray Steele, St. Louis, 215, threw Ray Richards, Chicago, 225, in the semi-final. Steele was substituted for Jim Browning.

Bobby Bruns, Chicago, 213, and Big Bill Beth, Texas, 240, wrestled 20 minutes to a draw in the opening bout.

Andy Rascher, Indiana university, 210, threw Pat Murphy, Ireland, 200, in 8:17 with a reverse body press.

Hans Steinke, 250, German, and Lou Plummer, Waukegan, Ill., 242, wrestled 20 minutes to a draw.

Orville Brown, Detroit, Mich., 235, and Pete Mehringer, Kansas, 210, wrestled 30 minutes to a draw.

GAMES TONIGHT.
California at Northwestern.
Purdue at New York university.
Minnesota vs. Marquette at Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.
Illinois at Knox.

Four Big Ten basketball teams will continue their association with non-conference fives tonight. With the exception of Northwestern, which meets the touring University of California five at Patten gymnasium, the conference quintets will play on foreign courts.

Purdue invades New York to meet the unbeaten New York university five in Madison Square Garden where basketball is vying with hocky and boxing for popularity. A capacity crowd of 18,000 will be on hand in the Garden for tonight's encounter. The Boilermakers descend on Gotham with a record of five victories out of six starts, the lone defeat having been at the hands of Butler.

Other games on tonight's card include Illinois vs. Knox at Galesburg and Minnesota vs. Marquette at Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.

Give Purdue Battle.

California lost to N. Y. U., 41 to 26, in the opening game of its tour, beat Temple, 49 to 43, and was nosed out by Purdue, 44 to 43, Thursday night.

The visitors possess a team which averages well over 6 feet. Every one of the 12 men on the team is 6 feet or over. It was this superiority in height that caused Purdue trouble and which figures to give the in and out Wildcat five a bothersome evening.

The Golden Bears are coached by C. M. [Nibs] Price, former football coach at the California school. Under Price's tutelage the Bears have established one of the outstanding records in the Pacific Coast conference, having won four championships and finished second six times in the last 10 years.

Northwestern will continue to shuffle its lineup in an effort to hit upon a scoring combination. The Wildcats have been in a scoring slump since their victory over Pittsburgh. After piling up 95 points in their first two games, the Wildcats were held to 58 points against Notre Dame and Michigan State.

Blume Will Start.

In an effort to get more speed into the Northwestern attack, Coach Dutch Lonborg plans to start Tug Blume at the running guard in place of Babe Bender, last year's regular who has been slow in hitting his stride after a season of football. Blume will pair with Capt. Duke Vance at the guard while the front court positions will be in the hands of a trio of sophomores, Mike McMichaels and Fred Trenkle, forwards, and Jake Nagode, center.

A veteran Knox college five will attempt to halt Illinois' string of five victories. The game will be the third between the two teams in recent years, the Illini having won by a three point margin on the two previous occasions.

Considerable interest has been aroused in Wisconsin Rapids over the clash between Minnesota and Marquette. The Wisconsin town has been host to college elevens on previous occasions but this is the first time that either the Gophers or Hilltoppers have appeared there.

Northwestern-California lineup:

NORTHWESTERN.		CALIFORNIA.
McMichaels	L. F.	Olson
Trenkle	R. F.	Rathbone
Nagode	C.	Carlisle
Blume	L. G.	Jensen
Vance	R. G.	Herwig

PRIMO CARNERA IS DRAFTED FOR ETHIOPIAN WAR

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Primo Carnera went home to Sequals, Italy, to spend the holidays with his folks there, only to find himself called to army service. This is the information made public today by Louis Soresi, manager of the former world's heavyweight champion, following receipt of cabled advices from Carnera.

The ring giant said that he was caught in Italy's compulsory training law for citizens up to 35 years of age, and added he must spend 60 days in Ethiopia with a special mountain artillery unit of which he is a member.

DRAFT PROGRAM FOR 2D ROUND OF ELIMINATION

Heavyweights to Fight at Stadium.

Six bouts, four at six rounds and two at four rounds, were announced yesterday for presentation at Chicago Stadium next Thursday in the second round of a heavyweight elimination tournament. Six additional matches, two at six rounds and four at four rounds, are being arranged, making a total of 12 encounters embracing 60 rounds. Original announcement was to the effect that eight scraps would be held, totaling 40 rounds.

Three classes will be represented in the tournament, being held to locate suitable opposition for Joe Louis, former Chicago Golden Gloves champion—classes A, B and C. The plan is to place novice fighters in class C and the more experienced boxers in class B. The winners of class C will be qualified for competition in class B. The eventual survivors then will be elevated to class A in which class they will compete in the semi-finals.

Treest in Class B.

Hank Bath, Fort Morgan, Colo., and Billy Treest, Batavia, Ill., will appear in two engagements at six rounds each in class B. Bath will clash with Babe Davis, rugged St. Louis puncher, and Treest has been pitted against Smokey Maggard, Bryant, O.

Class C bouts will involve Frank Androff, Minneapolis; Johnny Erjavec, Duluth; and Lee Savoldi, St. Paul, and his brother, Stanley Savoldi. Androff is matched with Bob Elliott, Jacksonville, Ill. and Erjavec will fight Lou Goode, Fort Sheridan, at six rounds. Four rounders will bring together Lee Savoldi and Jack Tebo, Edmonton, Alta.; and Stanley Savoldi and Tom Vaupre, Fort Worth, Tex.

The championship belt which will be given to the winner of a twelve round bout between Everett Rightmire and Winfrid Mullins at Marigold Gardens Monday will be put on display today at the loop jewelry store in which Barney Ross is financially interested. The belt, emblematic of the featherweight championship of Illinois, is being donated by the welterweight champion in an effort to revive interest in a division extremely popular about six years ago.

Belloise Fights Jan. 8.

The bout is one of two arranged to pick a successor to Freddy Miller, whose title claim in Illinois has been vacated because of his failure to accept terms for a match with Alberto Arizmendi. The other match brings together Claude Varner and Mike Belloise at 15 rounds in New York Jan. 8. The survivors then will be matched, the eventual victor to be given an assignment against Arizmendi for title recognition in California, Mexico, New York, and this state.

Oscar Liebman and Ossie Jefferson yesterday were matched to meet in a four round supporting encounter. In others Frank Androff is paired with George Kutulis, and Nick Peters will oppose Sammy Verse. Edwin Waling, Detroit, and Walter Matthys, St. Charles, will clash at five rounds in the semi-final.

BOROTRA WINS TENNIS TAX CASE IN FRENCH COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

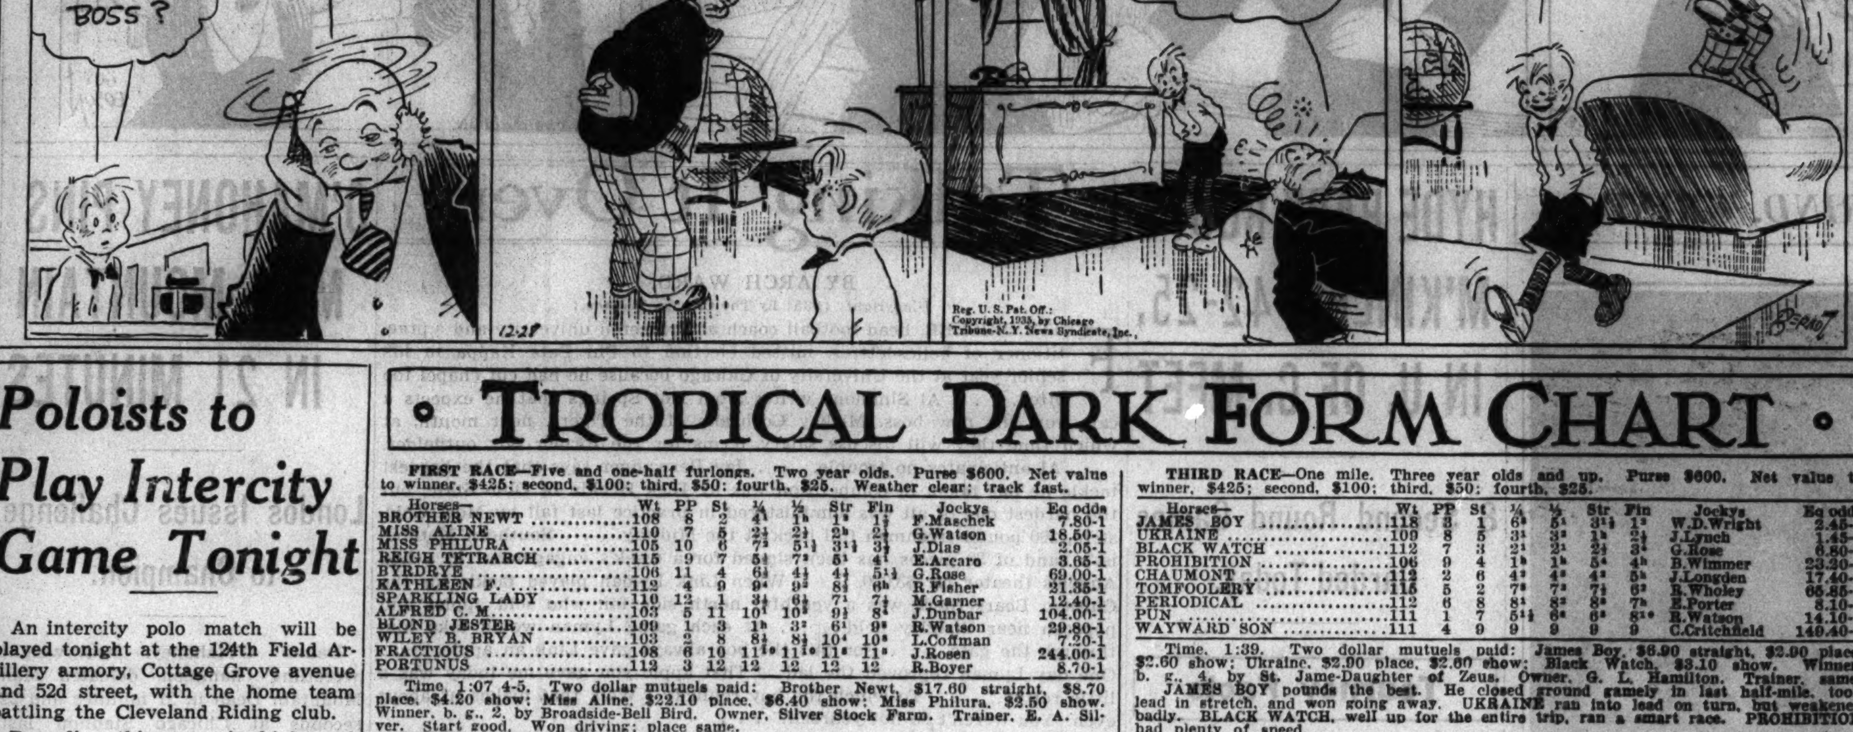

PARIS, Dec. 27.—French tennis tournaments are not public amusements, it was ruled today in court when Jean Borotra, veteran Davis cup tennis player and president of the Tennis Club of Paris, was acquitted on charges of failure to pay 592,340 francs in taxes on tennis meets held by the club during the last three years.

Borotra refused to pay the taxes, declaring the tournaments were not public amusements and therefore not subject to tax.

Shedding of Pike's Teeth Investigated

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen, who like to introduce new subjects for discussion during the winter months when the hot stove league is in session, will find plenty of chances for arguments regarding the theory that pickerel and muskies shed their teeth during the summer months.

The argument has been that pickerel [northern pike] shed their teeth during the summer and therefore will not strike a lure. We have heard this statement hundreds of times and it was applied either to Esox lucius, the pike, or to the muskie. Another favorite theory of fishermen has been that the big pike have sore gums in the late summer which keep them from hitting lures.

Investigation Is Made.

Two of our most thorough and best known scientists, men who have discovered lots of interesting things about fish in the last five years, have discredited both theories about the pike shedding teeth and developing sore gums in hot summer weather. These men [Dr. Carl L. Hubbs and Milton B. Trautman of the University of Michigan museum] examined several hundred northern pike caught in every month of the year except February and December.

After tabulating their results they found that pike shed their teeth all right. No doubt about it. But they shed their teeth during every month of the year. As for the sore gum theory, they found no basis at all for it.

Teeth Are Missing.

When Hubbs and Trautman got into their work of checking on the pike's teeth they found that the teeth of the upper jaw rarely were missing. These are small [as nearly every fisherman has noticed] and quite numerous, but they seem to be permanent. They showed no signs of being shed at any time.

Teeth in the lower jaw, however, are shed from time to time. In fact, the investigators didn't find a pike that had more than three-fourths of all of his teeth at one time. Upon examination it was learned that these teeth of the lower jaw replace themselves.

Always Have Enough.

Barring accidents the big pike always have enough teeth in working condition so that they are not handicapped in their job of acquiring live fish for food. The investigators examined a number of pike caught in August. They found no signs of swelling or inflamed gums.

MOUNT CARMEL TO ENTER 40 IN SILVER SKATES

Many Novices to Make First Tourney Start.

Forty members of the Mount Carmel Skating club, according to Charles Brady, 7660 South Shore drive, who has requested entry blanks, will compete in the nineteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies sponsored by THE TRIBUNE at Garfield park on Jan. 11 and 12. While special entry blanks for teams are not necessary, the names of contestants may be submitted on any kind of blank paper just so the home address and correct age are given for each boy and girl. THE TRIBUNE does have blanks which will be sent on request.

Every instructor in the municipal playgrounds, board of education playgrounds, and the Chicago Park district has received these blanks. It is hoped the best skaters, at least, will be entered. There is no limit, however, to the number who will be permitted to compete. This is one event, or rather seven events, in which any boy or girl can enter. The best incentive for the inexperienced skaters is the gold medal which is awarded to all winners of preliminary races.

You Have a Chance.

Do you think you can skate faster than ten other boys or girls? Then you have an excellent chance to win a gold medal.

These gold medal winners then will continue in the competition with 35 prizes, five in each of the seven age classes, as their final objective.

Entries close at midnight a week from tomorrow. While this may prevent some of the high schools from entering their skating teams, these teams may enter as a unit or individually and name their school and be credited in the program.

Report on Time.

Several of the early entries have been from boys and girls who never have competed in any skating race before. A few of them have sent along letters asking for information. No detailed information is necessary other than to know the time for reporting and the place, Garfield park. It is advisable, if possible, to practice and skate the distance you will be required to skate on the day of the trials.

Each skater will be assigned to a preliminary race when he reports to the clerks. He will receive his racing number when a post card is mailed to him. This card furnishes all necessary information. But this advice is worthless unless you make your entry with THE TRIBUNE prior to midnight, Jan. 15.

All lagoons in the Chicago park district, with the exception of those in Jackson park, will be ready for skaters today. Fifty-seven shelters have been provided. South siders will skate on the Midway instead of in Jackson park, where WPA work has interfered with preparations.

$1,993,000 LAKE HARBOR PROJECT IS APPROVED

PWA Advances Funds for Jackson Park Haven.

The long awaited Jackson park yacht harbor project was approved by Assistant Secretary of War Harry W. Woodring yesterday, authorizing the Chicago park district's application to construct at a cost of $1,993,000 breakwaters extending 3,000 feet out into Lake Michigan from 63d to 67th streets. Forty-five per cent of this amount is an outright Public Works administration grant, the remainder a PWA loan to the park board.

The area will enclose 185 acres, and will protect small and large pleasure craft from storms. There has been a 23 per cent increase in registered boats in Chicago during the last four years. This includes all pleasure craft with motors, from 16 feet up to boats of the 16 ton class. Due to this growing fleet, the available harbors have been dangerously congested.

Build New Bridge.

Approximately 100 yachts, from 12 to 60 feet in length, are accommodated in the present 20 acre outer Jackson park yacht harbor. The proper number for this area is 80. The largest harbor under park supervision is at the foot of Belmont avenue. Two hundred and thirty craft moored there last summer, in 48 acres. Belmont harbor will be enlarged in 1936.

When the new Jackson park harbor is completed early next summer, a bridge will be built over the old harbor entrance, where there has been a dead end. This bridge will expedite motor trafic to the loop. All sailing craft and large cruisers which are unable to pass under the bridge will moor in the new harbor outside.

Two Entrances.

James O'Rourke of the park district engineers, estimated that when the new harbor is completed it will care for between 700 and 800 yachts.

The Chicago park district, headed by Robert J. Dunham, has made preliminary plans of the new harbor. It will be the only anchorage in Chicago under the park's supervision that is built out on the lake. Breakwaters will extend in a circle as far as 3,000 feet eastward, with two entrances marked by government operated lights.

It is expected that these lights will be out far enough to remove the hazard of confusion in distinguishing trafic and street lights from harbor lights. The two entrances are to be 200 and 175 feet wide.

Von Steuben fought a losing battle with a senior Tilden team in which Tilden won 31 to 20. Von Steuben was the equal of Tilden in floor work, but the height and experience of the south siders were too much for the losers.

Lane Tech, winner of the tournament in 1933 and 1934, won its first round game from Wells, 25 to 16.

Tuley defeated Morgan Park, 36 to 29, in a game featured by the work of fiery little Marvin Rottner of Tuley who besides making eight points, showed how basketball should be played.

Manley defeated Roosevelt in another hard battle, 28 to 17.

BLANTON LEADS NATIONAL LEAGUE ON EARNED RUNS

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Darrell E. [Cy] Blanton of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was the National league's most effective pitcher in 1935, his first full season in the majors.

With a major league background of only eight innings prior to the 1935 season, Blanton led all the regular pitchers in the official earned run averages, announced today. He allowed only 2.59 runs per nine inning game and succeeded to the crown held for the two preceding years by Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants. It was the highest league leading mark since 1931, when Dazzy Vance achieved first place with a 2.61 average.

On the basis of games won and lost, Blanton was 15th among those who pitched ten or more complete games, winning 18 and losing 13 as compared to the top mark of 20 victories and six losses by Bill Lee of Chicago.

Four Shutouts Best.

The young Pirate shared shutout honors with his teammate, Jim Weaver, Larry French of Chicago, Van Mungo of Brooklyn, and Fred Fitzsimmons of New York. Each had four. Blanton allowed the greatest number of sacrifice hits, 24, and was fifth on the strikeout list with 142. Jerome [Dizzy] Dean of St. Louis led in strikeouts with 182.

Bill Swift, another Pittsburgh hurler, was second in the listing with an earned run mark of 2.69, followed by Hal Schumacher, New York, 2.89; French, 2.963, and Lee, 2.964. All the others were above the three run mark with Hubbell dropping back to 3.27. Among those who took part in more than ten games but did not pitch ten full contests, Bobby Reis, Brooklyn's converted infielder, had a 2.85 mark and Ed Heusser of St. Louis, 2.93.

Dizzy Is Busy Fellow.

The elder of the noted Dean brothers, Dizzy, again was listed as the busiest pitcher in the league in most respects. He hurled 29 complete games and a total of 324 innings, won 28 contests to top the circuit for the second straight year, faced 1,365 batsmen and allowed 326 hits. It was his fourth successive year as strikeout leader. He was one of five pitchers who pitched 20 or more complete games. The others were Blanton, 23; Hubbell, 24; Lon Warneke, Chicago, and Paul Derringer, Cincinnati, 20 each.

Other firsts went to Orville Jorgens of Philadelphia, who appeared in 53 games; Bob Smith, Boston, and Allyn Stout, New York, who finished 22 games each as relief pitchers; Ben Cantwell, Boston, who lost 25 games, winning only four; Roy Parmelee, New York, and Paul Dean, St. Louis, who hit nine batsmen apiece; Parmelee with 97 bases on balls; Warneke and Wild Bill Hallahan, St. Louis, ten wild pitches each, and Fred Frankhouse, Boston, who allowed 147 runs.

Illinois-Iowa Tourney Opens at Augustana

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The North Central college basketball team which finished second in the Little Nineteen last year, won its opening game in the Augustana invitational tournament today from Iowa Central, 37 to 24.

Cornell college, the pre-tournament favorite, took an early lead in the second game to eliminate Bradley Tech, 46 to 35.

Iowa Wesleyan held a brief advantage over the undefeated Augustana five in the closing game of the first round tonight but the Norse won easily, 56 to 21.

PLAN FORMATION OF MANY NEW MINOR LEAGUES

Columbus, O., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The greatest growth and popularity in the history of baseball was predicted by Joe E. Carr, promotional director of organized baseball, for the game within the next two years.

"It is the hope of baseball operators to have more than 50 minor leagues in operation by that time in place of the 21 now operating," he said.

A drive toward that goal already has been started and indications are that 15 more leagues in the class C and D circuits will be ready to go when the 1936 season opens, he said.

Carr disclosed that eight new leagues are planned along the Atlantic seaboard. Some of them are in territory surrendered by defunct loops, but others are in sections which never have had organized baseball.

Contacts in each of the districts have been made, Carr said, and organizers and promotional men will start their follow up work shortly after Jan. 1.

One of the proposed leagues will be composed of towns in northern New York and southern Canada.

Winning Five in Meet Goes to Olympics

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The United States basketball entry in the 1936 Olympic games will be selected after final elimination games to be played in Madison Square Garden April 3, 4, and 5 or 6, Chairman Walter E. Meanwell of the basketball Olympics committee announced tonight.

Dr. Meanwell, University of Wisconsin athletic director, said the committee had decided to hold a playoff tournament of eight teams—five college teams representing the National Collegiate Athletic association, one from the Y. M. C. A., and two from the Amateur Athletic union.

The colleges will select their five teams in playoffs within and between ten geographic districts in which elimination play will be directed by district committees.

The A. A. U. will enter its national champion team and the runnerup. The Y. M. C. A. will enter its national championship team.

Winning Team Goes.

Dr. Meanwell said the Olympic squad of fourteen men would be selected after the Garden games as follows:

The seven regulars of the winning team will constitute the first Olympic team. To these will be added five men from the second place team and one each from the third and fourth place teams.

The Olympic squad will be coached by a staf, Dr. Meanwell said, but it undoubtedly will include coaches of the winning teams.

District elimination play will take place in Minneapolis, Chicago, Indianapolis, and probably Columbus, O., he said, and other eastern contests, in addition to the final ones, may come to the Garden in order to swell receipts, which he estimated would net at least $50,000 for the Olympic fund.

The committee held its eleventh meeting here today.

A proposal to select on all-American team by choosing individual players was discarded, Dr. Meanwell said, because of "the administrative difficulty it immediately suggested."

Officials Are Problem.

Officials for the Olympic contests must be nonprofessionals, Dr. Meanwell said, a rule which is giving the committee some worry, because it does not know where it can find competent officials who have never received pay for their work.

TRACK MEET AT SUGAR BOWL TO BE HELD TODAY

New Orleans, La., Dec. 27.(AP)—New Orleans' midwinter carnival of sports will open tomorrow when stars vie for honors in the inaugural Sugar Bowl track and field meet at Loyola university stadium.

Headlining the program is the mile run, which finds Glenn Cunningham, United States champion from the University of Kansas, arrayed against a field that promises to bring forth one of his best efforts. Charlie Hornbostel, former Indiana runner, tops the half mile field of nine starters, including Harry Williamson, North Carolina university; John Wolff, Manhattan college, and Ross L. Bush, Southern California.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Concerning Prof. Ira W. Allen, whose academy recently was mentioned in The Wake: Before opening his own academy in Chicago, Prof. Allen served from 1869 until 1873 as principal of Lake Forest academy. He was that institution's third principal. It was founded in 1857 by prominent Chicagoans who desired for their sons "an institution situated in the wholesome air of the country and where mental discipline of the highest order would be the rule."

During his 4 year term at Lake Forest, Prof. Allen also taught philology and philosophy, the latter subject having a less restricted interpretation than it bears today. At Lake Forest, Prof. Allen's pupils included many boys later prominent in local professional and business circles.

Such men as William Bross, Benjamin W. Raymond, Robert W. Patterson, D. D.; Peter Page, C. B. Farwell, George H. Laflin and C. H. McCormick served on the Lake Forest academy board of trustees and aided Prof. Allen with their counsel and financial aid when needed. J. G. E.

I was born and brought up in the "Gas House district" north of the present Merchandise Mart, recently referred to in this column. Later it was known as "Little Hell." It was. But we had a great bunch over there. The Dunns, Sweeneys, Gibbons, Mulvaneys, Kaisers and a lot more lived in the vicinity of Sweeney's corner, now known as "Death Corner," at Oak street and Milton avenue. I am still proud to say I was brought up in "Little Hell," as is Steve Gentle, one of my neighbors out here in Cedar Falls, Ia. William Mulvaney.

The Western News company store in the '70s, as I remember it, was where Mandel's now stands, not on the west side of State, as a helper states. North were 31 book stores all in the same row. The first one north was S. C. Griggs & Co., later known as A. C. McClurg's. Another was W. B. Keene-Cooke & Co., no longer in business. After the 1871 fire, the Western News was located at Jefferson and Randolph, S. C. Griggs at 607 South Wabash, and W. B. Keene-Cooke at the foot of Washington on the lake front. Old Timer, 1868.

Lullaby to Nancy.

[With a leaning toward Cheirosophy.]

Sleep, my love,
And while you lie there, gently breathing,
Brief respite in your bout with teething,
I'll take your hand so small in mine so vast
And hint your future—none knows your past,
For it is linked with heaven, cherubim and peace,
And three months' stay on this drab earth, my niece.
I'll pry that small secretive thumb from where it grips
That pink-lined palm, and note the rosy finger tips
Are tilted back, indicative of generosity;
With such a supple thumb, avaunt pomposity!
[No stiff-necked pride, unbending here,
She'll give herself with all her alms, the dear.]
A cross on Jupiter—a marriage most auspicious;
A splendid Mount of Venus—nor's Fate capricious
With head and life lines. From Jupiter, your heart line
Rises clear and fine to Mercury—an excellent sign—
And Fortune's in your line of Saturn to the wrist.
Farewell, my fancy! See how your palm shuts into a dimpled fist
That guards these records, so unspoiled and new,
So many roads to travel, Love, so much ahead to do.
Lie still, my sweet. Nimrod.

SO. METHODIST SQUAD TO REACH PASADENA TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 27.—Southern Methodist university's Mustangs stopped here today for a long workout on the University of Arizona field in preparation for the annual Rose Bowl game against Stanford at Pasadena New Year's day. The Mustangs will arrive in Pasadena tomorrow and will go through a short drill on the Occidental college field.

Matty Bell, coach of the southwest champions, watched the team pass and run, but kept his eyes trained on Maurice Orr, 210 pound tackle and star field goal kicker, who shot the ball between the uprights from all angles during the session. Bell admitted Orr's right foot may bring Southern Methodist victory.

Orr Gets the Range.

Orr, who kicked five field goals and 22 points after touchdown in 12 games, several times sent the ball over from the 40 yard line. However, Coach Bell believes Stanford's star kicker, Monk Moscrip, may win for the Indians.

"Orr is one of the best kickers I have seen, but Moscrip will score if Stanford gets close," Bell said. "Orr seldom tries to kick from outside the 25 yard line, but can kick from the 35 yard stripe."

Former Coach Likes Mustangs.

Coach Bell declined to make a prediction on the outcome of the contest. However, Ray Morrison, former coach of the Mustangs and now coach at Vanderbilt university, declared Southern Methodist will triumph over Stanford.

"I believe the Mustangs will win by three touchdowns," Morrison said. "I don't think they can stop Bobby Wilson and beat Orr's fine kicking."

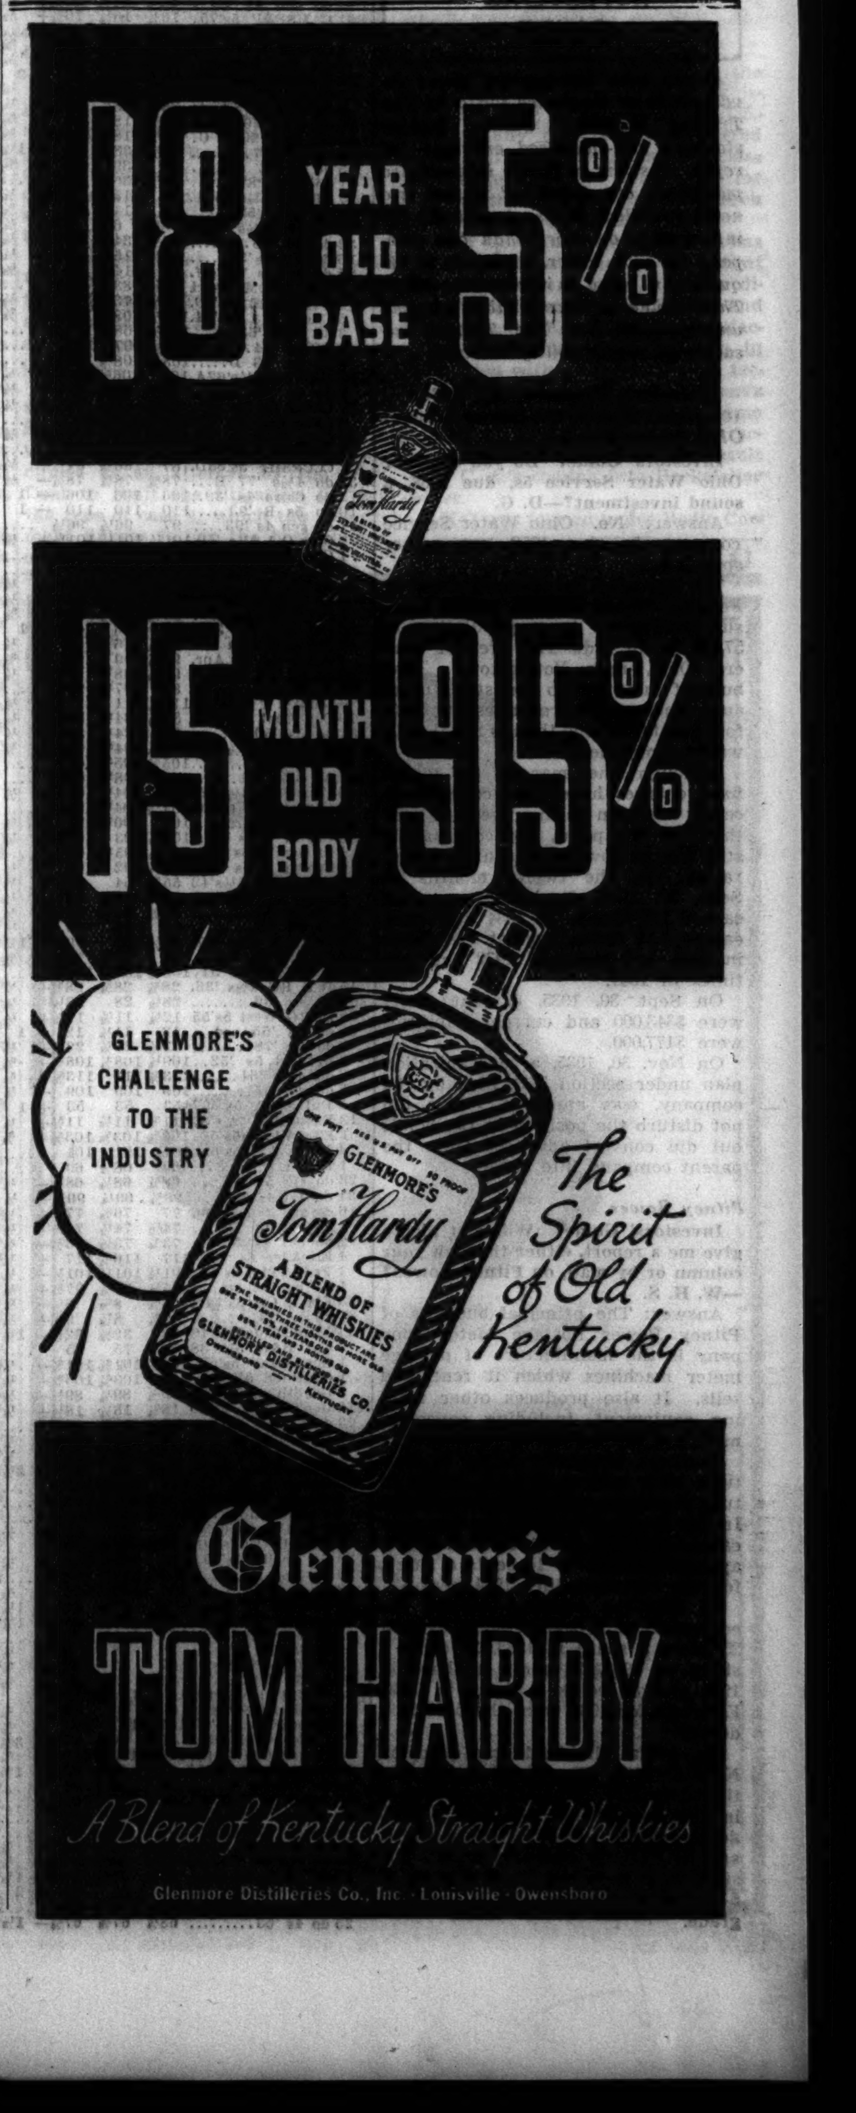

STANFORD PLANS DEFENSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 27.—Stanford's football team, which will make its third successive appearance in the Rose bowl on New Year's day, today worked on defense against Southern Methodist passes on a slippery field. Coach Tiny Thornhill appeared well pleased following the workout at Brookside park.

"I'm not worried about the Mustangs' passing attack," Thornhill said. "I was more worried about California's long ones, but Southern Methodist throws mostly short shots and I think we can handle them."

However, Stanford has not forgotten the great Alabama passing combination of Dixie Howell and Don Hutson which defeated them, 29 to 13, last year. More sessions on pass defense will be held before the Indians march against the Mustangs next Wednesday.

New York, Dec. 27.—Mixed trends dominated trading today in bonds on the New York Stock exchange. Realizing sales pared several gains attained recently but many other issues easily shook off the profit taking which appeared and pushed ahead for gains.

United States government issues sagged heavily late in the session after early dealings had witnessed a resumption of yesterday's advance.

Close Is Lower.

Most issues of the group closed lower with volume amounting to only $570,000, compared with $2,590,000 the day before. Total trading expanded about a million dollars, par value, to $13,910,000.

A few favored issues accounted for greater activity among second grade and speculative issues. Advances of a point or more were made by some of the Wabash liens, Southern Railway 4s, Schulco 6½s, New Haven refunding 4½, Ontario and Western 4s, Missouri Pacific refunding 5s, Manhattan first 4s, Cuba Northern 5½s, Ann Arbor 4s, and Milwaukee general 4s.

Postal 5s Cut Loss.

Postal Telegraph 5s sagged following publication of the company's earnings statement. They regained the greater part of their decline later and ended off ⅛ of a point at 34⅝. Hudson Coal 5s developed weakness, losing 3⅝ points at 36¼. Warner Brothers 6s at 86, Studebaker 6s at 85½, Southern Pacific 4½s at 75½, Great Northern 4½s at 96½, and Pere Marquette 5s at 98½ yielded moderate amounts.

In the foreign division French obligations were mixed as Premier Laval confronted a new cabinet crisis. French government 7s were up 3½ points at 180 and the 7½s were down 1½ at 171½. Italian loans also were irregular.

Ohio Water Service.

Investors' Guide: Do you consider Ohio Water Service 5s, due 1958, a sound investment?—D. G.

Answer: No. Ohio Water Service company 5s, due 1958, are rather speculative.

The company, an operating unit of Federal Water Service corporation, supplies water to a population of 57,000 in an industrial area of eastern Ohio, near Youngstown. The bulk of sales are to industrial users and, consequently, revenues fluctuate to a greater degree than is usual with water companies.

Although the margin by which fixed charges have been covered recently has been an improvement over the 1932 low point, the coverage is still too narrow to warant a sound rating. In the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1935, fixed charges were earned 1.25 times. In 1934 they were earned 1.19 times, against 1.04 times in 1933, 1.03 times in 1932 and 1.55 times in 1931.

On Sept. 30, 1935, current assets were $343,000 and current liabilities were $177,000.

On Nov. 30, 1935, a reorganization plan under section 77B, filed by the company, was approved. This did not disturb the position of the bonds but did convert advances from the parent company into stock.

Pitney Bowes.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me a report, either through your column or by mail, on Pitney Bowes?—W. H. S.

Answer: The principal business of Pitney Bowes Postage Meter company is the manufacture of postage meter machines which it rents and sells. It also produces other mailing equipment, including canceling machines for the use of postoffices.

Business ordinarily tends to fluctuate with volume of mail, which in turn fluctuates with business activity. In the first half of 1935 the company earned $177,000, or 21 cents a share, against $122,000, or 14 cents a share, for the corresponding 1934 period.

In 1934 the company earned the equivalent of 35 cents a share, against 25 cents a share in 1933, 22 cents a share in 1932, 23 cents a share in 1931 and 32 cents a share in 1930. Earnings for 1934 were the best in a decade.

An initial dividend was paid on Nov. 1, 1928. Payments were continued in 1931, but nothing was paid in the succeeding two years. Dividends in 1934 were 20 cents a share, and in 1935, 25 cents a share. The stock now pays regular dividends of 5 cents a quarter. It is medium grade.

WHEELING STEEL 35 MILLION BOND ISSUE PLANNED

Will Pay Bank Loans and Retire Earlier Lien.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The Wheeling Steel corporation, of Wheeling, W. Va., has filed an application under the securities act of 1933 for the issuance of $35,000,000 of first mortgage sinking fund 4½ per cent bonds, series A, due Feb. 1, 1966. Of the net proceeds, $30,008,900 will be used to pay bank loans and refund other securities; $2,000,000 for additions and improvements, and the balance for additional working capital and other corporate purposes.

The statement said that $14,000,000 was necessary to discharge indebtedness to various banks. Another $16,008,900 is to be used to redeem on April 1, 1936, all the outstanding $15,695,000 principal amount of first and refunding mortgage 4½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, series B, due April 1, 1953, at 102 per cent with accrued interest to be paid out of treasury funds.

West Penn Power Plans Issue.

Application for the issuance of $27,000,000 of 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds, series I, due Jan. 1, 1966 has been filed by the West Penn Power company of Pittsburgh, a subsidiary of American Water Works and Electric company, which refused to register as a holding company under the public utility act of 1935 and has instituted a suit in the district Supreme court here to restrain the securities and exchange commission from enforcing the provisions of that act.

West Penn Power states that it has bee nadvised by counsel that so long as no one of the companies of which it is a subsidiary company, as defined in the public utility act of 1935, has registered as a holding company the provisions of the act with reference to subsidiary companies of registered holding companies do not apply to it.

Utility Will Redeem Bonds.

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—The Southwestern Gas and Electric company announced today that it will redeem on Jan. 27, 1936, all of its outstanding first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, series A, due Jan. 1, 1957; first mortgage 5s, series B, due May 1, 1957, and first mortgage 6s, series C, due Nov. 1, 1961.

The series A and B bonds will be redeemed at 103, and the series C bonds at 105. Payment will be made through the Bankers Trust company of New York or the City National Bank and Trust company of Chicago.

Cotton prices held within a range of less than 50 cents per bale yesterday. Although there was a small advance early in sympathy with relative strength in Liverpool, the finish was around the inside level. Chicago closed 3 to 9 points lower and other markets 4 points lower to 2 points higher.

Spot cotton closed unchanged with New Orleans at 11.75 cents, Houston 11.70 cents, Galveston 11.60 cents, and New Orleans 11.90 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

SHARP RECESSION IN HOGS INFLUENCES LARD MARKET

Sharp decline in hog prices led to commission house liquidation of lard futures yesterday and, while there was support on the decline through resting orders, the close was at net losses of 7½ to 20 cents.

Cash lard closed at $11.87, a new low for the year. Loose lard was quoted at $11.25 at the last with leaf at $11.50 and clear bellies [salt pork] at $17.75 per 100 pounds. There were no deliveries of lard on December contracts. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

ALL BUTTER FUTURES HIT HIGHEST LEVELS OF SEASON

Aggressive buying of butter futures yesterday lifted all deliveries on the Chicago Mercantile exchange to a new high for the season. While the best prices were shaded, due to profit taking, the close was ⅛ cent higher. December finished at 32¾ cents per pound.

Cold weather led to active buying of egg futures early, but liquidation developed later when 140 cars were delivered on December contracts, and the close was the same as on Thursday with December at 18¼ cents per dozen. Sales of butter were 198 cars and eggs 143 cars. Prices:

WHEAT SWINGS WILDLY; TRADING IN FUTURE ENDS

December Option Off Several Cents.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A collapse of 5 cents a bushel, the maximum permitted in one day, followed by a full recovery of the loss and then a second crash of 4½ cents a bushel, marked the final day of trading yesterday in the December wheat future on the Chicago Board of Trade. The contract was selling at $1.02½ to $1.03½ a bushel when trading ended, compared with the preceding day's final quotation of $1.06¾.

Seldom in recent years has the expiration of a future contract been accompanied by such wild price gyrations. The widest swings came in the last half hour of trading. Quotations changed as much as a cent a bushel between transactions, a rare occurrence, with the market advancing 5 cents and then breaking an equal amount in a few minutes.

Holders Overstay Market.

The final crash in the price, which occurred just before the close of the market, was attributed to selling by scattered holders of the December future, who waited until the last minute to liquidate in the belief that shorts in the market would be forced to bid the price up in order to cover their sales.

At the same time some of the large holders of the December future were said to have retained their interest and will take delivery of actual grain. The small traders, however, who were playing the market for an immediate profit had no intention of taking actual delivery and had to sell out before the session ended.

The market was so erratic that it was possible for persons with either a long or short interest to take a terrific drubbing.

Rapid Changes Confuse Traders.

The market changed with such treacherous rapidity that a trader found it difficult to know his position from moment to moment. Orders were difficult to fill because of the rapid fire changes and the absence of complete liquidity in the market.

The opening price on December wheat was $1.08 a bushel, over a cent above Thursday's price. Traders with a short interest who covered at that price could have bought later in the day 7¼ cents cheaper—if they had picked the right second.

To traders in the customers' rooms along La Salle street the market was even more confusing than to the trader in the pit. By the time a speculator in a brokerage house got confirmation of the execution of his order the market might have changed as much as 5 cents a bushel.

Brokers Try to Explain.

Many brokers had difficulty in explaining to customers why they got only $1.02⅝ a bushel for wheat sold when the ticker showed the market price several cents higher, but the situation might as easily have been the reverse, with the customer getting more than he expected.

For the first time yesterday trading in an expiring future ended on the 27th of the month instead of the last day, as formerly. This change was made several weeks ago by an amendment to the trading rules. Deliveries may be made as formerly up to the last day of the month, but only on transactions made on or before the 27th.

This new regulation was designed to lessen the last minute congestion and erratic price fluctuations that normally accompany the expiration of a future. Actually, however, the congestion and confusion occurred three days earlier than usual.

Other Futures Are Quiet.

The price antics in the December contract had little bearing on the action of other wheat futures or of other grains. Trading in May and July wheat was quiet and price changes were small. May wheat closed at 99⅝ cents a bushel, off ¾ cent for the day. December corn fell 1⅝ cents as trading in the contract ended, but other grains showed only trifling changes.

Closing prices on the principal May futures, with comparative quotations, follow:

	Yesterday.	Thurs.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .99⅝	$ .99⅜	$ .99
Corn	.59⅝	.59⅞	.59⅞
Oats	.28⅛	.28¼	.28
Rye	.53⅛	.52⅞	.52⅞

To what extent holders of the December future held out for delivery of actual grain will not be determined definitly until figures on deliveries during the balance of the month are made available. Some brokers predicted heavy deliveries today, with estimates ranging from 600,000 to 1,000,000 bushels.

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Transcontinental motor service became a reality today with the arrival of the first motorized caravan to span the continent. Completing the run in seven days after leaving Los Angeles, the four big tractor trucks, drawing as many trailers, pulled into the city with 72,000 pounds of freight. Officials of the Keeshin Transcontinental Freight Lines, Inc., said daily schedules will be launched in April.

U. S. May Lay Heavier Hand on Grain Trade

A renewal of the efforts of administration forces to bring about stricter federal regulation of the Chicago Board of Trade and other commodity exchanges was seen in comments made yesterday by President Roosevelt at his press conference.

ROBT. P. BOYLAN.

The President told reporters that he was giving attention to "certain bad practices" on the commodity exchanges. The statement was made in reply to a question. The President said that he conferred last week with Robert P. Boylan, president of the Chicago Board of Trade. He described the conference as in the nature of an informal discussion to iron out certain difficulties.

In Chicago, President Boylan and other officials of the grain exchange would make no comment on the President's statement.

Seek Rehearing on Bill.

The exchange and other opponents of the commodity exchange bill passed by the house at the last session of congress have been attempting for several months to bring the bill back into committee for public hearing. It was believed here that Boylan had sought the aid of the President to get further hearings on the measure.

The question asked Mr. Roosevelt that led to his comment was whether he favored regulation of the commodities exchange similar to the federal supervision of security exchanges under the Securities and Exchange administration. The President replied that the question was too broad. He added that he had been talking the question over with exchange officials in an effort to eliminate differences.

Regard Roosevelt as Hostile.

An unfavorable construction was placed on the President's words by grain men here. It was pointed out that the references to "bad practices" indicated the temper of the administration. The contention of the brokers is that strict enforcement of exchange rules provides a better safeguard for the public and others operating in the market than do the federal regulatory proposals.

The commodity exchange bill had the support in the last congress of J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the Grain Futures administration, and the Farmers' National Grain corporation. The latter firm, a government financed coöperative, is regarded as one of the principal beneficiaries of the proposed act. The bill would give the corporation the right to pay patronage dividends to its member units on a bushelage basis, a privilege which is now denied to it.

The coöperative would also be protected from summary disciplinary action by the exchanges.

SILVER MARKETS FIRM; LONDON RISES FRACTION

The silver markets in New York and London yesterday had a further respite from the heavy selling which had been driving prices down since Dec. 9. For the second day there was no change reported in the New York price. Handy & Harmon, bullion brokers, posted a price of 49¾ cents an ounce. Meanwhile in London the price of bar silver advanced an eighth of a pence to close at 21 pence an ounce, equal to 46.66 cents. Montreal futures advanced 0.65 to 2.65 cents an ounce.

Trading in the London market was light. Offerings were smaller and were readily absorbed despite the scarcity of American buying orders.

CHICAGO SHIPS LEAST GRAIN BY LAKE IN 82 YEARS

Lake shipments of grain from Chicago in 1935 were only 6,823,000 bushels, the lowest in 82 years, Lyman C. West, statistician for the Chicago Board of Trade, announced yesterday.

Grain receipts totaled 13,534,000 bushels, exceeding shipments for the first time on record. Total receipts and shipments were 20,357,000 bushels, compared with a total volume of more than 50,000,000 bushels in 1934.

West said drouth conditions and curtailed production caused the reduction. Lake shipping as a whole during 1935 reached the highest volume of the last five years, federal officials announced.

INCOME OF 44 RAILS IN MONTH AT 5 YEAR PEAK

Total Is 60 Per Cent Above Year Ago.

Railroad profits in November were the best for that month in five years, based on results reported thus far. Another group of carriers yesterday made public their earnings which carried net operating income for the first 44 carriers to report 60 per cent ahead of last year. The improvement resulted from increased incomes as well as imposition of rigid economies.

Others Report Gains.

The New York Central reported a net operating income of $4,422,727 for November, the highest since November, 1929, when the total was $6,058,783. In November a year ago income was $1,706,079.

The Pennsylvania railroad reported operating net for the month the best in six years.

The Baltimore and Ohio had the most favorable comparison in five years, despite an expansion of $1,500,000 in expenses.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois enjoyed the highest November total since 1928, exceeding 1929 by 60 per cent.

While operating net of the Atchison was below 1933 it was more than double last year's. Northern Pacific doubled last year's total although the gain was not large enough to carry results for the first 11 months ahead of last year.

Operations of the Burlington lagged behind the general trend, with operating net amounting to $969,792, compared with $1,174,004 in the corresponding 1934 period.

C., Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Coincident with the current reports of high earnings for the railroads in November, the Association of American Railroads today issued its freight trafic report for last week, showing car loadings at the best level for the particular week since 1930 despite a slightly more than seasonal decline from the preceding week.

The total of 599,534 cars for the week compared with 615,237 cars in the preceding week, a drop of 15,703, but rose 51,056 cars over the corresponding week of last year when the total was 548,478 cars, and was 68,070 cars higher than the 531,464 cars in the 1933 week.

UTILITY PROBERS TOLD $50,000 INVESTMENT 'PAYS' BACK 5 MILLION

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Immense profits realized by the E. L. Phillips company through its dealings with the Long Island Lighting company were described today by J. P. Teller, an accountant for the joint legislative committee investigating public utilities.

Under the questioning of John E. Mack, counsel to the committee, he told of his examination of the affairs of the Long Island company and of his subsequent questioning of Ellis L. Phillips, who heads both companies.

Through Teller the story of how a $50,000 investment brought $5,080,000 in "dividends" was unfolded. One of the deals described by Teller involved the sale of a quantity of equipment by the Phillips company in 1929 which was valued at $1,200 and sold for $66,000. In that same year the Phillips company bought 3,500 shares of the lighting company stock, according to Teller, and charged the lighting company $28,000 to pay interest on the money borrowed by the Phillips company to buy the stock.

The Phillips company maintained a number of departments, such as legal, statistical, and insurance, which, according to the witness, should have been maintained by the lighting company. Salaries for these departments totaled $1,850,000, he said, of which the Phillips company charged the utility a "burden" of 20 per cent and "fee" of 5 per cent, adding $381,870. In the last twenty years the Phillips company has obtained $65,000,000 worth of contracts from the lighting company, it was brought out.

POLITICAL CRISIS LOWERS FRANC; MORE GOLD TAKEN

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Renewed uncertainty in the French political outlook sent the franc down to 6.58¼ cents, off ½ point, in New York today at the opening. By midafternoon, the quotation had firmed to 6.58¾, and improved further to close at 6.58⅞ cents, but it was still at a point where gold shipments were profitable.

The expected resumption of the gold influx from France materialized today when $2,555,000 in gold was engaged in Paris for shipment here. In addition $282,000 in gold was taken in England. These engagements brought to $836,700,000 the total of gold engaged since Sept. 9, of which $525,200,000 has been taken in France, $163,700,000 in England, and $63,100,000 in Holland. To date $823,400,000 of the gold has been imported.

The easing of the franc lifted the value of the American dollar against francs to $1.0068 from $1.0066 yesterday. Other gold currencies did not follow the dip in the franc, but on the contrary showed moderate gains.

The pound sterling, which opened at $4.93¼, up ⅛, receded to $4.93, but rallied to close at $4.93⅛, up ⅛ cent.

BUILDING AWARDS BEST SINCE 1931 FOR HALF MONTH

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Construction awards in the 37 states east of the Rockies from Dec. 1 to Dec. 15 amounted to $138,383,400, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation, the highest total for any comparable 15 day period since the summer of 1931.

Acceleration of the WPA program was said to have accounted for some of the increase. The aggregate compared with $43,635,200 in the first two weeks of December, last year. Residential awards amounted to $25,040,400, or about 70 per cent ahead of the $14,550,500 for all of December, 1934.

Total residential awards for the year were placed at $475,000,000, a gain of 90 per cent over 1934. All classes of construction this year amounted to $1,800,000,000, or 16 per cent over 1934.

Forest Bonds Sold Despite Near Default

The Forest Preserve district yesterday sold $470,000 of bonds, receiving a price of 99.255 and accrued interest for obligations which fall due in five days and will go into default at that time. The district received four bids for the block of bonds, the award going to Rogers and Tracy, Inc., who reoffered them publicly at a price of 102.15 flat [without accrued interest].

The bonds mature Jan. 2 and would have to be canceled then if not previously sold. They are included in the district refunding plan. Proceeds from the sale of the issue will be used to construct twenty new combination shelter houses and comfort stations throughout the preserves.

Bonds Bear 4 Per Cent.

The bonds bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent and are the balance of an authorized issue of $2,500,000. The Illinois Company of Chicago was second highest bidder on the issue, naming a price of 98.82.

The county board approved specifications for bids for selecting an agent to effect the $47,000,000 bond refunding plan already adopted by the body. Bids will be taken on Jan. 6 at 11 a. m. The specifications provide that the refunding agent must set an 85 per cent exchange of outstanding obligations for new bonds as the minimum to effect the plan, although a smaller percentage would be permissible with the consent of the board.

Exchange of Bonds Provided.

The refinancing plan provides for the exchange of new twenty year callable bonds for $35,781,000 obligations which mature after June 2, 1936, on a par-for-par and rate-for-rate basis. For $11,510,910 past due bonds and those falling due between now and June 2 holders will be asked to take either new 4 per cent fifteen year callable bonds or cash. The option would rest with the county board, which would first try to sell that amount of new obligations below a 4 per cent basis.

Bids for the refunding job must be under $200,000, the amount provided in the 1936 budget. The successful bidder also would be asked to act as refunding agent in refinancing of the forest preserve district debt. The district has $8,677,000 bonds maturing after July 2, 1936, and $4,308,750 which are now in default or will be by that date.

COURT BARS SEC GIVING AMERICAN CAN SALARY LIST

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission today was temporarily restrained by court order from publishing the salaries of officers of the American Can company or any other information which the concern regards as its "trade secrets."

Appealing from the SEC ruling that such information may be published under federal law the company won the temporary respite in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals until its suit challenging the constitutionality of the SEC act can be heard.

The commission has turned down the company's plea to keep secret the salaries of its officers and directors as well as data concerning its gross sales, profits, and losses. The company contended these are not "public information" and that competitors might use the information for "widespread price cutting."

Treasury 274 Day Bills Sold to Yield 0.085 Pct.

The treasury's latest offering of 274 day bills was sold at the lowest interest rate in weeks, the average return being 0.08 per cent on an average price of 99.939, Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday. Accepted bids ranged in price from 99.950, or an annual rate of 0.066, to 99.935, equal to a 0.085 per cent rate. Applications totaled $79,213,000, of which $50,000,000 was awarded. The bills are dated Dec. 31 and will mature Sept. 30, 1936.

ASSOCIATED GAS CO., AND HOPSON CLEARED OF FRAUD CHARGES

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—A special grand jury which has investigated the affairs of the Associated Gas and Electric company was discharged today without finding an indictment. The jury has been in session three months.

The investigation was made by the federal grand jury after compaints were received that the utility company, in which Howard C. Hopson, utilities magnate, is a dominant figure, had violated the mail fraud statutes through sale of securities.

After the grand jury was discharged, United States Attorney Lamar Hardy said: "After a careful and detailed study of all facts available, the grand jury concluded today that no indictment should be returned. I am informed that the conclusion reached by the grand jury is concurred in by the department of justice."

It was pointed out that this move had no connection with the federal income tax suit filed against the Associated. The government recently filed tax liens of approximately $80,000,000 against the company, Hopson, and associates.

TWO CHICAGO BANKS REPORT SURPLUS BOOST

Two Chicago banks yesterday voted to boost their surplus accounts, the Live Stock National bank making its third increase within sixteen months and the Upper Avenue bank its second expansion during 1935.

Live Stock National, which is controled by F. H. Prince, Boston capitalist, added $250,000 to its surplus account, making a total surplus of $1,000,000. Deposits were reported at a new high of more than $20,000,000.

"The directors regard it desirable to increase capital accounts proportionate to our strong gain in deposits," said David H. Reimers, president. "The current increase has been made possible by consistent satisfactory earnings. During 1935 total transfers of $500,000 have been made to surplus."

The Upper Avenue bank raised its surplus from $150,000 to $200,000. This amounts to a doubling of the surplus account during the year, as an increase of $50,000 was made in September.

"Deposits have increased more than $1,000,000 during the year and it is the policy of the directors to maintain the capital structure at approximately the 10 to 1 ratio," Henry C. Murphy, president, said.

Banks Offer U. S. Chance to Quit Lending

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Anxious to find employment for nearly three billion dollars of idle funds, the banks, through their national organization, the American Bankers' association, are seeking to persuade the administration at Washington to turn over to them many of the loans now carried by government agencies.

Should they succeed in convincing government officials of the wisdom of this program, they would be able to increase their loans and investments considerably, thereby increasing their income.

Inasmuch as heads of government lending agencies themselves have repeatedly urged the banks to lend more money in order that the government might reduce its lending operations, there should be no opposition to the plan in Washington.

* *

The big federal credit units, such as the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Home Owners Loan corporation, were set up as emergency institutions to function only until normal credit requirements of business men, home owners, farmers, and others could be taken care of by the banks.

Business recovery has proceeded to a point where many loans that were not sufficiently sound to be taken by banks a year or more ago are now protected well enough to warant risking bank funds in them.

How far the banks could go in taking over loans of government agencies cannot be ascertained at present. The RFC doubtless has many debtors that would now be suitable risks for banks. Preferred stocks of banks themselves represent some of the soundest investments made by the RFC. Present banking laws, however, would not permit banks to buy each other's stock.

Utilities Balk at Single Case to Test New Law.

Repeated demands by attorneys for the government that the Electric Bond and Share company's case be made the sole test in the courts of the constitutionality of the public utility holding company act are looked upon with much suspicion by utility company executives.

Utility attorneys complain that the Electric Bond and Share case raises the question of the constitutionality of only two sub-sections of the act, section 4b calling for registration and section 4a providing that because of failure to register a company should be enjoined from engaging in certain activities.

Other sections of the law which have been challenged in suits filed by other corporations are not covered in the Electric Bond and Share case.

* *

According to utility company attorneys, even if the courts should hold that the act is constitutional as applied to Electric Bond and Share, the question of whether scores of other companies with different setups were subject to the act would not be settled.

Other companies, for example, contend that their status is different from that of Electric Bond and Share, and that they do not engage in interstate commerce within the meaning of the act.

Attorney General Cummings' insistence that the Electric Bond and Share is a fair representative of the utility industry is regarded in utility circles as an attempt by the New Deal to limit the litigation to just the type of case in which the government figures it has the best chance of getting a favorable decision.

MAJ. L. R. LOHR IS ELECTED NEW NBC PRESIDENT

Aylesworth to Help Develop R-K-O.

New York, Dec. 27.—[Special.]—Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, who was general manager of A Century of Progress exposition in Chicago, was elected president of the National Broadcasting company at a meeting of the board of directors here today. He succeeds M. H. Aylesworth.

MAJ. L. R. LOHR.

Aylesworth leaves the presidenny of N. B. C., which he has held since its formation in 1926, to devote himself to the chairmanship of Radio-Keith Orpheum corporation. At the same time it was announced that Joseph P. Kennedy, former chairman of the securities and exchange commission, will undertake a study of the capital structure of Radio Corporation of America.

Study Not Explained.

David Sarnoff, president of R. C. A. and chairman of the board of NBC, declined to explain the problems of capital structure which R. C. A. has retained Kennedy to study. But it was assumed in Wall street that they involved among other things the problem of clearing up accumulated unpaid dividends on the preferred class B stock, which amount to more than 15 million dollars, or $21.25 a share as of Jan. 1, 1936.

Some pressure has been exerted on officials and directors to pay out the stock arrears in cash, but others believe retirement of the 495,597 outstanding class A preferred shares, which would require $27,257,857, should be undertaken and followed by a refunding of class B arrears through a capital readjustment. Last February all the preferred A stock arrearages were paid off.

As the corporation currently has at least $30,000,000 in cash and stands to receive $6,000,000 more whenever the remainder of its holdings in Radio-Keith-Orpheum are acquired by the Lehman-Atlas group, either plan would be feasible—provided sufficient funds are transferred to surplus, which was $10,506,487 on Sept. 30.

Dividend Requirements.

Maintenance of dividends at the rates provided by existing stock issues, however, would require $1,735,000 annually on class A preferred shares and $3,836,375 annually on class B preferred shares. Net income for nine months of 1935 available for such dividends was $2,801,123.

Radio Corporation of America has been through a series of important changes in recent years. It was divorced from the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing companies two years ago in connection with a consent decree terminating the federal government's anti-trust suit. At about the same time, the Rockefeller interests acquired a minority interest as result of R. C. A.'s coming into Rockefeller center.

R-K-O was formed under Radio Cor-

STOCKS WABBLE UNDER LOAD OF YEAR-END SALES

Early Firmness Fades in Later Dealings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 27.—The stock market today was a highly selective affair. Thinness of offerings on the upgrade at times caused sharp advances in individual issues, but the market encountered realizing sales late in the session after a smooth trip over most of the trading route. Year-end adjustments of accounts, tax selling, and profit taking were reported by brokers to have played some part in offerings.

Trading was at a fairly active pace, with total transactions for the session adding up to around 2,145,000 shares. Low priced issues like Yellow Truck and Radio accounted for a large part of the volume, but bullish interest was reflected by a number of the standard industrials—the only group able to show a gain in the "averages."

Various Groups Irregular.

During most of the session the rubbers, oils, some of the motors and metals, and a number of miscellaneous issues displayed strong tendencies, while the steels, rails, utilities, and airplane stocks were inclined to be backward.

The first rally in the price of silver in London since early in December accounted for a better feeling for the silver mining shares in the early dealings, but late profit taking erased most of the gains. American Smelting fared best, finishing with a point gain. Cerro de Pasco picked up a fraction.

The airplane stocks after several days of uninterrupted advance on news of large government contracts sought lower levels as profit taking made its appearance. Douglas, a leader of the spurt, lost 1⅛ points and Wright dropped a point.

Yellow Truck at New High.

Yellow Truck was a feature in the motor division, advancing a major fraction to a new high on a large volume. Auburn moved a point higher, and Chrysler picked up a major volume. General Motors eased a bare fraction.

One of the strongest groups was the oils, gains ranging from fractions to more than 2 points.

Steel shares were inclined to sag. Inland was especially weak, giving up over 4 points, and Bethlehem lost a point. Jones-Laughlin, however, ran up 3 points.

Union Pacific was a bright spot in the rails, but others were in reverse.

Rubber shares were strong, while du Pont and Westinghouse stood out in the high priced industrials. The utilities were moderately active, but fractionally lower.

MAJ. L. R. LOHR IS ELECTED NEW NBC PRESIDENT

Aylesworth Will Help to Develop R-K-O.

poration sponsorship in 1928 as a merger of important motion picture exhibiting and producing companies, and it was placed in equity receivership nearly two years ago. The entrance of the Atlas-Lehman interests into the R-K-O situation is expected in Wall street to speed a reorganization plan to take the company out of receivership, and it was this important task that forced Aylesworth to curtail his executive work in N. B. C.

Aylesworth, who has been regarded as the father of chain broadcasting, is not divorcing himself entirely from the network, Sarnoff explained. He will occupy a newly created position of vice chairman of the board and will remain as a director.

Cornell and Cambridge Man.

Maj. Lohr is 44 years old. His career has embraced the fields of journalism and engineering in addition to service in the army during the war. Born in Washington, D. C., in 1891, he was graduated from Cornell in 1916, from the army general staf college at Langres, France, in 1918, and from Claire college, Cambridge university, England, in 1919.

In 1916 he entered the United States coast artillery and was commissioned a lieutenant. He was made a captain in the engineering corps in 1917 and a major on Oct. 29, 1918. He was awarded the 57th infantry brigade citation for bravery and meritorious service while under fire north of Verdun on Oct. 12, 1918.

Maj. Lohr was a frequent contributor to magazines and edited and published various technical books. He is married to the former Josephine Wimsatt of Washington and has three daughters.

Built and Operated Fair.

In 1929 Maj. Lohr was appointed general manager of A Century of Progress and was in charge of the Fair during its formative years and during its operation in 1933 and 1934. Last July he was offered the position of manager of the proposed Chicago permanent fair.

Kennedy left the chairmanship of the Securities and Exchange commission only last September, after seeing it through its difficult organization period. He has just returned from a trip abroad, during which he made certain studies for the commission. He had been seeking to be relieved of his work with the commission to return to private business for some time. He explained today that his connection with Radio corporation is not permanent.

MONEY EXPERTS CONDEMN U. S. FINANCE POLICY

Warn Roosevelt's Plan Will Bring Harm.

BY REUBEN CAHN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 27.—Two outstanding world financial authorities condemned in the strongest terms the Roosevelt administration of the national finances at a meeting held today in conjunction with the forty-eighth annual sessions of the American Economics association.

At a luncheon given by the economists' national committee on monetary policy, Dr. H. Parker Willis of Columbia university, joint author of the original federal reserve act and former secretary of the federal reserve board, said in part:

"We are today in the midst of a fiat money period, and the country is being steadily flooded with fiat money. The reason that it has not had a more serious effect upon the value of money is that it has remained largely unused, as is witnessed by the existence of excess reserves and various other symptoms. The banks buy government bonds, pay for them in deposit credits, and the latter become potential circulation when they are used.

Describes Banks' Position.

"What the government is doing today is to use the banks as a vehicle for the grinding out of a circulating medium which has nothing behind it except the possible ability of the government in the far future to tax out of the people a sufficient amount of wealth with which to redeem its outstanding indebtedness.

"How far ought the banks to allow themselves to be used this way? Certainly there are few bankers who like the position in which they are placed, and yet they keep buying and holding immense issues of government securities which follow one another with regularity, as the money resulting therefrom is wasted or thrown away in needless, or in injurious public works.

"In spite of the fact that the banks do not approve of the policy in the abstract, they feel themselves handicapped or helpless in the face of it for a variety of reasons. Perhaps the most cogent of them is the fact that the government itself owns preferred stock in some 6,000 of the present banks.

Danger Is Recognized.

"Another important factor in the case is that the banks are already so heavily burdened with government bonds that they recognize the danger of any step on their part that would give a shock to the bond market."

Scarcely less biting was the criticism voiced by Prof. Edwin W. Kemmerer of Princeton university, recognized as an authority on money throughout the world. Said Dr. Kemmerer: "The policy of financing through inflation may temporarily yield a rain of checks to farmers, excessive doles, and unreasonably high wages to both deserving and undeserving unemployed and, in so doing, may for a time bring votes to the politicians who favor it. It is, however, a policy that in the long run will bring great harm upon nearly all classes of our people including those who now seem to benefit."

AAA Only One of Aids.

Chester C. Davis, agricultural adjustment administrator, in an address read before the American Statistical association admitted that the AAA was not entitled to full credit for farm recovery. In the face of claims made by the President, first in his recent Atlanta speech and latterly in his Chicago farm bureau speech, that recovery, and particularly agricultural recovery, had come as a result of New Deal planning "and don't let any one tell you differently," Davis told a critical audience that other causes were jointly responsible with the AAA for the upturn.

Davis was not here, but his paper was read by W. F. Callander, an assistant.

"Needless to say, the operations that made up the agricultural adjustment program are not to be credited for the whole of this improvement," said Davis. "Other national policies have contributed greatly, notably devaluation of the dollar and farm credit relief. Something must be allowed also for the country's recuperative powers."

He also credited last year's drouth with aiding prices of farm products.

SALES OF NEW AUTOS IN CHICAGO RESERVE AREA GAIN SHARPLY

In line with the heaviest November production of automobiles on record, the number of new cars sold in the Seventh Federal Reserve district showed a sharp contra-seasonal rise over October and a much larger gain over a year ago, the Chicago Federal Reserve bank announced yesterday.

Passenger car and taxicab output of 338,425 units during November represented an increase of 58 per cent over the 214,609 for the preceding month and compared with only 49,020 in November of last year, which was the low month of 1934. There were 59,599 trucks produced in November, or 1 per cent below October. In November, 1934, there were 34,462 trucks produced.

The number of new cars sold at wholesale in November was 58 per cent above that for October and 547 per cent ahead of November, 1934. Retail sales by dealers were 45 per cent higher than those for the preceding month and 96 per cent more than a year ago. Sales fell 6.7 per cent below October and were only 0.9 per cent above November last year.

HOG PRICES DROP 50 TO 75 CENTS ON HEAVIER RUN

Greatest One Day Break in Recent Years.

The bottom dropped out of the hog market in Chicago yesterday. Prices tumbled 50 to 75 cents, the sharpest one day break in recent years. Approximately 3,000 hogs were taken off the market by sellers near the close in an attempt to check the slump.

Packers have been trying for some time to bring about a more favorable balance between the live costs of their hogs and the market for the product, and yesterday was the first time they had a real opportunity to cut prices. Hog prices have been steadily mounting for the last month, while the unsatisfactory outlet for heavy product and declines in lard prices have been reducing the "cut-out" value of the hog to the packers.

Prices Attract Supplies.

The extremely high market for light hogs under 200 pounds on Thursday attracted a heavy movement of all weights from nearby territory, and afforded packers the opportunity to cut their losses about in half. Trucks alone brought in 10,000 head, with the total available supply slightly over 20,000.

Eastern interests took some of the lightest weights at 10 to 25 cents decline early in the day, paying up to $12.35, tax included. The bulk of the better grades sold later at fully 50 cents decline at $11.50 to $11.85, but most final bids placed by big packers on the hogs that were left at the close showed the full 75 cents cut. The average for the session at $11.75, including both the early and late sales, registered 35 cents decline.

Other Stock Declines.

Influenced partly by the severe break in hogs, other live stock declined unevenly in the slowest trade in weeks. Lambs fell fully 25 cents, packers buying most of the good fat stock at $11.25 to $11.40, with yard traders paying the top of $11.65 for a deck of natives.

Most of the steers were bought at 25 to 50 cents decline, good to choice grades sharing in the break. A string of light steers from the same feedlots that produced the $14.50 steers Monday, sold at $13.75.
